Poem Written For St. Andrew's

St. Andrew's church at Granville corners observed its 50th anniversary with appropriate services Sunday.

The following poem written by Paul H. Stevens of Saltonstall Parkway, East Haven was read as part of the program.

ST. ANDREW'S 1892-1932
Here, on this corner, by Almighty blest,
Where roads lead yonder, north,
east, south and west,
Where cross the crowded, fevered
ways of life,
Amid these days of bloodshed, war
and strife,
St. Andrew's stands, serene, rock-
like and strong,
Unmoved, unhurried in the rushing throng.

They built far better than they ever knew,
That earnest flock, that faithful,
saintly few,
They fashioned more than these material things,
These walls of weathered brick where ivy clings,
This dwarfed, square belfry-tower
that stands roof high,
That brownstone cross uplifted toward the sky.

These things are but the outer,
earthly shell;
Around, above, within, our God
doth dwell.
Now fifty years have sped their storm-tossed ways
Down echoing corridors of yester-
days,
But through them all, St. Andrew's church has stood Four-square for Christ, Peace,
Truth and Brotherhood.

Thoughts On Thanksgiving

"There'll Be Some Changes Made" in our Thanksgiving menu this year. Although everyone will have enough, there will be a shortage of heart-burn and indigestion. About half of the groans usually issued at this time are expected for tomorrow. People are saving, are more thrifty, and are realizing the need for wise buying and eating.

And Why Not In Branford?

Lighting effects reduced to a minimum, street decorations so limited they are scarcely noticeable, no Christmas parade.

THANKS
Turkey stuffed and steaming pie juicy and wholesome; that is Thanksgiving. Tables can be as laborately beautiful as when Indian braves met with Pilgrim fathers to give thanks to God and the Great Spirit for varied harvest.

There will be sugar, coffee, butter, fruit, nuts and candy to make the day complete.
And we have nothing to be thankful for?
Thanksgiving for food alone is enough to make us, one and all,
bow our heads in silent appreciation. In many countries there will be no white linen, cloths set with dressing gowns, cranberry sauce and turkeys.

Christmas is Christmas, without a tree Christmas can be pretty dull.
Ten million trees were last year's cutting, 3,000,000 of them
imported from above the St.
Lawrence, but this December indianisms are that the supply will be ill.

sons in this country than were killed in action or died from wounds received in action in all the wars combined; that this country has engaged in from the Revolutionary War up to December 7, 1941.

The combined efforts of the tuberculosis associations, public health officials and the medical profession cannot control tuberculosis. The people must take an active part.
We must buy Christmas Seals,
the sole support of the Tuberculosis Association, as never before.
Buy buying Seals is not enough.
We must recognize the grav-ness of the situation. The very disease that kills more persons between 15 and 45 than any other disease is spreading in this country.

With humble and contrite hearts, we gather together this "Thanksgiving Day, 1942, to give praise unto Thee, most bountiful Giver of gifts.
The shadows of war darken our lives. We are menaced by the enemy from within and without. Our personal ambitions, our nearness and greatness are sent into danger all over the world. The evening of our ordered lives has been shattered.

Decorated trees are associated with joys of childhood and many a vacuum cleaner pusher will accretely be glad that fever dry needles will fall.
Most of the Vinea, artificial straw trees were imported from European countries and have been covered by QPA regulations, so long up the stocking, decorate the table and the mantle and mike ready to welcome the glad holiday.

LONGER WORK WEEK ESSENTIAL
In a survey recently published by the Brookings Institution, the recommendation is made that the actual working week in this country be increased from an average of 42.5 hours to 48 hours per week in 1943.

A DANGEROUS ASSUMPTION
Too many people assume that an all-out war has to be fought by an all-out dictator government. This is not true. And it could never be true because modern war requires gigantic production and governments are not producers. At best, they can force the citizen to produce under compulsion, after the citizen has failed to do so for one reason or another.

