

"Wrong Attitude" Suspension Causes Show Increase

It is regrettable that a comparison of the causes of suspensions of operators' licenses during the first seven months of 1936 and 1937 should show no decrease in those violations which can be definitely classed as caused by the "WRONG ATTITUDE" on the part of the operator. It is encouraging to note that there were 252 fewer licenses suspended during the seven-month period this year than last year but the "wrong attitude" violations are on the increase.

For instance, 164 more licenses were suspended this year because of being involved in fatal accidents which, while not absolutely due to a wrong attitude would probably be found attributed to the motorists' failure to slow down as the sun went down; an additional license was suspended this year because of "evading responsibility" which is unquestionably an exhibition of the wrong attitude towards one's duties as an operator; forty-one were suspended or had their rights to apply for licenses held up for indeterminate periods because of "driving without a license". Forty-five operators had their permits lifted because of "failure to report an accident", another display of the wrong attitude towards an operator's responsibilities. And so the list reads on.

For the information of those interested in the causes for the suspensions of operators' licenses the tabulation of causes for the first seven months of 1937 and 1936 are given in this bulletin. We have noted above only the items showing increases. Enough other items show decreases so as to arrive at a net decrease for the 1937 seven-month period of 252 cases.

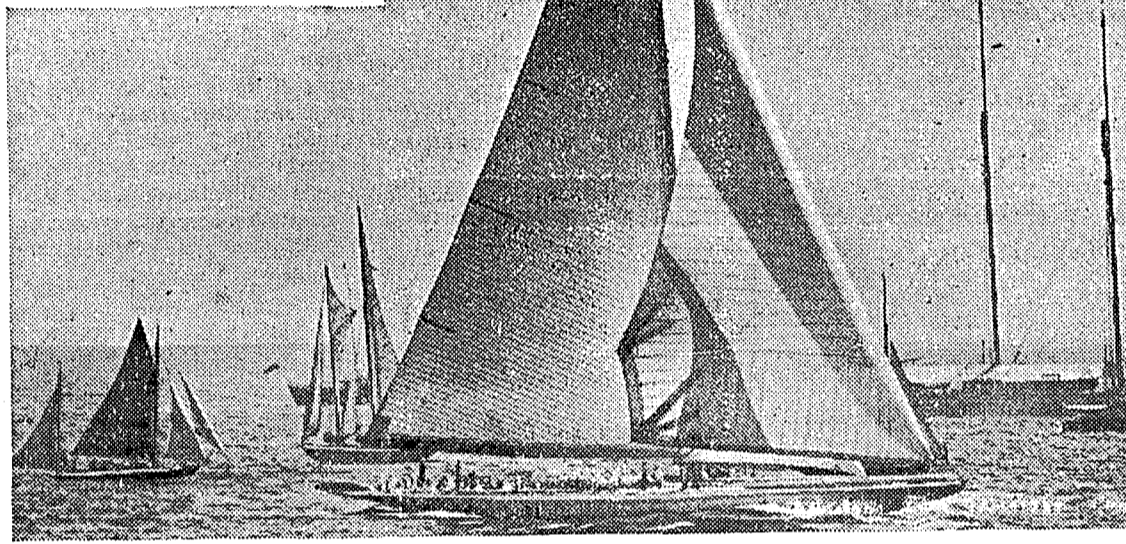

The Commissioner has emphasized many times that no appreciable improvement in the traffic accident problem of this state will be evident until the operators change their attitude toward motor vehicle laws and regulations, holding the latter in the same measure of esteem and regard as other laws regulating the social conduct of any community. It is not the lack of skill in the operation of motor vehicles which causes so many accidents as it is the indifferent or careless regard many operators entertain for existing regulations, traffic controls, etc. There is a small class of reckless operators who, unquestionably, should be removed from the roads for lengthy periods but the majority of traffic accidents are caused because so many motorists hold regulations in such light regard.

Concert Scheduled For This Evening

Miss Concetta Dicerbo
Will Be Soloist.

Due to uncertain weather, the Concert to be given by the Bridgeport Symphony Orchestra last Tuesday evening August 24 on the East Haven Green, has been postponed until this evening at 8:00 p. m. weather permitting.

