STRICTLY LOCAL...

VIEWS, REVIEWS AND PREVIEWS OF THE EAST HAVEN SCENE BY PAUL H. STEVENS

ABOUT OUR STREET NUMBERING

It was brought to our attention the past week that houses are wrongly numbered on at least fifty-six streets and avenues in East Haven. On some streets low numbers are found on both ends with high numbers in the middle. On other streets the numbers are affixed to houses haphazardly and with apparently no thought of numeric orderliness. Short Beach road is a striking example of wrong numbering but it is far from alone among our streets, some of them well whown.

We can see how the bad numbering began. Houses were built in various locations along a given street and their occupants guessed at Committee.

various locations along a given street and their occupants guessed at what the numbers should be and in most instances guessed wrong. But there is no longer any excuse. As new houses are put up the Building Department provides a proper number.

East Haven is not alone in having houses improperly and erroncously numbered. Towns that have grown fast always have such a problem to contend with. We don't know who should take steps to-ward properly renumbering houses, but it is surely something that ought to be done. The Fire Department, the Post Office, the delivery companies, the merchants, the utility companies would all find it a great convenience if houses were so numbered that they could be promptly and correctly located. Strangers hunting for a certain address would not find the confusion with which they are now so often the South School District.

The official call sets up the following purposes of the meeting.

1—To consider and act on a proposal to build a three room addition to Momanguin School.

3—To consider and act on a proposal to build a seven room school in the South School District.

We would like to see correct house numbering inaugurated but frankly we don't know to whom the task would fall. Can anyone

We would like to see correct house numbering inaugurated but fraulty we don't know to whom the task would fall. Can anyone tell us?

THE RED TRIANGLE—BODY, MIND AND SPIRT

Our connection/with the Coordinating Committee on Health Education brought us the privilege last week of again enjoying a "guided tour" of another of the health-promoting institutions of Greater New Haven, Our first visit took us to the Red Cross Headquarters, our second wisk to the Young Men's Christian Association. It was a break last meeting and, after coffee and dionghnuts in the "G" labrary, we learned many things about the XMCA, its history, its growth, its place in the world and in the local community. Its symbol, the red itriangle, typifies the physical, mental and spiritual emphasis which the "Y" places upon its program for the men of the community.

Located in Howe Street, near Chapel Street, in New Haven, Area. There are many East Haveners, we noted, upon its membership tolds. In one of the pamphlets passed out to use we noticed with interest a photograph of an East Havener, we noted, upon its membership tolds. Because of lack of room in the South School district pupils have been transferred to the center schools and Tuttle School has 36 in its various grades above second grade. Next fall, however South School will have another large kindergarten class enter and the present first grade of 36 will have to be taken care of at Tuttle School. This will mean the taking over of the present vacant room for what will then be a second grade.

Hoop Evolution

The sharp spat of a bouncing ball hitting the armory floor; the sudden bark of a runner alert to the beginning of a play; a quick silence as the crouching figure poisos—then shoots; the roar of appreciation from a basketball-wisened crowd means one thing to Branford's hoop loving public—the basketball season is underway.

Only a few of this year's oblicokers will go back to the days when Captain Alfred Anderson of the local police played the cage sport as a member of the original Branford Battery. It dates back before the turn of the century.

A few more will pick up the playing era of the M. P. Rice Fire Department and their games against the downtowners Billy Keough, Mike Connelly, Jim and Bob Kelly, Tim Hanniford, Earl Bradley comprised the uptown quintet and John Pero, Ed Reynolds, Frank Kinney Joe Garvey and Bill Ross, later George Matthews joined the fold of the old T.A.B.'s in the torrid days of the old Pythian Hall, now known as the Community House. They were the rought and tumble basketball nights when two handed shots, thrown underhanded, were the rule rather than

The next edition of hoopsters came about 1912 when the old time Hustlers, considered by many to be Branford's all time aggregation burned the floor with speed and finesse to cop many honors although the greatest, to hear the cracker barrel talk of onlookers, was the double defeat that the Branfordites handed the famed New Haven Atlas. Postmaster Joseph H. Driscoll was one of that noted quintet as was Tom Corcoran, Frank Reynolds, Butch Hall, brother of the wife of John B. Sliney. Paul Kronholm, now a sanitary engineer in Chicago the son of Mrs. Anton Kronholm of Harrison Avenue, Mickey Banco, now a Philadelphian, were two others of that quintet. Karl Reynolds also saw service.

