WHY A WASTE PAPER CAMPAIGN?

Waste paper, which in peacetime is so plentiful that it becomes a household nuisance, today is a vital war material necessary in the manufacture of essential military equipment.

PATRIOTISM THAT PAYS

Out of approximately 125,000 suggestions submitted by employees of one company in 1943 for increasing quality and quantity and reducing cost of war products, more than 25,000 were found practical and were put to work in war production.

WHAT WILL IT BE?

Sometimes the critics, discussing with mixed awe and suspicion some gargantuan literary effort of Hendrik Willem Van Loon, were inclined to dismiss him with the epithet "populizer" as if the fact that his printed works had sold some six million copies made him slightly disreputable in scholarly circles.

Wac Is Given Choice Of Job

Whether the members of the Women's Army Corps are "keeping 'em flying" on the Link trainers or getting the message through on radio and telegraph operators or filling any one of 229 types of assignments, they have chosen a big place for themselves in the drive towards victory.

Choice is the keynote today of the Women's Army Corps. Under a new plan, just inaugurated, every Wac is given a triple choice. She can choose her job, she can choose her branch of the Army and she can choose her station.

From the great variety of 229 jobs, a Wac can choose the one that will best fit her interests, her skills, and her training. If she hasn't a skill already, the Army will send her to one of its special schools, there she can get free training in anything from motor transport to Army finance.

From the three great branches of the Army, the Army Air Forces, Army Ground Force, and Army Service Forces, Wacs can choose their favorite.

And from all the posts, camps and airfields in their Service Commands, Wacs can choose their initial assignments at stations which may be near their home or friends, provided of course, that Army needs permit.

A veteran is entitled by law to reinstatement in his former position or to a position of like seniority, status, and pay:

- (1) If such a position was in the employ of a private employer in the United States Government, its territories or possessions, or the District of Columbia.
- (2) If such position was not a temporary position;
- (3) If he left such position subsequent to May 1, 1940, in order to enter upon active military or naval service in the land or naval forces of the United States;
- (4) If he satisfactorily completed his period of training and service and received a certificate to that effect;
- (5) If he is still qualified to perform the duties of such position;
- (6) If he makes application for reemployment within 40 days after he is relieved from service;
- (7) If such position is in the employ of a private employer, the employer's circumstances have not so changed as to make it impossible or unreasonable to reinstate the veteran to such position or to a position of like seniority, status, and pay.

If such position was in the employ of any State or political subdivision thereof, it is "the sense of Congress that such person should be restored to such position or to a position of like seniority, status, and pay."

Rights After Reemployment
A veteran who is restored to a position in the federal government or a private employer also entitled by law to the following additional benefits:

- (a) He shall be considered as having been on furlough or leave of absence during his period of service;

- (1) He shall be restored without loss of seniority;
- (c) He shall be entitled to participate in insurance or other benefits offered by the employer pursuant to established rules and practices relating to employees on furlough or leave of absence in effect with the employer at the time such person entered military or naval service;
- (d) He shall not be discharged from such position without cause within one year after such restoration.

Right To Court Action

If any private employer fails or refuses to grant a veteran the rights set forth by law, he may obtain relief in an appropriate case by filing suit in the United States District Court for the district in which the private employer maintains a place of business. The United States Attorney or comparable official, if reasonably satisfied that the veteran is entitled to such rights, will on request appear and act as the veteran's attorney in the amicable adjustment of his claim or in the filing of such suit without cost to the veteran. However, Commander Robinson stated, he will not incur the expense of such a suit on his own behalf or makes application to the United States Attorney for his assistance, except as will be made by the Reemployment Committee and State Headquarters to do everything it can to obtain the reinstatement of the veteran. The final decision before sending a case to the United States Attorney is vested in the discretion of the State Director who will keep Local Boards advised of all further action taken in the case.

