PREVUES, VIEWS AND REVIEWS
BY PAUL H. STEVENS

THE BOOK IS CLOSED

Six years ago to the day on September 1, 1939, we sat beside the radio in the living room of our home and heard the news commentators relate the moving story of the Nazi march on Poland, the British and French ultimatum and the declaration of War against Germany. When we went to bed that night World War II had begun. Last Saturday night, again September 1, we sat beside the radio and heard the broadcast from Tokyo bay, where, aboard the U. S. Battleship Missouri, the Japanese surrender document was signed. When we went to bed that night World War II had ended. The book, with its many chapters and pages of tragedy and bloodshed, of blood and sweat and tears, a book which had taken six years to the day to read, was at last closed. Finis had been written.

On September 1 1939 East Haven was a long, long way from Poland. It was all the way around the world from Tokyo. But as the pages of the book, now closed, turned one after the other, East Haven drew closer to those far off places. We learned names of places we had not previously known existed. And as the war drew nearer after Pearl Harbor we began to see our sons and daughters leave for far away places, some of them never to return. We saw a great Honor Roll go up on the terrace in front of the Town Hall and as the pages of the book unrolled further it grew to more than 1,000 names, and there were gold stars affixed to a score of them. Our mail boxes began to fill with letters from all parts of a shrinking world. We came to know the horrors of a World Wide War. At home we organized for civilian defense, and we helped the Red Cross, and we bought war bonds and contributed to war drives. We held salvage collections, aluminum, tin, clothing, wastepaper. We watched the skies for enemy airplanes. We heard of neighbor sons dead on fields of battle, in the air and on the sea, of others in enemy prison camps. In our churches we prayed for guidance and for strength. And then last spring the European enemy succumbed and we saw new courage. And now the book is closed. Six long, terrible, heartbreaking, costly, evil years have gone. May they never be repeated.

A LOCAL MAN HONORED

We are glad to learn that Carleton Gould of Prospect road has been appointed as the New Haven County Chairman of the National War Fund Campaign which will get underway later in the fall. We have known Mr. Gould for quite a long time and feel that the organization has made an excellent choice and that he will be able to guide and direct the campaign in the sixteen towns allotted to him in a most capable manner.

Mr. Gould is a town boy. He was raised here and after going through New Haven High school entered the employ of the Southern New England Telephone company. This month will mark his thirtieth year of service for the company. During those years he has demonstrated his ability as an executive and has won many promotions. He is now the traffic manager for the company, covering one-half of the state. He is especially well known throughout the cities and towns of New Haven County.

As chairman of the War Fund he will direct the campaign for U.S.O. funds in the towns which are not covered by Community Chests. Therefore his work will not embrace this, his home town, because East Haveners will give through the Greater New Haven Community Chest, but the fact that he has been chosen to head the work in 16 neighbor towns will undoubtedly add to our interest in putting the fund over the top this year.

Although the fighting war is over the war services of the U.S.O. must go on for sometime to come and the need is as great, if not greater. There will be lonesome men, thousands upon thousands of them, in the Armies of occupation in Germany and Japan and islands of the sea, who will need the ministrations and services of U.S.O. which we here at home will provide through the National War Fund.

BACK TO SCHOOL

East Haven boys and girls hied themselves back to school rooms yesterday following the summer vacation, none too eagerly because at best, the return to school after the happy days of July and August is more or less painful—to the youngsters. Last June the vacation season seemed to stretch forward endlessly, a gay succession of care-free days. But the season proved all too short, and now the months of school are here bringing diligence to books and the other tools of learning.

The Board of Education, Supt. of Schools William E. Gillis and the members of the supervisory and teaching staff have been busy with their plans for the school year and this week is largely being given over to organization for the work ahead. There have been changes which have been put into effect for the first time this fall. One of the most important is the centralizing of all children of the Seventh and Eighth grades in the High school building. As we have said before, we believe this plan will work out to the satisfaction of all. There may be some details which will require attention, but on the whole the centralization of the children where they can receive special and added attention and facilities, seems to be a wise move. It will relieve overcrowded conditions in some of the schools and net the taxpayers a sizeable savings in money which would otherwise have had to be spent upon enlarging the grade school plants.

