WHY NOT DIAGONAL PARKING?

We understand suggestions are being made to the town fathers that diagonal parking be installed on the south side of Main street between the Leo Motors Branch and Hemingway avenue. Such a plan for parking would ease a situation which has become increasingly difficult this summer with the growth of business in that block. The opening of two retail food establishments entering largely to the automobile trade has brought a heavy influx of cars to that neighborhood. Parallel parking at the curb is difficult at best and does not allow for much parking space. On the other hand diagonal parking would permit more cars to park there and make it easy for the drivers.

The idea seems to us to be a very good one and we hope that the Board of Public Safety and the other town fathers having supervision over parking will take kindly to the proposal. There is ample room at that end of Main street for this kind of parking. Other towns have it and it works well under certain conditions. These conditions are present here.

And while we are on the subject of automobile parking we would like to know what has happened to the petition of the West Eiders for the lifting of the parking ban in the vicinity of Pardee place. As we have pointed out previously this parking ban is no longer effective except as a means for scaring away prospective customers who are not familiar with the community.

AT THE CHESTER FAIR

We took in the first Country Fair of the 1946 season Saturday and had a swell time.

Chester Fair, the opening gun in a long series of agricultural shows arranged for rural Connecticut this season, came up to all expectations. The weather left nothing to be desired. Although the date was late August the setting was typically Autumn with clear blue sky, fleecy high-riding clouds, and a bright sun not too hot for comfort. The Fair Grounds, no longer the Town Green, traditional site for Chester Fairs dating back to 1876, but the new grounds on the Hartford-Saybrook motor road, were gay and colorful with crowds and the paraphernalia of fairs against a background of verdant rolling hills of the lower Connecticut River country. Farm, orchard, home and industry were represented in the interesting exhibits admired by the milling crowds. There were farm tractors and jeeps aplenty but there were also teams of oxen as well, and these, as they strained and tussled in the pulling contests, attracted the same admiring attention as they have from generations of Fair fans through the years.

The Chester Fife and Drum Corps, the members colorful in their continental uniforms, paraded and played and drilled and a visiting drum majorette, pretty and petite, from Norwich added a modern touch to this organization which dates back to 1868. We noted among the drummers an old friend, John Francis, a one-time resident of East Haven.

There were features galore at the Fair. Calvin Hayland of Bristol with members of the Dog Obedience Club with their amazing demonstration of dog training, the greased pole contest in late afternoon, the focus of all eyes as venturesome youths vainly tried to reach the ten dollar bill attached to the top of the 20 foot pole, the poultry show, the farm animals, and of course the big tent where chicken dinners were served by the Chester Ladies from a spotless electric kitchen under canvas. The home made pies, the corn on the cob, the hot coffee, and the other delectables did not go wanting. The hobby and antique displays proved interesting to many, and the industrial exhibits revealed to visitors that the lower Connecticut valley towns are not lacking in mechanical and manufacturing facilities.

The 1946 season promises to be a busy one for the Country Fairs. From now until mid-October the fairs, many of them resuming for the first time after the war-time closings, will lure thousands of city and country folks alike. The Connecticut Country Fair, ranging from the one-day Fair such as that in Chester which opened the season, to the big one-week Danbury Fair in October, is a New England institution which never grows old. For the convenience of our readers, many of whom we know will want to attend one or more, we will continue to publish weekly the schedule of these Connecticut Country Fairs.

FOOTBALL ON MEMORIAL FIELD THIS SEASON

First Selectman James J. Sullivan said this week that the new War Memorial Field will be ready for football games this fall. A part of the field has already been sodded and the remainder will be conditioned and seeded this season. The new Park Commission inspected the field last week with the first selectman. An organization meeting will be held soon and a clerk appointed.

HARRY S. MUNSON DIES

George E. Munson of Park Place was called to Florida by the sudden illness and death of his father, Harry S. Munson of Miami on Aug. 17. He made the trip by plane. The remains were brought to Clinton for burial. Mr. Munson formerly resided with his son here.

TOWN CO-OPERATING IN EROSION PLANS

East Haven is one of the many Shore Line towns cooperating in plans for halting erosion from storms which has caused damage totalling thousands of dollars to Connecticut Beaches. Plans were initiated at a meeting in Clinton July 25 when East Haven was represented by First Selectman James J. Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan said this week that government engineers are at work on a project which will be carried on in cooperation with the state and the towns affected.