WASHINGTON SNAPSHOTS

The immediate future is described in the era of the vanishing civilian. Two major developments make this condition inevitable. One is the early imposition of drastic regulations curtailing, even banning, cross hauling. The other is the Controlled Materials Plan, the full application of which is almost certain to leave only those materials for essential civilian industry that the armed services permit. It is ironical control destined to skim off all the fat and possibly some meat.

Engineers, scientists, technologists, and inventors now in private industry will be asked by WPA to assist the War Department in a new program to redesign and improve our weapons with a view to saving critical materials, machines, and manpower. The Army believes considerable savings can be achieved by applying tested methods and skills acquired by men engaged in competitive private enterprise.

AVOID WASTE OF HOT WATER

WASTEFUL use of hot water in the home is another way of wasting fuel, for the more water used, the more fuel is needed to heat additional water. Now that the nation is on a war footing...

Children especially are inclined to dawdle over the washing job and waste water. Their aid should be enlisted in the business of conserving water-heating fuel for Uncle Sam during the war.

In the general conservation campaign of water-heating fuel, considerable savings may be effected in each home if the daily showers are cut short by a few minutes or a few less gallons are drawn for the tub.

William O. Burns, 27 Rogers St., Raymond Lord, Short Beach, Leonard Pearson, Short Beach.

Railroad Tries To Serve Men On Furlough

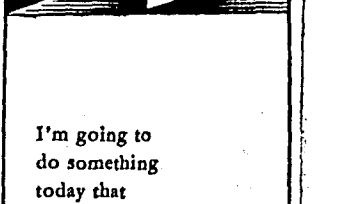

The New Haven Railroad is arranging to provide maximum train service over Thanksgiving, with every effort directed toward accommodating thousands of men in the nation's armed forces who are planning holiday reunions with families and friends. Service will depend on the availability of equipment, and will conform to regulations of the Office of Defense Transportation.

Through commuter service will be somewhat curtailed, as it always is on a major holiday, trains serving war industry workers will operate on regular weekday schedules Thanksgiving Day.

Pointing out that the forthcoming holidays—Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's—"belong to the men in service", offering to many men the last opportunity to visit families and friends for the duration, The New Haven is seeking the cooperation of civilians to refrain from traveling during these holidays unless such travel is absolutely necessary, or at least, to make only one holiday trip, instead of two or three.

In this way, civilians will make it possible for our fighting forces to enjoy the holiday season.

LIGHT LINES by R.K.

I'm going to do something today that I don't like to do.

I'm going to talk about myself. Do you know what the initials, R. K., stand for?

That's me Reddy Kilowatt.

I'm that guy who runs the gas lines. I power plants along the transmission lines.

I stop off at your factory, at your home, at your store, and any place else where I can be of use.

I represent the Connecticut Light and Power Company.

They keep me pretty busy these days, but I can on just as enthusiastically as ever.

That's because I realize what an important job I have.

My most important job these days is in the factories trying to help win this war.

I work 168 hours a week, twenty-four hours a day, every minute, every second.

I am quite an important guy even though I do seem a bit conceited.

But may I add that I am not conceited when I say

NUTRITION NEWS by Beatrice Hall NUTRITION DIRECTOR

CHEESE SOLVES THE PROBLEM OF MEATLESS MEALS. Share the meat so all may eat. Two and a half pounds each week for every person in your family is entirely adequate when a nutritious and versatile food like cheese can be made into so many attractive and delicious dairy dishes.

Complete the menu with: Buttered whole carrots; mixed green salad; "white" whole wheat rolls; butter; milk.

Like meat, cheese provides excellent material for building firm muscle and healthy tissue. It is excellent for body growth and maintenance. As a concentrated form of milk, it contains an amount of Calcium—the mineral so necessary for good bones and teeth, which meat does not supply.