HEAVY TRAFFIC RESUMES

Automobile traffic over Route 1 through East Haven has increased at least four-fold since the ending of gasoline rationing. On the Labor Day week end and holiday, travel reached the highest peak since before the war. There is every reason to believe that, as new cars are made available with the conversion to peacetime industry, motor travel will be increasingly heavy. We expect, also, that there will be a larger use of the freight cars of the highway, the huge and powerful trailer trucks.

Gerrish Hits At "Dictatorial" Rule In Town

In a public statement to Republican voters on the eve of Monday's primaries, Robert H. Gerrish, chairman of the East Haven Republican Town Committee, declared today that a small group of "selfishly ambitious insurgents" are threatening the Republican organization that has been responsible for a great part of the town's development.

"In local, state and national elections," Mr. Gerrish said, "the Republican Town Committee has served its party and the people of East Haven loyally, faithfully and with an exceptional record of successful progress. Now that record is threatened by a very small minority group whose predominant characteristics are dictatorial domination and lack of cooperation.

Paying high tribute to Harold C. Hall and Fred Wolfe, Jr., who have been chosen as candidates for selectmen by the Town Committee, Mr. Gerrish asserted that the Republican organization refused to again support James J. Sullivan, who is seeking re-election as first selectman.

"We have full confidence in the incumbent Republican officeholders, who deserve the major share of the credit for the fine administration of our town," Mr. Gerrish said, "but we cannot permit Mr. Sullivan to gain complete domination over everything.

"Mr. Hall and Mr. Wolfe were nominated by the Republican Town Committee after long and careful consideration. The committee is composed of twenty-one regularly elected members, and they represent all sections of our community. The committee selected Mr. Hall and Mr. Wolfe because of the sincere belief that these men will serve the best interests of the town and the Republican Party."

Mr. Gerrish pointed out that Mr. Hall, who has been selectman for the past six years, has an unusual background of civic and business experience and that he is past master of Foxon Grange, past president of the East Haven and County Young Republican Club, a member of the Visiting Nurse Association and Boy Scout Troop Committee and operates a successful milk business.

"Mr. Wolfe also is a prominent and successful local business man," Mr. Gerrish continued. He has been active in civil affairs and is a past president of the East Haven Rotary Club and a member of the

Clancy Heads Ticket Named By Democrats

At a Democratic Town Committee meeting held at the East Haven Town Hall on Tuesday evening, Sept. 4, chairman of the nominating committee Thomas J. Flynn presented a slate of officers for the coming town election. Almost the full roster of the town committee attended and voted overwhelmingly in favor of the slate presented.

The following slate was selected: 1st Selectman, Frank Clancy, Past President of the Rotary Club, and a well known business man in town; 2nd Selectman, John Mulhern, present Democratic member of the Board of Selectmen; Town Clerk, Burton Simons, veteran of World War II; Tax Collector, Mabel Hanley; Town Treasurer, Frank Messina; Registrar of Voters, John Carter; Board of Tax Review, Charles Capella and William Caswell; Board of Education, William MacQuiggan, Dr. Charles Donadio, John Stemplek; Grand Jurors, J. Winsky, J. Colbert and M. Sarason; Constables, William Gardner, H. Roch, F. Grasso and J. Jannotti.

A motion was made and accepted that the Chairman of the Town Committee J. F. Gartland be empowered to fill any vacancies on the slate that might occur between the date of this meeting and the election. The Democratic nominee for the Board of Assessors will be named before the Caucus on Friday evening Sept. 7.

The nominating committee was congratulated for their selections and Chairman Gartland stated that he feels the slate is one that has administrative ability, the necessary qualifications, and the practical background to the Town of East Haven, an excellent and successful administration.

James F. Gartland, Chairman Democratic Town Committee

East Haven Fire Company No. 1

His entrance into politics is predicated on his sincere interest in good government.

"It is because of our confidence in the other Republican officeholders, with the exception of first selectman, that we have entered no nominations against them in the primaries."