Democrats To Bring Issues To The Voters

In a brief statement issued this week James P. Gartland, chairman of the Democratic Town Committee, promised to bring opinions on state and town matters to the people prior to the forthcoming state election. He said:

"The Democratic Primary was held last Thursday, August 22, at which primary delegates to all conventions were elected. The primary was harmonious and there were no contests. Following the primary the Town Committee held a special meeting preliminary steps were taken to open the fall campaign. The matter of candidates to the Legislature was discussed and the names of several well known citizens were suggested.

"The leaders feel that there is a fine opportunity this year of electing two Democrats to the Legislature and are now studying the records of the two Republican incumbents in the Legislature session of 1945. It is the aim of the Democratic Town Committee to run the best candidates for these positions, to have these candidates openly and honestly state their opinions on state and town matters, and to bring all issues to the people.

Coyles Attend Florists' Meet In New York

Mr. and Mrs. Desmond Coyle of the J. A. Long Co., attended the convention of the National Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association in New York from Monday to Saturday last week. This was the first convention in four years and brought together more than four thousand florists from all parts of the United States and Canada for one of the most successful conventions in the history of the organization. The East Haveners were kept busy throughout the week attending sessions, luncheons and other affairs arranged for their entertainment.

One of the high-lights was the motor bus tours to Jones Beach and Bethpage for a swim party and old-fashioned clam bake. The demonstrations and school for florists were other features and at these a wealth of ideas in floral creations and decorations were shown. A style show was also conducted which revealed the proper modes in the wearing of flowers.

Martin Olson Asks Change In Zoning Law To Permit Construction Work On Kirkham Property In Main Street.

Plans were announced this week by Martin Olson, contractor and developer, for a 50-family apartment house which he hopes to build on the Kirkham property on the south side of Main street between Bradley and Gerrish avenues.

Mr. Olson said he has already made arrangements for the purchase of the property from Mrs. Bertha Kirkham and has applied to the Zoning Commission for changes in the zoning regulations which would permit construction of the type of house he is planning.

The carrying out of the project also depends upon the action of federal authorities. Mr. Olson said he has conferred with these officials and finds they are eager to have apartment houses built in towns of 20,000 and less population in the efforts to relieve the critical housing shortage.

Mr. Olson said the proposed building would be constructed largely of masonry and that the lumber and other short materials would be a lesser item in the project. He said the cost of the building would range between $300,000 and $400,000, costs being very hard to closely estimate at the present time. The Kirkham property, upon which the Kirkham dwelling occupied by the owner, now stands has a frontage of 300 feet on Main street and depth of 500 feet. It has long been one of the larger undeveloped properties along Main street. When the High school was built several years ago there was considerable agitation for its location on the Kirkham property but that location was passed up in favor of the Tyler street site because Main street was then a link in the heavily travelled Boston Post Road.

A hearing will be set down by the Zoning Board in the next few days for a hearing on the project. One of the main problems to be overcome will be that of sewage disposal, always a drawback in multiple construction work in East Haven. Because of the elevation of the land and general soil conditions it is believed that this problem will not be a vital one.

Mr. Olson developed many projects in East Haven including the Coe Haven, Saltonstall and Riverside communities as well as business blocks on Main street.

Back To School Again

By William E. Gillis
Superintendent of Schools

On September fourth about two thousand local school children will start on another year's work in the public elementary schools and the high school. Although it is generally said that these scholars return unwillingly such is not the case these days. The summer has its good points with freedom from routine but after a certain period of time there is that urge to get back again with friends of last year to start again the round of scholastic and extracurricular activities.

Those who have attended schools for at least a few years know what to expect and they fit into the picture in a surprisingly few days. It is important that everyone gets started on the opening day so that no time will be lost. Those who have children entering for the first time should remember a few simple points:

member of the East Haven Rotary club, said that a special Rotary meeting was held during the week for florists who are Rotarians.

The J. A. Long Co. has held membership in the association for a long period of time and as such ranks among the leading florist organizations in the country.