Controversies with Employer

Commander Robinson stated that it is obvious that misunderstandings and disputes will sometimes arise between the returned veteran and his former employer in respect to reinstatement. The conditions of both will necessarily change, and in some instances in many respects. Whether such changes are sufficient to deprive a veteran of the rights which Congress meant to confer must, of necessity, depend upon the facts in each case. It is anticipated that the employer will meet the problem in a spirit of fair play and in appreciation of the sacrifices made by the veteran, and that he will not take advantage of any technicality in order to evade his responsibility to the veteran. If, however, a dispute does arise between the employer and the veteran, a Local Board member or the Reemployment Committee should call personally to see the veteran and attempt by every means possible to reach an amicable agreement, mutually satisfactory to the veteran and to the employer, but without sacrificing any of the veteran's rights.

In trying to reach an amicable adjustment, the Local Board or its reemployment committeeman may call for assistance upon representatives of veterans' organizations or upon labor, civic, communal or post-war planning group, veterans' advisory committees, clearinghouse committees, or any other means which he or the State Director may deem advisable.

If unable to reach an amicable adjustment, the Local Board shall send a complete report to its own State Director.

Medical Attention

Many veterans upon their return, for various reasons, will be unable to fill their old jobs or any other job. They may be battle casualties; they may have service-connected or non-service-connected disabilities; they may require rehabilitation, hospitalization, medical appliances, or many other forms of physical care; or they may have financial problems involving pensions and allowances. Under such circumstances the veteran is entitled to the assistance of the Veterans' Administration. If it is not possible or feasible, because of distance, to take the veteran to an office of the Veterans' Administration in person, arrangements will be made to place him into direct contact with the service-connected veterans' organization "with the American Red Cross."

Pension Claims
The Veterans' Administration adjudicates pension claims of all honorably discharged veterans who served after December 6, 1941. It provides, in service-connected cases, hospitalization if necessary, domiciliary care, artificial appliances, a vocational rehabilitation service of all types such as shop, commercial, and university, and cooperates in vocational placement with the United States Employment Service. The requirements for eligibility to veterans' rehabilitation for veterans of World War II are as follows:

- (1) Active service after December 6, 1941.
- (2) Honorable Discharge.
- (3) A service-connected pensionable disability received during war.
- (4) A vocational handicap due to such disability.
- (5) The need for vocational rehabilitation to overcome such handicap.

It is first necessary for the veteran to file a claim for pension with the Veterans' Administration and secure a rating, stating that he has a vocational handicap before veterans' rehabilitation can be considered. In certain cases increased pensions are payable during vocational rehabilitation. The American Red Cross, American Legion, Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and certain other organizations have been authorized by the Veterans' Administration to process the necessary papers involved in the above claims.

If this has not already been done at discharging points, the Veterans' Administration also provides domiciliary care and hospitalization, if both are available, on non-service-connected cases. Applications for any of the foregoing may be made at any time.

Vocational Rehabilitation

The Vocational Rehabilitation Office of the Federal Security Agency, in connection with the State Board for Vocational Education of each State, operates vocational training in non-service-connected cases. It will assist in the training and education of those men who must learn a new trade or profession before returning to a civilian occupation and who do not come under the jurisdiction of the Veterans' Administration because they have no service-connected disability.

Educational and Other Problems

Provisions have been made with the United States Armed Forces Institute, Madison, Wisconsin, to provide records of courses taken by military personnel while in non-vice. This Institute also will give veterans special examinations to serve as a basis of credit by civilian schools.

AIR TRANSPORT BASE IN INDIA—Eugene A. Dombrowski, son of Mrs. A. Dombrowski, 45 Hillside Avenue, has been promoted from sergeant to Staff Sergeant. It was announced by his commanding officer.

Following a period of hospitalization, Harry Carter, U. S. Coast Guard is recuperating at the home of his parents in Saltonstall Parkway.