The primaries will be held Monday from 3 to 9 P.M. with voting taking place in the Town Hall for the First District, in the Bradford Manor Fire House for the Second District and in the Foxon Community House for the Third District.

An interesting display of photographs of places and people in East Haven in the olden days is now on view at the Hagaman Memorial Library and will be added to as families having old photographs in their possession loan them for the display which will continue through the month. Miss Dorothy Howard has arranged the display and is being assisted in the collection and preparing the pictures by Mr. Donald Chidsey, local historian.

The oldest picture displayed thus far is a "tin-type" which shows the Town Green many years ago with an ox cart drawn up to receive a load of hay. Other pictures of the green show it as it appeared at the time of the tree planting in the early years of the century, as it appeared at the time of the dedication of the Civil War Canon, and later showing the band stand and liberty pole.

An interesting display is three pictures of George W. Atwater's Store which stood in Main street, dealing in "Groceries, Provisions, Fruits and Notions". The exterior view also shows "Nesbit's Short Beach Station" which adjoined the store. The trim horsedrawn delivery wagon is shown and also an interior view of the meat display.

Several pictures are shown of Lake Saltonstall in its heyday and there is also a picture of the Governor Saltonstall House, the "Old Mill and the Stone House. A couple of pictures are shown of Union school when it was first built, also the old post office building and the railroad station when it stood at the foot of Mullen Hill before the High street railroad bridge was built.

Second Division Saw Much Fighting

Three East Haven Men Proud Of Record Of Indian Head Group News of Armed Forces.

This week we salute three East Haveners, T-5 Robert L. Harnden, 92 Kimberly avenue, Pfc. William MacLachlan, 9 Talmadge street, and Cpl. Richard A. Stimpf, who fought with the famous Second Division. Harnden was with Headquarters Battery of the 12th F.A. and here's what he says:

"The break through was our hot spot. We had just moved up and had reconnaissance out to start a push of our own, when the Germans broke through the 99th and 100th Infantry Divisions. Remnants of those outfits were assigned to the command of the 2nd Division through the Battalion CP. My own closest scrape was on the 16th of December. They were shelling and I had my jeep parked and was in a foxhole about 25 yards away when a shell hit the jeep wrecking it completely. It made a believer out of me."

At the outbreak of World War II the Second was assigned to Fort Sam Houston, Texas, under VIII Corps of Third Army and there completed airborne training. Early in November, 1942, the division moved to Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, where it received rigorous winter training and in September sailed for England.

The second began its fighting on D plus one, June 7, 1944, when it went ashore on Omaha Beach and started to batter its way inland. Trierres, the first important town to come into Allied hands and a major obstacle in the expansion of the first army bridgehead, was quickly taken by the Division and Cerisy la Foret fell soon afterward. On July 11 the Second smashed its way over Hill 102, the heavily fortified slope holding up the advance on St. Lo.

In the breakthrough south that followed, the Second took a spear-heading role, pushing through St. Jean des Balsants, Vire and Tinchebray. It was then withdrawn from the drive on Paris and transferred 300 miles to the Brittany peninsula to join two other divisions and help take the important seaport of Brest. Hitler demanded that the city hold out for three months but on September 18, just 39 days after the siege began, it surrendered.

It was while the Division was in the midst of this important advance to the Roer River dams and after 24 pillboxes had been seized that the Germans launched their winter offensive. The Second, finding its flanks exposed when enemy troops cut into a neighboring division, gave up the pillboxes and moved to the flank.

With the resumption of the American attack the Division smashed into Hellenenthal, key to the second line of the Siegfried defenses, and then rushed to the Rhine which was crossed on March 21 of this year. The dash into the heart of Germany that followed saw the division sometimes spear-heading and sometimes mopping up behind an armored unit.

The division saw 320 days of fighting, battling 71 days without a break in Normandy, and after reaching Germany it fought 217 straight days until the end of the war without a break.

It had 2,900 of its members killed, 10,924 wounded and 109 were listed as missing while captured totaled 1,034. Total replacements during the European campaign were 21,373.