There are a variety of main dishes made with cheese which lend more color, appetite appeal, and nutritive value to any meal. Plan to have savory Scalloped Cheese with spaghetti and cabbage for dinner this very week. Fry hot Tomato Rabbit on crisp whole wheat toast or a golden brown Cheese Fondue Cheese Omelet with a steaming Baked Potato is another delicious suggestion for a substantial meal.

Run 3-4 cup cottage cheese through a sieve. Beat 4 eggs, add 1 cup cream, 3-4 cup dried American cheese, 1 teaspoon Worcester-

Rental Control Issues Warning

Warning that a few Connecticut landlords are introducing new and unusual clauses into leases, designed to break federal rent ceilings...

Some leases contain new clauses designed to collect more than ceiling rents by making "extra" charges now for certain services which in the past were provided with the housing accommodations I want to make it clear that no new clause of this kind in any type of lease can be enforced today if such a clause was not a part of the lease arrangement on the maximum rent date.

Can landlords require that tenants deposit a sum of money to be returned at the end of the lease period if the tenant has satisfied all the provisions of the agreement? A—If the lease did not call for a money deposit of this character on April 1, 1941, then the tenant's agreement to pay the money deposit in accordance to the terms above the legal rent and such an agreement is not enforceable under the rent regulation.

Can a landlord ask the tenant to agree that the premises are to be occupied by not more than a specified number of persons, and can he prohibit the tenant from dog club. A—A tenant can continue to sub-let, if he had the right to do so on April 1, 1941, and he cannot be limited as to number of occupants unless a similar limitation was in the lease on April 1, 1941.

December 4—John Frank Fitzgerald. sub-renting without permission. A—A tenant can continue to sub-let, if he had the right to do so on April 1, 1941, and he cannot be limited as to number of occupants unless a similar limitation was in the lease on April 1, 1941.

Parcels Deluge Post Offices

The bulk of Christmas mail must be in the post offices by December 1 this year if deliveries on time are to be assured, according to Smith W. Purdum, Second Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. Putnam is responsible to Postmaster General Frank C. Walker for smooth and efficient air and railway mail service.

Unprecedented wartime demands on the postal and transportation systems, plus a prospective record volume of Christmas mailings, were cited by Mr. Purdum as necessitating earlier mailings than ever before. "It is physically impossible for the railroads and air lines, burdened with vitally important war materials, to handle Christmas mailings as rapidly as in normal times," Mr. Purdum said.

Unprecedented wartime demands on the postal and transportation systems, plus a prospective record volume of Christmas mailings, were cited by Mr. Purdum as necessitating earlier mailings than ever before.

The postal service usually borrows about 2,500 trucks from the Army and other Government agencies, and rents about 10,000 from private owners, to handle the Christmas mails. This year, it will be extremely difficult to obtain enough of these vehicles to meet even a substantial part of the need.

Mr. Purdum called attention to the task of the Post Office Department in moving millions of pieces of mail every day to and from soldiers, sailors and marines throughout the world. This extraordinary job must be kept current, even while the holiday rush of mailings is handled. Also, he pointed out, the postal establishment is operating with many thousands of inexperienced personnel, employed take the place of men called to the armed services.

In view of all these handicaps to the service, Mr. Purdum added, postal patrons should mail their gifts by December 1 if they wish to insure that their friends will not be disappointed at Christmas.

Yuletide Boxes Sent To Men In Services

In order that the spirit of Christmas may come to the employees of The Connecticut Company who are in the armed forces of the country, the Company is sending an attractive Cheer-Up gift box to the 102 men now in the service.

Mr. R. J. Bennett, Vice President and General Manager of the Company made the selection of articles from the results of a survey in which those in the various branches of the service were asked, "What would you like to find in a package from home?" From all the answers received from the service men all over the country, it was determined just what they do want and need.

"It is hoped by officials of the Company," Mr. Bennett said, "that the package will bring additional cheer on Christmas Day to these men who are now stationed in the four corners of the globe—in the fighting forces of the United States."

Samuel Moyle expects to move soon to Cornwall, Conn.
