ACCEPTANCE OF TOWN ROADS ARE MAJOR ITEMS ON CALL FOR MEETING ON MONDAY

Legal voters of East Haven had their attention called to a coming town meeting today. The session will take place in the town hall on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

Voters will be asked to accept five new streets and to order the discontinuance of another.

While it is expected that the meeting will be routine, there is a possibility that some opposition may be found against closing a portion of Bradley Avenue, a street north of East Haven's shopping center.

The purpose in closing a portion of the present road is to aid the town in enlarging the district for industrial building.

Once the thoroughfare is closed, deeds would be executed, delivering the title of the road to the owners of the abutting land. Frank P. Sullivan, general contractor, is the present owner of the some contiguous property.

Other land is owned by the State of Connecticut, the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company and John M. Kelley, et al.

The streets up for acceptance are Green Glen Terrace, North Atwater Street, Congress Street, Cass Street and Doran Street.

Welcome Wagon Says Hello To Engaged Pair

East Haven's Welcome Wagon and its hostess, Mrs. Nancy Swords, visited a pair of engaged girls of this town last week. They were:

Mrs. Charlotte Gallo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gallo of 64 Edward Street, who plans to wed in 1950. Her fiance is William Spencer of Gerrish Avenue. Mr. Spencer is a student at the University of Connecticut.

Also, Miss Mildred Canna, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Canna, a builder with the C. and C Construction Company. She lives with her parents at 251 Short Beach Road. Miss Canna is planning her wedding to Thomas Frisco of 187 Hemaway Avenue, East Haven, next June. Mr. Frisco is also a student at the University of Connecticut.

Mrs. Swords made one baby call when she visited Gale Vanacore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Vanacore of 101 Gerrish Avenue. Miss Vanacore is a decorator with the Sansone Company. Aside from Gale, born on November 4th, the couple have a son, aged two.

Use Christmas Seals is the plea, Mrs. John P. Tirpak is making to practically everybody in East Haven. If you have not already done so, buy the old St. Vincent de Paul's Church, Bradford Manor, firehouse and in Foxon Park for the convenience of residents of this area.

Chief Ernest Hansen was in charge of the fighters of three town departments from the center, Riverside and Bradford Manor.

It was a earnest job turned in under trying circumstances. First Selectman, Frank S. Clancy said, in publicly lauding their efforts, "less spirited work would have been disastrous to the town."

Highway Heads Plan Meeting In East Haven

Connecticut State Highway Commissioner, B. Albert Hill, will be in East Haven in approximately two weeks for another meeting with the Citizens' Advisory Planning Committee. First Selectman Frank S. Clancy said this week.

A specific answer is expected from Hill then on the problem of placing the proposed new highway.

Commissioner Hill will be accompanied by his executive undersecretary, Mr. Jorgenson, when he appears in East Haven.

He had been a resident of East Haven for 45 years and before his retirement had been employed by Yale University.

The regular meeting of the Public Health Nursing Association of East Haven will be held on Monday evening December 5 in the Town Hall at 8:00.

BOOSTER CLUB PRESENTATION WILL FEATURE AMATEUR ACTS

The public will be treated to a real old time amateur vaudeville show when the E. H. Booster Club presents its "Stars of Tomorrow On The Stage" in the auditorium of the East Haven High School on Friday evening, December 9, at 8:15. Under the direction of Joe Muller and with Riley Funaro as host, this entertainment has all the earmarks of a professional stage show, in that each entertainer, who is incidentally, in stiff competition for an award of a $50.00 jewelry certificate, have had plenty of previous stage experience and has met with some measure of success in other contests of like kind.

Highlighting the evening's performance will be the singing of the guest artist, lovely Joan Lynch, a recent East Haven High graduate whose voice is still heard over local radio stations and who has been instrumental in the past successes of high school stage presentations. She was also starred at the Masonic Temple recently, when Glenn Miller's Band appeared there.

Other local future stars are Little Johnny Fitzgerald, a youngster sure to go on with a very pleasing voice. Momangun's gift to the entertainment world, five year old George Eddy, is certain to bring the house down with his dynamic personality and talent. George only recently won a prize on a local radio show, and also appeared on the Horn and Hardart Television Show in New York in acts in pantomime for over three years.