Pfc. Concelmo Saw Victory At Bastogne

Among the veterans home from the wars who have been renewing old acquaintances in East Haven the past week is Pfc. Joseph Concelmo, Jr., who was associated with his brother Andrew in the East Haven Cleaners before the war. Concelmo went through the thick of the fighting and suffered shrapnel wounds. He was in on the invasion of France beginning with June 6 and after fighting through France was in Holland by Sept. 10. Winter saw him in the Battle of the Bulge and he was among the first American troops surrounded at Bastogne during the Christmas season when the Germans made their bitter dash through the bulge. Later he crossed the Rhine and spent four weeks at Hitler's home, the Eagles' Nest at Berchtesgarden.

He has the bronze star, the purple heart, the good conduct medal and the before Pearl Harbor ribbon. He has had long military service having been in the National Guard, the old 102nd Infantry as early as 1924. Going out with the 102nd in 1940 he trained at Camp Blanding, Florida and as a sergeant did much training work until the experiments with the gliders and paratroopers lured him into the 101st Airborne Division in which he served as a private first class. His division is famous for its 72 continuous days in front line action at the time of the invasion and the huge breakthrough.

Christ Church Holds Victory Day Services

The pastor, Rev. Alfred Clark, led a service of dedication Sunday in Christ Church marking the complete victory over the enemy which came with the signing of the Japanese surrender in Tokyo two days previous evening. Special prayers were said at the communion service, and in his sermon, Rev. Win. Clark declared symbolic the way the sun, which had been hidden by clouds for days, broke through and shown full upon the Earthlings in Missouri as the army and navy leaders affixed their signatures to the document which brought Complete Victory.

Complete Victory, he said, has brought an end to the long war, and it marks the beginning of a new era, an atomic era which can be for the good or for the evil of mankind, depending upon how the new discoveries and the new powers are used by the nations. It is up to us, he said, Success has come through the Grace of God and Victory has been achieved through God's hand as well in the United Nations.

Now, at the cross roads of peace, Nations must be of help service only, thanks of the heart, a true dedication, living thanks day by day. It must mean the feeding of the hungry, the clothing of the naked, and the teaching of the Germans and the Japanese in the ways of freedom so that they may become a part in the peaceful life of the world. It must mean living thanks to God who has given the Victory.

The Atomic discoveries, he said,

Must be harnessed for the benefit of mankind. But great as are the powers of the Atomic force, a greater power had been in the world for 1000 years. From all who have fallen in the great war comes the challenge this VJ Day to build a better world of truth and justice. Thanks be to God who has given us the Victory. METCALF'S

Gen. Knox Says

The other day I was walking along Dodge avenue and at the corner of Thompson avenue I saw a sign which had been put up there by the State Highway Department. It read "BBBB" I took out my extra glasses which ease my old sight a little when I can't see so good with my regular cheaters and the sign still read "BBBB". Then I saw that some of our East Haven youngsters—boys will be boys you know—had taken some black paint and defaced the "STOP" sign so that it was not recognizable as such. Then a little later as I walked down Thompson avenue I saw other traffic signs that had been tampered with. For instance those wise guy boys had changed the State speed limit on Thompson avenue to 90 miles an hour instead of 30. Other signs had also been marked up the art of sign painting if they ever get sense enough to do anything useful. Now it don't seem right to me for boys to mark up and deface public signs like this. It costs the State good money to prepare and paint these signs and I can't see any good reason why boys would want to do things like this. To me such things to say nothing of the turning over of gravesites in the cemetery and the smearing of the Civil War Cannon on the Town Green and the ripping down of fences, lower the fence, but hang-out for the men of the town where rosaly flowed as freely as ever it did between the women folk over the back fences. We didn't have anything quite so important as a lively stable but if you wanted to hire a horse and rig Constable Jim Senik could usually find what was needed.

Even as late as 25 years ago the automobile had made few inroads here and the town's general population of more than two hundred which no matter how you figure it was a lot of horses for a town the size of East Haven. There were runaway horses aplenty in those days. I recall a horse being frightened one day by an automobile chugging along Main street near the old Town Hall. That horse went on a rampage that took him all the way across the town to the city line where he was later found peacefully nibbling grass at the foot of Beacon Hill.