When sailing ships give way to steam An argument evolved That has been fought from port to port And still remains unsolved. They ask in every fable from Tahiti to Tangiers, "Who's more important to this crew The Deck Man or Engineer?"

Out steps a lad who held the wheel "It's plain as A B C; You greasy coffee grinders Couldn't keep a ship at sea. It takes a brain to beat a tank Or chart an even course, You flunkies are as useful As a fifth leg on a horse."

"Tell that to Davey Jones," pipes up A voice from down below. "I run that coffee grinder. And it makes this rest-pot go. You swab the decks and polish brass You even paint the side. As far as sailing this ship—Mate, You're just on for the ride."

These engines don't respond to prayers: They don't care how you shout. They never move an inch if you Don't know your way about. You'll lose the argument with them Then, as a last resort, I guess you'd break the oars out and Go paddling into port."

Now this goes on all day and night, Tahiti to Tangiers. From boiler room to masthead fly The jokes and jibes and jeer. The controversy never ends, But we'll all bet our jacks That ships keep right on leaving port.

And keep on coming back. —"Palaris", Official U. S. Maritime Magazine

"GET 'EM WHILE THEY'RE HOT!"

Without it the ambitious kid selling hot dogs would not become the successful proprietor of a string of restaurants . . . Without it the little corner grocery store, built over a period of years to a thriving business, wouldn't have expanded—wouldn't have grown by the hard work of the owner . . . Without it there's no incentive for tomorrow! Call it any name you like—Free Enterprise or Democracy. Whatever you call it, it's the American way of life, which permits a man to invest his money, save it, or spend it as he sees fit.

Free Enterprise in the electric industry has given America more electric power than all the Axis nations combined . . . the same Free Enterprise that built our electric company, built our America.

Learn something about your War Bonds from this fellow!

THE BEST THING a bulldog does is HANG ON! Once he gets hold of something, it's mighty hard to make him let go!

And that's the lesson about War Bonds you can learn from him. Once you get hold of a War Bond, HANG ON TO IT for the full ten years of its life.

There are at least two very good reasons why you should do this. One is a patriotic reason . . . the other a personal reason.

You buy War Bonds because you know Uncle Sam needs money to fight this war. And you want to put some of your money into the fight. But . . . if you don't hang on to those War Bonds, your money isn't going to stay in the battle.

Another reason you buy War Bonds is because you want to set aside some money for your family's future and yours. No one knows just what's going to happen after the War. But the man with a fistful of War Bonds knows he'll have a roof over his head and 3 square meals a day no matter what happens!

War Bonds pay you back $4 for every $3 in 10 years. But, if you don't hang on to your Bonds for the full ten years, you don't get the full face value, and . . . you won't have that money coming in later on when you may need it a lot worse than you need it today.

So buy War Bonds . . . more and more War Bonds. And then keep them. You will find that War Bonds are very good things to have . . . and to hold!

Farm Accidents Show Increase

The Connecticut Safety Commission estimated recently that 14 persons will be killed in Connecticut farm accidents on private property this year unless operators of farm automotive equipment and other machines for increasing production when manpower is scarce exercise unusual care and caution. Thirteen human beings were killed by accidents on their home estates during 1941 in this state. Figures for 1943 are incomplete, according to the Safety Commission, but the indications are that the total will be about the same as the average for the two preceding years, perhaps even one or two such deaths greater. "It is fair to assume, therefore," the Safety Commission stated, "that during 1944 casualties 'down on the farm' will be even greater because of the pressure being exercised on tillers of the soil to increase crop production. Laboring under adverse conditions, with insufficient help and through long hours, increases working hazards for the average man. "Tractor farm accidents have increased substantially in the past three years. The annual death toll in farm accidents has more than doubled since the war started. While tractors are essential to cut production costs and to permit development of large acreage, these machines are not to be considered lightly as hazards and should be operated with as much caution as any automobile on the highway."

FALSE TEETH THAT LOOSEN NEED NOT EMBARRASS

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.