To enter kindergarten a pupil must be five years old by next January 15th. The many requests for exceptions to this cannot be granted without breaking down the whole system of entrance requirements, because such a practice could be carried on without limit to accommodate the parents in each case. Pupils entering first grade must be six years old by January 5th or must have successfully completed a year of kindergarten in an accredited school.

A further requirement for entrance is the presentation of a certificate indicating that the child has been vaccinated. The date of birth must be shown by means of a birth certificate or baptismal papers. Pupils born in East Haven can have their birth dates checked by school authorities in cooperation with the town clerk, but the actual certificate must be presented for those born out of town.

For pupils attending school for the first time it has been found best for parents to turn the youngsters over to the kindergarten or first grade teacher and to leave them as soon as possible. If the parent lingers to see how the newcomer is going to react to the new situation it may make the adjustment more difficult. The teachers have experi-

In the case of new pupils parents should take the pupils to the teacher or, in cases above first grade, to the principal. All necessary arrangements can be readily made in this way.

At the beginning of the year most children like to come to school armed with all the implements of a scholar. With the exception of a pencil or two the materials needed are furnished for the children to carry on the necessary work.

"Grandma" Little Honored At Shore

Special Day Is Set Apart By Guilford Community For East Haven Woman.

The Shore Line Times in its last issue carried an interesting report of the establishment of August 17 in the Indian Cove Summer colony as "Grandma" Little Day in honor of Mrs. C. E. "Grandma" Little of 68 Bradley avenue, East Haven, a summer resident of Indian Cove for many years. Mrs. Little is 88 years old and greatly loved and admired not only here in East Haven but at the Guilford shore as was shown by the activities there August 17.

Led by Richard Stannard, who stands six feet five and a half inches tall, as the Pied Piper of Hamelin, three girls carrying American flags, Milton Doehner as a clown playing a brass drum, and a youth in monkey garb, fifty eight children of the Indian Cove community, according to the Shore Line Times reporter, paraded from the home of Mrs. Rubyanna Koenig, president of the Indian Cove Women's Auxiliary to the home of "Grandma" Little where they asked and received permission to set August 17 apart as "Grandma" Little Day.

The children most of whom were in costume, serenaded Grandma and prizes for the best costumes were awarded. There was also a peanut race after which Grandma Little presented each youngster with a bag of candy.

The children then went home and donned swim togs and met again at the beach where a complete program of water sports was enjoyed. An East Haven girl, Marilyn Swanson won the prize for the fifty yard backstroke dash.

The affair was enjoyed by the children of the colony and also by the older people. Several hundred adults turned out to watch the kiddies and everything went off splendidly. Mrs. Little who resides with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Weaver had a thoroughly delightful time and was much moved by the spirit of the children in doing her the great honor.

One of the drummers in the band which provided the music for the parade was none other than Henry Koenig, music arranger for Dr. Frank Back of the National Broadcasting Company.

Outstanding among the costumes worn by the young people were that of Martha Bergeron with her arm in actual sling, who limped through the parade as spirit of '76, a lobster with upraised claws, a canary, and monkey. Ice cream was served on the beach after the water sports and during the evening movies were shown until the rain interrupted the tired youngsters home.

Pupils who enter kindergarten must be at least five years old by the 15th of next January and those entering the first grade must be six years old. Quite often there are requests to enter those who are under age. It is impossible to grant these requests because no matter what limit is set, there are still further requests of acceptance. Pupils who are in doubt can be referred to the superintendent's office. Miss Anna Dore of Palmetto Trail entertained a group of friends from Madison over the week end. Sunday School Teacher, John, will you utter and take collection on Sunday next? Oh, will it be, oh, how glad I am just to be asked by Mrs. Burgess to just this thing, my Church calls me to take my place within her sacred Sanctuary, to be a part of her Divine worship, Yes, Mrs. Burgess I shall be most happy to do so. Yes, once more after all these dreary years, I am sprung by God to take place and do my bit, to make His glorious Name, and what a group of fine young men Mrs. Burgess has to draw on now, and none refuse, when Mrs. Burgess sounds the call for assistance, and soon they will have to take over other responsibilities, for we are growing old, and these must take our place, and if our work is moonlight and always bringing to my mind the thoughts of God, and the sweet Christ, who died for me, there it stands at the cross roads of the East, where Route one, hundred crosses Route number one. Its clock tells the hour of day and night, its Steeple so slender and tall, but so well built, that many hurricanes has made no impression on its sturdy strength. Ever reminding me, God wants my worship and prayers, And now ever the Telephone comes the voice of my

Long on effort -- Short on equipment Your telephone operator can sympathize with today's bride who is trying so hard to make a home in the face of shortages of home equipment. With us, it's shortages of telephone equipment, and the materials needed to build it. That's why your operator can't always answer the moment you pick up your telephone.