On a pleasant Sunday afternoon a family whose name escapes me now but who old-time like myself ought to recall were riding behind the family horse down south of town. The horse supposedly ran every road hereabouts and had been docile enough, plodding here and there a long time. But on this Sunday afternoon something happened to frighten the animal. He snorted, lurched to one side and then ran pellmell down lower Thompson avenue toward the old Causeway bridge where the Airport is today. Husband and wife hung on for dear life but a five year old daughter, sitting with her brother in the back seat, lost her balance as the carriage swayed near the bridge. She fell out and fractured her arm about the elbow. The youngster went out to the barn in the rear yard one afternoon after returning home from Union school. The boy was found to be dead near the horstall where the horse had kicked him in the head.

Little Episodes From Old East Haven

By the Old-Timer

They used to call East Haven in the old days "a one-horse town." But that was not true by any stretch of the imagination. There were a lot of horses here and many of the leading citizens prided themselves in the horses they kept. Some of the old barns which we see along Thompson avenue and some of other fine old residential thoroughfares testify to the fact that horses were plentiful here in the good old days. Nate Palmer, the veterinarian who lives out on West Main street, would be pleased to keep him busy caring for the ailing equines of this section and there was a time when we had two brassy blacksmiths, Barney Beaulac and Horace Smith, whose establishments on Main street were not only busy with the work of shoeing but also with the mending of harnesses and the mending of the Civil War Cannon on the Town Green and the ripping down of fences, lower the fence, but hang-out for the men of the town where rosaly flowed as freely as ever it did between the women folk over the back fences. We didn't have anything quite so important as a lively stable but if you wanted to hire a horse and rig Constable Jim Senik could usually find what was needed.

Hospitalization Plan Providing For Conversion

War workers released from their jobs on account of cancellation of war contracts where they have been members of the Connecticut Blue Cross hospitalization plan through payroll deduction may continue as subscribers to the plan during periods of unemployment, it was announced by C. H. Holt, Acting General Manager of the Connecticut Hospital Service, Inc.

Mr. Holt pointed out that the hospital plan in developing its new Blue Cross contract made provision for just such a condition as we are now experiencing, that is, the laying off of a large number of employed persons temporarily during the conversion period. Under the provisions of the new contract, members of the Blue Cross enrolled on the group basis may continue their protection during periods of unemployment provided such unemployment is in excess of one month and for a period not exceeding six months or one-half the premium rates that they were paying while they were employed. This reduced rate is available only if the unemployed person has registered for employment with a U.S. Employment Office and has agreed to accept any employment for which he or she is qualified.

Mr. Holt stated that a notice will be sent to each subscribing member as they are reported "dropped" from any payroll. However, he advised that if such notice is not received within thirty days of the date last employed or the member has changed his address since joining, he should get in touch with one of the offices of the Blue Cross Plan. Members may contact the main office at 152 Temple Street in New Haven, or one of the Branch Offices located in Bridgeport, Danbury, Hartford, Norwich, and Waterbury.

MEMO To Mrs. Housewife

NATIONAL PRESS BUILDING WASHINGTON, D. C.

By Ann Gunde

And what about sugar? There is the know-prophet that the shortage will remain critical for the next nine months or so. Little sugar will come from the Philippines this year due to Jap destruction of cane acreage. Cane and confectioners sugars may appear on shelves soon due to cancellation of some Lead Lease and reduction of Army needs.

They're taking the sting out of it. At least Canadian honey producers make that claim about one strain.

Since real mayonnaise sometimes disappears from grocery shelves (though it may be there next time) "stretch" it may be a handy trick spread by mixing it with fillings such as deviled ham or egg. Then you won't have to spread both sides of the bread.

No soap rationing says Agriculture Secretary Anderson. And more good news because manufacturers will be permitted to produce about 10% more laundry soaps, granulated soap, etc. in the next year.

Don't forget, too, to can all those fresh vegetables you can't use from your Victory Garden. They'll certainly be meat-savers next winter.

Recent surveys conducted in cooperation with the Dept. of Agriculture indicate that butter on the average contains 16,000 U.S.P. units of Vitamin A. Already one brand of margarine, Nucleon, has raised its Vitamin A content to meet this standard. Others probably will follow.