As Mr. Joseph Panza will be unable to be here tonight, Miss Concetta Dicerbo will be the only soloist, and a slight change will be made in the program.

The program will consist of selections by Rossini, Puccini, Smetana, Romberg and Ponchielli. Miss Dicerbo will sing "Ciri Biri Bim" and Friml's "L'Amour, Toujours, L'Amour."

The orchestra will be under the direction of Mr. Frank Foti, which is a unit of the Federal Music Project, and is being brought here through the efforts of Mr. A. George Pascale, Director of Music of the East Haven Schools.

Despite the fact that the concert has been postponed, a large crowd is still anticipated.

In the event that it should rain this evening, the final attempt to stage this concert will be made next Tuesday, August, 31.

Local Girls To Attend Teacher's College

Miss Helen Malone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Malone of 69 Frank Street, and Miss Georgianna Hawtin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hawtin of 83 Hemingway Avenue, have been accepted at the State Normal School at New Haven, where both girls will enter next month.

Miss Malone, class of '37 E. H. H. S., was a member of the Debating Team, which held second place in the semi-finals being but one point behind Commercial High School, New Haven. She was awarded the cash prize, by the South School P. T. A., for writing the best essay on "Value of Musical Instruments in the High School," and helped toward the success of Class Day.

Miss Hawtin, also class of '37 E. H. H. S., unlike Miss Malone, was not so active in the high school affairs, but stood high in all her studies.

500 Democrats To Attend Outing

Five hundred Democrats from East Haven and the neighboring towns will attend the Democratic Outing to be held at Silver-Sands-on-the-Sound this Sunday, August 29.

Among the features of the day will be athletic events under the direction of Mr. John Stempick, a luncheon and dancing in the evening.

It has been reported by the ticket committee that ticket sales this year have surpassed all records of previous years.

Mr. William Hogan, head of the transportation committee, stated that all transportation will be handled by private cars, and that those desiring such are asked to meet at the Town Hall at 11 a. m.

Mr. C. T. Warner, Town Clerk here, is chairman of a large committee for the affair.

Tax Office To Be Open Evenings

It was learned, recently, through Tax Collector Thomas F. Reynolds, that the Tax Office will be open every Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening until 9 p. m. prior to September 15.

It was also learned that a new tax law is now in effect which concerns Tax Delinquency and the Collection of Interest. It sets a standard rate of 7.2 on both current and back taxes instead of the usual 9 on current and 7 on back taxes. In the case that delinquent taxes should lapse a few days into a new month, the interest is now charged on the entire month instead of the few days.

Laurel St. Residents Attend Hearing

Residents of Laurel Street attended the hearing, last Monday evening in the Town Hall, on the water main to be installed in that vicinity, by the New Haven Water Company.

Following the reading of the notice by Town Clerk C. T. Warner, the situation was explained by Mr. Charles H. Miller, local engineer.

Mr. Miller stated that the laying of the water main here, was brought about by the New Haven Water Company, and due to uncertain bounds, the property had to be re-established, place a map on file in the Town Clerk's Office and call a hearing.

In explaining the layouts to the various owners, Mr. Miller stated that the only layouts recorded were those established by the Chidsey Brothers in 1912 and that of McLay's property.

The laying of the new main is likely to involve the repairing and straightening of Laurel Street, following the work of the Water Co. This of course will be up to the Town.

THE COMING ELECTION

With Labor Day just a little more than a week away, the citizens of East Haven will again turn their interests toward the coming town election this October.

To date, actions along this line have been extra quiet, except for a few rumors here and there, about who is scheduled to be put up for Selectmen on one of the town's leading tickets. However, with the Republicans first campaign meeting recently, and the Democratic Outing on Sunday, it is quite evident that the political sky-rocket in East Haven has been ignited.

Bitter disputes will flare up from nothing from all parties, along with a good share of arguing until Election Day, after which the fire will simmer until it dies out.

New Law Affects Coal Dealers

During the last session of the General Assembly at Hartford, a law was passed concerning the many coal dealers of the State of Connecticut.

The law states that every coal dealer in the State of Connecticut must employ a weighmaster, whose duty it is to weigh the coal or coke and see that it is weighed correctly.

Application for a weighmaster's license under the new law covers the following questions: name, address, birthplace, age, if you are a citizen, name and address of employer, years of experience, type of scale, criminal record other than motor vehicle violation, and names of concerns for whom you propose to weigh coal or coke under the license.