Years: songstress Annette Giannini, having appeared in minstrels and revues in and around New Haven; guitarist Charlie Salerno; James Oneofre, crowd pleasers for certain, "The Melody Makers," multiple prize winners and prominent in many local shows with their sax, accordion and drums; star of "Youth On Parade," Margaret Cacea will lend her sweet voice to this occasion; and finally, lovely Bette Carr, who took a leading part in the stage show "Waltz Time," at St. Rose's Church in a singing and acting role. Miss Carr has appeared over two thousand radio stations several times.

Eddie Simoni and his orchestra will accompany the performers during the show and will play for the dance that will follow in the gym immediately after the show. Eddie needs no introduction to the public, having displayed his talent at the keyboard countless times.

An act that is certain to woe the audience, but not in line to compete with the other contestants for an award, is the everpopular Flora-Dora Sextet Composed of six locals—your queen is invited—this specialty will provoke many laugh.

Tickets for this vaudeville show are now on sale at Gravo's Sport Shop, Towne Clothes and Frank's Barber Shop, or from any Booster Club member. Price of admission is sixty cents, for both show and

Christmas Fair
Of Gerrish P.T.A.
Is Due Thursday

The Gerrish Avenue School P.T.A. has completed plans for the Christmas Fair to be held in the school library Thursday, Dec. 8, from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M. Mrs. Alberta Brennan is chairman and is being assisted by a large committee. Many attractions have been arranged and there will be a Santa Claus on hand for the children, also a grab for the children. There will be booths displaying home made food and fancy articles for the adults. The public is invited to attend.

They tell us that Joe Mallet is proud of the amateur night talent he has lined up for the Booster Club Show. Posters are all over town and the big night is Friday, December 9.

Desmond Coyle has timed his birthday with Santa's visit.

A promise to look into the matter of the one fare limit from Momauguin to New Haven and vice versa today re-opened the fight of the shore residents to gain the boon from the Connecticut Company.

First Selectman Frank S. Clancy said that he would use the power of his office to open the apparent deadlock over the question vital to the residents of that area.

Disgruntled murmurs from the shore districts are believed to have prompted the selectman's action. A spokesman for Momauguin in an unofficial capacity pointed out against the failure of the committee named for the purpose of securing the one fare, to do anything. "The people of Momauguin want that service," he said, "And they are entitled to it."

When informed of the matter, Clancy said, "I am not a member of that committee but the situation has been hanging fire for a long period. I intend to look into the question as a matter of policy of bifling the public that which it demands."

Earlier in the week, the Chamber of Commerce reaffirmed a stand made nearly a year ago at which time the group endorsed the proposal for a single fare.

Police Nab Driver Of Crash Car

Local police were credited with excellent work Tuesday afternoon which resulted in the arrest of James Badino of 8 Marion Street, East Haven, for evading responsibility and violation of the motor vehicle laws.

Badino was nabbed in East Haven with the assistance of the East Haven Police Captain Leo V. Morawski and last night.

Badino is alleged to have been the driver of a Buick sedan which struck a truck driven by a Michael Lomerto of 35 Raina Street, New Haven, on Broad Hill near the A.C. Gilbert factory at approximately 2:55 P.M.

Badino reportedly was driving when Lomerto, who was traveling east, started to turn into the Gilbert property and hit the Lomerto truck but did not stop.

Captain Morawski said Badino was revealed to have been in a recent accident and that he was the man who hit the East Haven man's automobile.

Patrolmen Rudolph Warren and George Gosselink handled the accident for the Branford police.

Don't Let Anybody Fool You!

These Things Will Happen
If The Anti-Trust Lawyers Have Their Way

When the anti-trust lawyers from Washington filed their suit against A&P, we told the American people, our customers, our suppliers and our employees how this attack would affect them.

We said that this attack, if successful, would mean the end of A&P as you know it.

We said that it would mean higher food prices for American consumers.

We said that if they succeed in destroying A&P the way would be cleared for the destruction of other efficient large-scale retailers.

We thought the American people were entitled to know about this threat to their welfare and standard of living.

It Will Destroy A&P

company has been managed by George L. Hartford and John A. Hartford.

These are the men who have pioneered the policy of low-cost, low-profit, low-price food retailing which has won A&P the patronage of millions of American families and given them more good food for their money.