DPA officials are very tight-lipped about new ration book #5-141 in "different" is about all they say.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Tourtellotte celebrated their Golden Wedding Sunday in the chapel of St. Andrew's Methodist church. The couple has lived in the Fairmount district since May, 1907 when they built a home on Huntington avenue. Seventeen years later they moved to their present address, 31 Fairmount avenue. Mr. Tourtellotte came to New Haven in 1893 from East Thompson, Conn., and was employed as a telegrapher for the New Haven Railroad. He was retired at his own request July 1, 1937.

His wife, Miss Laura F. Pillow came to New Haven from Redding, Conn. Meeting and deciding to travel the rest of the journey of life together they went to the paragon of the New Haven First Baptist church then located on Greene street and were married by the Rev. John H. Mason on Sept. 2, 1895.

Special features will include an overhead traveling crane, full length inspection pits, high speed locomotive jacks, a drop table and an overhead inspection platform. Small individual shops for the repair of electrical, air brake, and signal equipment will complement the main shop. Modern locker room and wash room facilities will be provided.

Garden Notes

Sponsored by Branford Garden Club Mrs. M. D. Stanley, Correspondent

The monthly board meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Samuel A. Griswold, president, on Friday at 10 A.M. Mrs. Frank Lowe, Vice-Chairman, reported on the Harvest Bird Collection. The Library trustees have granted permission to use the basement room for the collection's permanent home. Mr. Armstrong has been engaged to renovate the collection and after that has been completed the birds will be placed in glass cases and carefully marked with names and description. The plan, at present, is to have the room open weekly, for collection purposes, and a member of the club in attendance.

Mrs. Charles E. Smith gave a detailed report on the fall collection. Mrs. Smith and her committee were given a vote of thanks for the splendid work done. Mrs. Arthur Alting was also given a vote of thanks for her faithful bookkeeping job at the auction.

Other reports were given. Mrs. Griswold showed some very unusual and interesting pressed flower books, which she had recently obtained. These will be shown at a club meeting and they are well worth seeing.

Seed tea and Ida's cookies were served.

Regular meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas P. Paradise, Rockland Park, on Friday, September 7th at 2:45. Speaker, Dr. Suchen Lai; Subject, "Chinese Flower Arrangements." A hardy, shapely shrub, Stinegold Hypericum Patulum, grows from early summer until frost into an almost completely oval globe of approximately three feet in diameter, and about 18 to 24 inches in height.

It bears its cyanes of golden flowers at the end of every shoot of the summer's new growth and flowers more freely and much longer than any of the Hypericum Patulum now in general use. It is excellent for the border or in the foreground of taller shrubs.

REPUBLICAN VOTERS

For years, the Republican Town Committee has directed the administration of the Town of East Haven.

The condition of the town—its business, its finances, its improvements, its growth and development—is ample proof of the high efficiency and effectiveness of our efforts.

Now your Town Committee is being attacked.

By whom?

By a few insurgents whose personal ambitions overshadow their loyalty to the party that made them what they are. With each passing year, they have assumed more and more of the unpleasant aspects of dictatorial domination. They have finally reached the point where their party, their Town Committee, the townspeople themselves, are secondary to their selfish ambitions.

The Republican Party is no place for dictators.

For that reason—and for the marked absence of any sort of cooperation from them in fostering the best interests of the town—the Republican Town Committee refused renomination to their leader as first selectman. We support and approve, however, the other Republican office-holders who deserve the major share of the credit for the administration's success.

To augment the services of these fine people and to work with them and for the town, we have nominated to head the regular, official Republican ticket two outstanding Republican leaders and citizens—Harold C. Hall and Fred Wolfe, Jr.

THE TEST COMES MONDAY!

The Republican primaries will be held from 3 to 9 p. m. in the Town Hall for the First District, in the Bradford Manor Fire House for the Second District and in the Foxon Community House for the Third District.

Go to the primaries and vote for the Republican organization that has carried your party to success for over 20 years.

THIS IS NO TIME FOR INSURGENTS, REVOLUTIONS OR DICTATORS.