Telephone traffic is heaviest between 9:30 A. M. and 12 Noon. Both local and out-of-town calls will go through faster if you make them the first thing in the morning or during the afternoon.

His Farm Fields Are Factories

U. S. FARMERS have made our fields into factories: We live better than people in other countries because our farmers get more out of the soil. The steel industry takes pride in the way it has helped bring about this improvement in farm practice. Tools of steel—from the plowshare to the giant combine—have multiplied in number and increased vastly in quality. Fifty years ago the typical farm in America used about 3 tons of steel. Today the figure is nearer 17 1/2 tons. That is a measure of the modernization of agriculture and an indication of the interdependence of steel and farming. We no longer have separate "farm production problems" or "industrial production problems." We have but one set of problems for everybody. If strikes, for instance, restrict the supply of farm implements and supplies through work stoppages, or make their cost prohibitive, America is out of gear. Anything which tends in this direction is bad for the farmer—and finally for everybody. Farmers know it. Everybody else should know it. Steel mills need all the scrap iron and steel they can get. The shortage is serious. Farmers can get extra dollars and help increase steel output by sending worn-out machinery, etc., on its way to the furnaces. AMERICAN IRON and STEEL INSTITUTE, 350 Fifth Avenue, New York 1, N. Y. The Institute has printed a booklet STEEL SERVES THE FARMER. Write for a copy and it will be sent gladly.

Garden Notes

WILD APPLE TRIPLES The seed of these wild twisted trees, Mrs. Charles B. Hitchcock, Mrs. B. C. Hornung of Brooklyn, N. Y. to Wilson C. Lay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lay of South Montrose Street, Saturday, August 31 at 4 o'clock in Taber Lutheran Church.

More than 1000 farmers, home gardeners, agricultural researchers and others interested in experimental towards better farming attended the annual Field Day of the Conn. Agricultural Experiment Station held at the Station's Experimental Farm in Mt. Carmel. All counties in Connecticut and at least seven other states were represented. Exhibits, demonstrations and field plots illustrated the work of the Station and were examined with much interest by the workers attending. Guests enjoyed picnic lunches at noon under a large tent provided for the purpose and were served coffee and fresh peaches by the Station staff.

For a late fall and winter crop, sow the cold frame now seeds of radishes and lettuce. Divide and plant dry hills. A well drained soil is essential. Plant dandelion, sellars, autumn crocuses, snowdrops and grape hyacinths as soon as they are ready. Also plant madonna lilies. Give late sown vegetables an application of a complete plant food to hasten maturity. Stop cultivating and feeding roses as they should now ripen their wood for the winter. Make cuttings of the English ivy now if you wish to have good house plants for the winter. Adhere closely to the spraying schedule these late summer days. This is the best time of the year to establish a new lawn and to renovate the old one.

DEFEAT MIDDLEFIELD

The Branford Red Sox are now in sole possession of first place by virtue of their 8 to 4 defeat Middlefield and by Madison's upset of Westbrook. The Red Sox trailed 2 to 0 until the third inning when Zvonkovic walked, Duell singled, Proto reached on Capiga's error and Zvonkovic scored from second while both runners advanced, and Pauk's long triple scored Duell and Proto, while Pauk scored on Ward's long fly to center. Errors by Owens and Murphy enabled the visitors to come to within one run of a tie, but then the locals sewed it up in the seventh when Duell and Pauk singled and Ward's triple scored them both, and Ward scored on Owens' infield out. Sunday, Westbrook, now in second place, will come to Branford in an effort to regain a tie with the locals for first place. Manager Vinny Chestnut will start Bob Bradley on the mound with Bolton Elwell behind the plate. With Yasevac, Zvonkovic, and Ward