If the anti-trust lawyers have their way, these men and other company executives will be completely out of the picture. No one can predict what the policies of the new owners of the various parts of A&P will be.

He was subsequently committed to a state hospital.

People who work all night are aware that it is an easy matter to sleep just before the pre-dawn hours. Activity is at the peak between four in the morning and six.

Yet all police succumbed to the temptation on Saturday morning, a serious fire, with possible disastrous results, would have leveled one of Branford's growing and thriving and a neighboring business.

But the patrolmen, vigilant in their duty, want to the rear of a North Main Street establishment and spotted a fire which had made some headway in the dry rooming house.

A quick radio call had the fire department to the scene and a half hour later the fire was under control.

And Saturday night, after a hard day's work, the police were still on the job.

Make no mistake about it. If the anti-trust lawyers win their suit it will mean the end of A&P as you know it.

Your Food Will Cost More

The anti-trust lawyers have repeatedly stated that the suit will not increase, but should decrease, grocery prices.

Anybody who has ever shopped in an A&P store, or has ever taken a high-school course in economics, knows better than that.

Everyone knows that A&P's policy has always been to keep costs and profits at a minimum so that it can sell good food cheap.

The very heart of the anti-trust lawyers' case is that A&P's methods, which they claim are illegal, have enabled the company to undersell competitors.

How can anyone possibly say that you will get lower food prices by eliminating the company that has done so much to bring down these?

Actually, there is no question that this suit, if successful, will mean higher food prices for A&P customers.

Here is just one of a number of reasons:

We manufacture many of the quality foods we sell in our stores, such as Bolax, Red Circle and Eight O'Clock coffee, Ann Page foods, White House milk, and many others.

The anti-trust lawyers admit that we pass along these manufacturing savings to our customers in the form of lower prices.

Others Will Be Hurt

If A&P is destroyed, no businessman could safely pursue an aggressive sales policy designed to lower prices and give his customers a better deal if by so doing he takes business away from any competitor.

Even if the anti-trust lawyers have no intention now of prosecuting other suits, a decision against A&P will establish a precedent that could be used by the present anti-trust lawyers, or any future anti-trust lawyers, to destroy any efficient business that buys cheaply, sells cheaply, and grows big in the process.

Such a decision would mean the end of the vigorous, healthy price competition which has given this country the highest standard of living ever enjoyed by any people anywhere in the history of the world.

The anti-trust lawyers are trying to give a new interpretation to the anti-trust law, that instead of preserving competition, will reduce competition.

They are trying, by court decision, to impose a new kind of economic policy on the people of this country.

Make no mistake about it. If they succeed in destroying A&P they will be destroying the method of distribution that has helped make the American standard of living the envy of the world.

The anti-trust lawyers have insisted that this suit will not affect other distributors, "nor will it destroy any efficiencies of mass distribution."

The fact is that the anti-trust lawyers ask the court to break up the company, make it get rid of its admittedly legal manufacturing operations, and generally destroy many of the efficiencies which have enabled it to sell food cheaper.

If such an attack is successful, it immediately raises the likelihood of similar attacks on other chain stores.

The anti-trust lawyers are saying that they "do not contemplate any other suits of this nature at this time."

But that does not mean that they cannot undertake such suits at any future time if they win this case.

As a matter of fact, the anti-trust lawyers made practically the same allegations against two of our largest competitors that they are making against us. And it can also be used as the basis for an attack against other grocers and merchants in other lines.

There are today literally thousands of chain stores, voluntary groups and individual merchants operating with the same methods and in the same pattern here under attack.

THE INNER LIGHT

BY BILL AHERN

Everybody likes a success story. But the elusive goal is like mercury slipping through fingers, not everybody can grasp it. Still East Haven thinks it has such a guy—and he hasn't had to go out of town to win it.

His name is Frank Crisaf, director of physical education for boys in the high school, and a top notch coach and teacher.

The history of his ability to turn around a deadende team is when set and God almighty at delightful intervals is a Damon and Pythias friendship which has survived inter-town rivalry and transcended coach and player guidance. The professional basketball star realizes that formid coach John Maher, now mentor at Darien High School, guided his star with a faith that sometimes exceeds that of parents.