/Not too many years later Jerry Reynolds was handling the sport in Branford town and proving to all that his method of sports promotion had no equal. He built special bleachers into the armory and sold reserved seats for the Setundar pickt extraollers which traducts and reserved seats for the Saturday night attractions which included annual games with the Waterbury Kaceys, the Hartford Dixles and the ever present Atlas combines. Eddle, Rahm, restauranteur of New Haven and for many years coach at the Jewish Center in the Elm City and a speed merchant on the court, was in the regalla of the latter organization. Red merchant on the court, was in the regain of the latter organization. Red and look over on downs.

Harris, Frank McGowan, the baseball player, who was an adept shot, Bill Roberts at tackle played an Court of the Crisa Burning Harmon, Lucky Reynolds, Frank Clancy, the undertaker, all outstanding game for the Crisa Burning while Bob Bahnsen and Don Atkinson were just as effective Moose Among the foes of that team was the original edition of the West Working in similar slots for the Haven Red Devils. Many were the torrid contests that existed between the least payed at the large payered offensive unit. One of the the local quintets and that high powered offensive unit. One of the brightest stars of the Westshoremen was Frank Fitzgerald now director of physical education for that town.

Adam Bombollski, Fred Angelo, Chet Prann, Bill and Frank Clancy were another combination which stepped into prominence about 1023

At the same time a quintet, in Branford High School, composed of Stu Clancy, Tom Connelly, Don McCarthy, Shorty Crowley and others were traveling the school-boy circuit and had the dubious honor of taking a terrific shellacking from Wilby of Waterbury who ran the score into the hundred while holding the locals to less than thirty. They were not the days of firehouse basketball so the score is remarkable until one realizes that the time was extended until the clam diggers were the victims of a hoax that never has been explained.

The sad part of tha theating was that the array was really a proficient one and in later years became the nucleus of many fine court

While mentioning court—Remember the Heartbreakers. Those nobbily-dressed bloomer girls who topped their uniforms with white middles and black ties. They had red sweaters with white pockets and cuffs and an H emblem embossed on the sweater front. The original edition had Phyllis Hibbard Vega Reynolds, Helen Haldeman, Harriet Beach, Grace Toole, Lydia Willis and Laura Tenney. There was another local female contingent who played against them on occasion; two of the latter were Hazel Baisley and Ruby Ferris. Then Dan Daley moved in as a coach. He masterminded such eyefilling beauties as Gert Crowley, Dot Taylor, Alice Callahan, Esther Stieler, Katherine Fitzgerald, Zip Sloan the Harding sisters, Verna Barnes, Jessie Butler, Louise Brandriff and Dot Buckley.

It was Dot Taylor's brother, Merritt, a blond curly headed speedster, who carried the name of the Seamless Rubber quintet to many dusty league titles over a span of basketball years which must have reached eighteen or more. One of the most feared players in the state, he assisted Branford teams many, many times in the money tills. Big George Taylor, an import, nearly broke up the Atlas series when he appeared in a local uniform one night after beating them the previous night as the shoot ing star of the Waterbury Kaceys. In later years he became a famous Even while the above names were blazing the basketball columns, two backyard quintets were notching their way into top competition. From Nick Cirle's backyard, the Branford Tanks crept into contention. The Montelius twins, Axel and Carl, with Gun Holmes were the hub of a unit which carried the town's name to superb heights. At the same time, the Branford Laurels, for years a football powerhouse, decided to contest the Tanks' bid for town supremacy. Vin Carney, Charlle Jones, the Clancy brother,s Dave Hylenski copped the series for the footballers That was when they made a court out of Palmer's Casino.