The license is issued by the department of State Police, Division of Weights and Measures, and must be sure that the Sealer of Weights and Measures signs the application. The main reason for this new law, which will be enforced in September, is to eliminate the selling of bootleg or stolen coal or coke.

The East Haven Coal Company, Inc. wishes to inform their customers set of scales. They are the only member of the New England Coal Dealers Association in East Haven.

SCYTHE SONG

Mowers, weary and brown, and blithe,
What is the word methinks ye know,
Endless over-word that the Scythe
Sings to the blades of the grass below?
Scythes that swing in the grass and clover,
Something, still, they say as they pass;
What is the word that, over and over,
Sings the Scythe to the flowers and grass.

Hush, ah hush, the Scythes are saying,
Hush, and heed not, and fall asleep;
Hush, they say to the grasses swaying,
Hush, they sing to the clover deep.
Hush—'tis the lullaby Time is singing—
Hush, and heed not, for all things pass,
Hush, ah hush, and the Scythes are swinging
Over the clover, over the grass.

Earliest Paints
It is unknown who first mixed and used paints since paint has been employed from a very early period. White lead was mentioned by Theophrastus, Pliny and Vitruvius, who described its manufacture from lead and vinegar. Yellow ochre was used by the ancient Egyptians, Greeks and Romans. Pots of it were found in Pompeii. Naples yellow has been found in the yellow enamel of Babylonian bricks. Verdigris was familiar to the Romans. Indigo has been employed by the East Indians and Egyptians from an ancient time.

Build With Properly Prepared Plans And Specifications

What's What In BUILDING CONSTRUCTION

An open forum for the discussion and explanation of construction and material problems
By Walter R. Shiner
Reg. Architect, State of Conn.

SUPERVISING SMALL HOME CONSTRUCTION

It is common practice on the better class of homes to double the studs at sides, head and jamba of window openings, head and jamba of door openings, to double joists under all bearing partitions and around all stair or other floor and ceiling openings.

Large openings should have a 4" x6", 4"x8" or 4"x10" girder over the opening or be properly trussed to carry the load imposed thereon.

It is also common practice on small garages where wall board and novelty siding is used to space studs 24" on centers, rafters 20" to 24" on centers and omit the double studing except over window and door heads.

When the rough frame is up and the rafters in place, it is ready for the sheathing and the roofers. However, by the time the rafters are started, the carpenter will have most of the sheathing on to act as bracing and tie the frame together. The sheathing should be 1x6 matched N. C. Pine No. 3 or equal and should be well nailed to the studing. It is best to lay it diagonally across the frame as this makes better bracing but the same difficulties may be encountered if owner desires this method as stated earlier in these articles in regard to rough flooring.

A new weather protected wall board almost an inch thick is now used to a considerable extent in place of sheathing with a possible saving in cost of labor because there is less handling with the four foot wide sheets and it goes on quicker. It requires no building paper under shingles or clapboards and the water-proof surface protects the frame in rainy weather until such time as the shingles or other material may be applied.

The roof boards should be of 1x5 N. C. No. 3 roofers or equal and for wood shingles, they should be square edge and laid with joints 2 inches open between boards to allow ventilation from the under side allowing shingles to dry out from underneath without rot after a rainy period. For asphalt or other such roofing material, the roofers should be 1x6 (not wider) matched roofers. Check all this material before it goes on as after it has been applied, it cannot again be taken off and used again without losing half its value.

This is true of most building material and if the owner wishes any make any objection or wishes any change made, it is only fair that he should be on the lookout and have the change made before any work is started or material used.
It is enough that the contractor is obliged to undergo the expense and give the time to have it reloaded and carted back to the source of supply. Even should it be the contractor's fault, and usually he buys in good faith what he considers proper, it is a good gesture on the part of the owner to co-operate, and this co-operation will be rewarded a hundred fold before the house is completed if the contractor is at all appreciative.