Crisaf, like many youths before him, graduated from Gorham School before entering high. In those days a clubman out of a kid who looked poly-poly on football and never boisterous, he worked with determination to win, he thought, the coach's approval.

When he was a boy he was Johnny Maher's remark to townpeople that Crisaf was a boy to be tacked, not only as a coming athlete and gentle man but also a man that East Haven would some day respect.

Frank worked hard.

Athletic material around the turn of the last decade was just, it seemed that every other seat held a good boy, but Crisaf learned that variety material is born from experience. Crisaf learned the hard way, the steely, cold victory attack but it was versed in sound fundamentals.

In the summer of 1938, the chubby lad, in the manner of youth sprang from the knickerbocker stage and rocketed into a creditable five foot ten. With the height came a startling berth on the East Haven varsity hoop team. That school did not have football those days.

Added by a few more inches but most of them were wrapped in the forward who found the basket with a display of uncanny shots. With Crisaf were Harry Strickland, Dick Walker, Dick Jacecks, (now six foot ten and on the west coast) he was six foot eight when he came on the Eastie combine.

Billy Clark, Jim McCarter, Scotty Howard, Dick Brache, Bob Schleifer and Frank Cianciello were a bunch of slipping by fast.

But schools always have a habit of slipping by fast.

So, when the Japs hit Pearl Harbor, high school was behind the school. Maher accepted the youth as he was lazily tossing a baseball across the diamond, from third to first base.

In an off-hand manner Maher asked Frank what he intended to do. In his serious vein, the home town product replied that he did not know. Straight to the point, Maher countered, "Would you like a racket like mine?" I guess so," Crisaf replied. The coach's cry, "Play Ball!" ended the conversation.

But Jack Lockery, then coach of the Arnold College Terriers, was a long time pal of Maher's.

A few days later, the Eagle coach called for Crisaf and told him, "You're in."

He will be measured for a gym suit with the Terrier's colors.

About two months later, he was measured for another, a blue one with stripes about the collar and sleeves. His mail was addressed care of the Postmaster, San Francisco. He was Navy.

Practically all of his hitch was served in the Pacific.

In the meanwhile, Maher left East Haven and Lockery as an assistant at Stamford, where the Terriers' various athletes still remained. The regulars, however, won a commission in the army and Maher was sent to the Pacific Coast. Most of his army life was spent as a special service officer and he built a unique record, according to press dispatches which found their way East.

The onetime Milford High athlete returned to accept a post with Darien, that is successful coach Arnold Mather's football schedule for next year. He had been able to line up three opponents on his calendar, schools which once had a healthy rivalry with Blue and White teams and built traditional battles on the strength of it, or had enough teams of the Maher powerhouses. He now must gun for the big ones, Stamford and the like.

When Crisaf left the service, he returned to Arnold. He graduated from there in February, while still a student, he won a part time job as an assistant to Ray Smith, who had replaced Maher at the helm of the Yellowjacket ship of fortune.

It was at Arnold that he came to know Blackie Riccelli of Lyman Hall real well. The pair were naturals on the Terrier's court teams and hit off so well that the Wallingford boy made room for the East Haven coach as a player in the Eastern Basketball League, as a member of the Wallingford Vets army.

Scoring one of the loop's top scorers, right or left handed shots alike to him, as he popped the basket and rocketed to the top of the scores.

Although he draws top pay for his efforts (currently he is with Middletown, in the same circuit) the East Haven lad has a sense of town pride. On many occasions he has sponsored the play for business to join with town teams in seeking semi-pro wins.

And Billy Clancy, Tom Owens, Strickland, McKinnel and the others love him.

His teams reflect such spirit.

They are sharp, clean passing units with much floor speed and versed in the art of shooting baskets. They have a certain cockiness which is the label of a champion.

The style is not showy basketball.

In championship eleven he coached that Fall proves the point. Not particularly tall, it overcomes physical handicaps to loss to point and that to the eventual champions, Shelton. Long hours of practice smoothed out offensive flaws and spirit accounted for its great defensive record.

In the manner of Maher, he is always thinking. Practically all of his walking hours are devoted sometimes unconsciously, to the problems of a new game. He studies the problem long enough to be aware of its consequences but can devise instant strategy to thwart the best laid plans of rival coaches.