When the Laurels dropped out of the hoop competition, Charlie Jones joined the Tanks with Russ Fleming and George Heyer, both buddles on the Telephone quintet of New Haven.

The second backyard array was that which went on to con Bran-McGowan, Wid and Al Clapp, Rudy Johnson, Bub Reynolds and Lou Uhl grew out of swaddling clothes.

Joe Clapp along with Wid, became a standout with the Tanks as did Mischler but McGowan turned to Yale University where he became a captain of that quintet, along with Eggie Miles, in the early thirties.

Also in that decade, Stu Claney became captain of Holy Cross and the pair met in one of the memorable games between the two schools Later McGowan organized the Branford Burners but Clancy joined the forces of probably the most spectacular quintet ever to represent the town, the Branford Alumni.

That unit was made up in part of members of the Class C high school championship of 1930, Mink Swirski and Battler Laich. Birdle Hart was an important cog and Bud Fisher and John Skip O'Tell rounded out the early days of its existance. Later Joe Resjan, Carl Montelius, Walt Brannigan and Clancy were added and still later Jack Salvin and Pete Pauk. The quintet dripped of color and its passing ability is still hailed throughout the town.

Almost immediately after their rise to power, the Malleable Iron Fittings Company stepped into the Industrial League and raised havoc among the tried and true aggregations by brashly challenging the state's best in that circle. They had Al Aguuzzi, the Sanleski brothers, the Montelius twins, Harvey Royden, Holmes, Salvin, Bob Donnelly etc.

Meanwhile Johnny Knecht, fresh from winning the C title in his first year as coach of the Branford High team in 1930, aimed his sights again and racked up victory after victory with a quintet composed of Pete Nalmo, Connie Matson, Bob Linden, Howie Gebel, and Henry La-Croix. Three of that unit went with the M.I.F. later but a new quintet was born which surpassed even that fine crew's record.

Butch Naimo, Johnny Yusievicz, Hank LaCroix, Paul Ward and Vic, Lukawsky went to Burlington in 1937 to represent the state in the New England tourney. They lost out in the opener after sporting a twelve point lead midway in the second period when the captain, LaCroix sprained his ankle.

The loss of three crack players of this unit did not faze the remainder and an array of Steve Hylenski, Paul Ward, Butch Naimo, Abbie Torino and Lou Desi played through a complete high school season the following year without a defeat.

A few years later and Tony Hynovich, Stan Petela, Albie Lipkvich, Buddy Montelius, Ernie Genrich, Bill Owens and Bill Fortune were again

With football season safely, if not too successfully, by the boards, the Branford High court squad is knuckling down to hard work preparing for the coming season which opens against St. Mary's in eight short days.

The hopes of the season are resting on the agile fingers of Lou Locarno, talented basket shooting foward who promises to add considerable scoring spice to the flat record of the remainder of last year's team.

Co-captains of this year's array will be Bob Vishno and Ray Soboloewski, both veterans of the season ago. The latter at times has shown considerable ability in the center slot while Vishno is a forward of some promise. Joe Chandler and Dick Dolan, guard and forward respectively, will round out the starting five.

Coach Warren Sampson received a bad break twice during the summer months when Gerry Cole's family left Connecticut and Charles Ely, an accurate shooter, entered Choate Academy.

The remainder of the squad which has survived the first cut is:
Blake Lehr, Dick Coleman, Addison
Long, Bob Boutellier, Dick Atkinson, all upperclassmen, and Washington, Polastri, Gordon, Purceli, Peterson, Neuman, Dendas, Dazata,
Thompson, Soboloeski, Anderson,
Dwyer and Devlin, Mason, Vuksinie, Farrington.

Sampson plans a new innovation
this researn by having three genes

Farrington.

Sampson plans a new innovation this season by having three games a night placing the more experienced of the discarded players against the second team jay-vees in an extra early clash.