THE PEARL OF THE EAST

by Arthur L. Griffiths, M.A., Yale

We are accustomed to call "The Pearl of the East" by the name of the Philippine Islands, yet two other names apply to them even more appropriately. These are "The Isles of Fear" and the "San Lazarus Islands." The name San Lazarus or Saint Lazarus Islands was given to them by their discoverer, Magellan. Magellan, you will remember, was the first circumnavigator of the globe, who never circumnavigated it. Why? Because he was killed on the island of Mactan in the Philippines in a native small war. Two of his original five ships did circumnavigate the globe, but Magellan stopped in the Philippines until the Resurrection. And on the very name of the one in Bethany whom Jesus raised from the dead, hangs a crucial epoch in the history of the United States.

The sound of Admiral Dewey's guns in Manila Bay, on May 1, 1898 was the signal that marked the re-creation of America of the North.

It was my privilege to be in the Philippines shortly thereafter and to see the wrecks of the Spanish squadron. By the reference just made it was intended to create the thought that the United States, then emerged from its own borders to become greatly interested in the welfare of others. The results have been astonishingly to the credit of the honor of this country. As Webster said of Massachusetts, "Massachusetts needs no encomiums. Behold her and judge for yourself," so it may be said of the work of the United States in the Philippines.

The Philippines are simply the higher mountain tops of a submerged Pacific continent. So are the other mountainous islands of the South Seas. Statues have been found in the Marquesas identical with those found among the Incas ruins in Peru. So the thousands of miles of oceans that separate the South American Continent and the Marquesas Islands were once dry land. And, as is often said, "thereby hangs a tale" which we will consider later.

A Needed Step Toward Recovery

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

After months of delay the Senate recently passed a measure providing for a count of the actual number of unemployed.

All Americans interested in constructive steps toward real recovery undoubtedly hoped, when they read that announcement, that the bill would pass safely through the remaining machinery of our legislative mill and go into early effect.

For, as one Senatorial supporter of the plan has pointed out, only by knowing the true conditions can lawmakers hope to steer a safe course through the fog which thus far appears to have obscured the way to solution of our No. 1 problem—unemployment and its relief.

And America wants that problem solved—not through wasteful methods of political patronage, but through some practical system of bringing together the capable worker and the productive job.

This is hard to do when government neither knows nor seeks to know how many men and women need jobs. It is hard to do when the laudable objective of helping the jobless is hampered by ignorance of who they are, or in what work they are skilled. It is hard to do when no two sets of official figures agree.

It is hard to do when facts are unknown and the course uncharted.

A carefully-conducted census should develop these facts—and at least some of the answers. And it cannot be made too soon. For on the success of efforts to restore American workers to their accustomed places in the activities of American enterprise—whether in the fields, the office or the shop—depends not only their own well-being, but our entire national progress.

This cannot be achieved through the futile and extravagant technique of a guessing contest. It demands purposeful study and constructive action.

Monument to Amundsen Is Unveiled

A monument to Roald Amundsen, the great Arctic and Antarctic explorer who was the first to reach the South pole, as it appeared following its recent unveiling at Tromsø, Norway. The memorial, costing $4,250, was raised by popular subscription. Its sculptor was Carl E. Paulson. Lincoln Ellsworth, Amundsen's companion on a North pole expedition, contributed $1,000 to the fund for its construction.

The Hat-Box

Juliet Caps

The Juliet Cap for girls and young ladies is making quite a sweep, almost to the extent that this little cap may become a fad.

It is a very simple affair—first a round tightly rolled edge with a pierced crown. At the peak is set a five-inch bow standing straight up.

When it is set on the back of the head with fluffy curly hair showing all the way round, it makes quite a picture.

The Juliet Cap comes in velvet and suede in all the autumn shades and black. Each black velvet cap has attached to it a little cellophane bag with three extra bows in different color combinations. These little bows snap in and out of place.

They are very neat and pretty and are growing more popular every day.

Making Roquefort Cheese

The process of making Roquefort cheese includes inoculating the curd with a mold grown in loaves of bread. The bread finally becomes a mass of mold in the spore stage. This is dried, ground to a powder, and sprinkled over the curds as they drain.

Dickens Danced at Night
Charles Dickens liked to have his children dance and especially delighted in the polka step. Often he would practice it gravely in a corner by himself. One winter night he awoke with the horror that he had forgotten the step and leaping out of bed diligently rehearsed its "one, two, three, one, two, three," until he felt secure in the knowledge of the wonderful step.