If his heart flames for East Haven sports and the situations which surround them it is doubtless flammable for the youth he has coached.

Although he has been very much in demand in recent years, in which East Haven has seen four East Haven lads go to college.

Where Johnny Maher had a single protege, every East Haven youngster has a niche in Frank Crisaf's heart. He works overtime to advise them on the best college offers and on occasions sends them to prep schools, if he has been hamstrung with improper high school credits, a failing of most students throughout the country.

And he is proud of his dark good looks. Born Gloria Gallo, a native of the town, he complements his stature, both physically and in the hearts of the town, the complements his stature, both physically and in the hearts of the town.

Tonight he will travel to Storrs to see two of his former crack athletes open their college careers. After the games they will sit with them to watch the van play. In his free time he will counsel their play.

Seniors he cautions them to stick with their books.

And they, the next time they return home, will drop up to his house on Thompson Avenue, corner of Frank Street. Every detail of their campus life will be discussed. There they will learn that they are on their own. No longer are they protected by friends but they must fight for the spot which will be theirs alone.

As they close the front door behind them and walk up the street, Don McKinnel's hearty voice will ring with approval of a good guy.

The Board of Assessors is visiting all properties within the limits of North Branford to learn the exact type of property, location, condition, modernization and other factors which will be considered in the reassessment of property. The real estate in the town has changed hands and uses to a great extent in the past 10 years. No complete reassessment has been made during that period.

"Your's Truly" had the surprise of her life last Monday evening. I was quietly observing my birthday, when all of a sudden my Dad came up and informed me that I was wanted on the phone down stairs. Not being able to figure out why the person calling hadn't called me on my own phone, I reluctantly went down and was about to pick up the phone when out of the darkness of the living-room, about eighteen voices shouted "Surprise!" Well I grinned near dropped the phone on the floor. The "voices" were members of the "Cowboy Revere" cast and Philionians, who had come to bring me many nice gifts and a beautiful gift from the Philionians of a forty-two piece set of Blue Willow dinnerware, in appreciation for my work in writing and directing their recent production, the "Cowboy's Revere." Though this all was not expected, it most certainly was deeply appreciated, and at this time I would like to say: "Thanks from the bottom of my heart, to a group of wonderful "individuals", who sure have the right formula for making someone a very happy girl!"

Happy Birthday to Dickey Howd, who will be eleven on Dec. 4, and also to Harriet Murray, who celebrates hers on Dec. 11.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Stony Creek Fire Dept. held their Monthly Meeting on Wednesday evening. Bobbie Howd and Bobbie Lowe were the hostesses.

Saw the stork circling the field over the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Lacey the other day, but the "Control Tower" wouldn't let him land quite yet.

The Landes family are moving out of town next week. Come and visit us sometime, folks, you are always welcome!

Miss Elmera Doolittle spent Thanksgiving week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur N. Doolittle. Accompanying her was Miss Barbara Burkenmeyer, of Minneapolis, Minn. Both girls are seniors at Mary Washington College, U. of V., at Fredericksburg, Virginia. Other holiday guests there were Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Pauk and three children, of Levittown, Long Island, and Steven Pauk, of Branford.

Heard that the supply in the Nation's Blood Banks has hit a drastic low, and an appeal has gone out to everyone in every community to pay a visit to the nearest Blood Bank and "Give Your Blood To Save A Life—It May Even Be Your Own—Who Knows Who Will Need It Next?" Some people think that if they pay for the blood when ever it is needed, that it will be okay, but that's not the point—they don't need money, they need blood—for money won't flow in the veins of a person dying from lack of blood.

Miss Jean Northam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Northam, has enlisted in the Women's Air Force.

She will leave for Lackland Air Base, San Antonio, Texas, on Dec. 6. Good luck, Jean, and God Be With You!

Just A Purr

I was wishing just the other day, that I had lots of "dough", so I could buy lot of things, and always be on the go.

And then I looked around and thought, Now girl you must confess,

A mint of money could never buy, the things that you possess.

A happy home. Our little son, and apparently good health,

Then decided this meant more to me than all the nation's wealth!

A son, Clifford Alan, to Mr. and Mrs. William A. Merth (Virginia A. Warwick of this city) of Short Beach Road, Branford, on October 30.
