TWO DOLLARS PER YEAR

Twenty-one Home Permits In January

The building boom is still continuing in East Haven Building Inspector Arthur Riccio indicated today in revealing that permits had been issued for 21 buildings in January which are expected to cost in aggregate, $66,420.

"The figure is significant," the inspector said, "because the anticipated costs are $5,030 lower than last year but 11 additional buildings will be erected."

By comparison new building for the month of January in 1947 totaled $23,975 and in 1948 reached $27,450.

Other permits issued by the town during the month besides the 21 building permits were 27 electrical permits, 5 oil burner permits, 18 plumbing permits and 12 permits for septic tanks.

His report also showed 38 plumbing licenses renewed and 2 electrician licenses renewed.

The town official also said that February and March would show excellent reports.

Building Inspector Arthur Riccio today revealed that the town is currently being surveyed for the purpose of revising some street numbers. The project will take six months.

"It is planned not to change any street numbers except where absolutely necessary," the building inspector said.

Many duplications of numbers have forced the issue, it was indicated.

Many Oppose One Fare To Momauguin

A growing sentiment against the one fare from Momauguin to New Haven has been expressed in East Haven, it was learned by the News this week.

Although a committee from the beach area has been investigating the possibility of reducing the present two fare limit to a single fare for nearly a year, new criticism directed in their behalf may change the desires of the residents of Momauguin.

To date, it has been thought that the proposed one-way fare would be an asset to shoppers, workers and visitors who would be able to visit New Haven paying single fares, and return at the same level.

A public official pointed out this week that the fares also work the other way. People from the City of Elms could make the trip and return at the same price. "That in itself is alright," the informant said.

"But a question remains, Does East Haven want its beaches flooded with people from other cities because of the lack of protection which the two fares afford?"

The fact finding committee has been studying the situation since last Spring and has been in contact with the State Highway Dept. to protect their interests in the matter last March 22. A traffic survey has since been completed by the Connecticut Company which holds the transportation charter in that area, but the finding has not yet been released.

HAGAMAN MEMORIAL LIBRARY LISTS ONE MAN ART EXHIBIT

Beginning Saturday, March 4, and continuing through Saturday, March 18, there will be a one-man show of works by Howard John Besnia at the Hagaman Memorial Library in East Haven. The work includes 25 paintings, consisting of oils, gouaches, egg tempera and water colors.

Mr. Besnia is now a graduate student in the Department of Painting at the Yale School of Fine Arts. He previously majored in Fine Arts at Clark University, Worcester, Mass., where he received his A.B. degree in 1947. He received his B.F.A. from Yale last year. He has also attended Corcoran School of Art and the Westchester Art Museum School. Mr. Besnia now teaches commercial art at the Whitney School of Art in New Haven.

In the exhibition will be seen a recent mural design executed in egg tempera. Also in egg tempera are a portrait, "Doc Walker," and a painting entitled "Futility of War." The five water color paintings are "New Haven Trap Rock," "Fort Hale Cliff," "Washington Windows," "Lobby Room," "Morris Cove Scene." There is one non-objective painting.

Lemonecelli Boy Passes Written R.O.T.C. Exam

Only a naval physical examination stands between Edward Lemonecelli, a senior in East Haven High School, and a four year scholarship to the college of his choice, the East Haven News learned today.

Young Lemonecelli took the written part of the Naval Officers Reserve Training Corps examination last December and will go to New York City next Wednesday to try the physical tests.

The lad is one of several thousands throughout the United States who has taken the examination in which about 2000 will be eligible to go to the college of their choice. 1800 will be civilians and the other 200 will be selected from the enlisted personnel on active duty in the Navy and Marine Corps.

Lemonecelli's feat is widely thought of here since he has not yet graduated from high school. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Lemonecelli of 16 Hemingway Avenue.

The Regular Student program provides not more than four years of Navy subsidized education. Students, upon enrollment, are appointed Midshipmen. USNR. The government pays the cost of tuition, textbooks, laboratory and other fees of an instructional or administrative nature, as well as furnishing the necessary uniform.

Midshipmen receive a retainer pay at the rate of $50.00 per month to assist in defraying other expenses. It has been found that this retainer pay is usually not sufficient to make the student financially independent, and that an additional $100.00 to $200.00 per year, depending upon the college and the student, is necessary to meet all expenses.

Since first-year students are usually advised by the college not to undertake outside employment, applicants should indicate choices of college where expenses will be within their budget.

Training School Ends Following Police Study

The police training school conducted in East Haven over the past several weeks closed on Tuesday night. Thirty-five members of the Police Departments from East Haven, Annex, North Haven and Branford plus constabulary members from North Branford attended the eight week instruction classes.

The session was sponsored by the East Haven Police Department. Those attending were given instruction in arrest procedure, firearms use and other subjects. Speakers included FBI agents, State troopers, Capt. Howard Young, assistant to Chief Henry P. Clark of the New Haven Police Department, and Chief Edwin B. Priest of the East Haven Police.

The course, instituted by Chief Priest, was the first of its kind ever sponsored by East Haven Police. Classes were held in the Town Court.

Property Tax Bills In Mail Rafter Says

Tax Collector Wilfrid J. Rafter said today that the last of the tax bills will be mailed from his office by Friday night.

Notice has already been given that property taxes are due and payable to the Town of East Haven in two equal installments—on March 15 and August 15, 1950.

Full payment of taxes in the amount of twenty dollars or less must be made by March 15, 1950. Persons failing to make payment on the first half of their taxes by April 15 will be charged interest after that date at the rate of 6 percent, dating from March 15.

A similar assessment will be made if the second half of the taxes are not paid by September 15, 1950. The interest will be charged from March 15, 1950.

Rafter said that many persons have already made payment to his office which is open daily for that purpose.

Hornet, Comet Represented At Press Session

Twenty-one members of the Hornet and the Comet student newspaper of Branford and East Haven High Schools attended the second annual newspaper symposium at the Junior College of Commerce, New Haven, on February 22.

The symposium, which has been designed to provide a meeting place for the discussion of high school newspaper problems, included a speech by Garrison Ellis, Chairman of the Yale Daily News, on "Student Reporting: Its Trials and Rewards."

In addressing this group, which included representatives from thirty-five high schools, Mr. Ellis told of his experiences on the News and his establishing a weekly paper at St. Mark's School in Southborough, Massachusetts.

This talk covered one phase of the program entitled "The Value of the High School Newspaper," and was developed through the efforts of the staff of the Chronicle, student paper of the Junior College. The entire group discussed the vocational merits of high school newspaper work, and the value of a paper to the school and the student. Group members dealt with such subjects as cooperation between a high school newspaper and yearbook, and the differences between high school and college newspapers.

The faculty advisors, editorial staffs, business boards, and photography staffs of the various papers met and discussed mutual points of interest, with comparable staffs of other high school papers. Representing the Hornet were Ruth Johnson, Barbara Rodman, Mary Zurawski, Elizabeth Maderer, Lillian Makosky, Agnes Dudley, Jenn Zebrowski, Ann Anastasiou, Gretchen Young, Lee Mckeivitz, Monica Close, Edna McCarthy, Marvin McCoy, George Sabo and Patricia Dolan.

From the Comet, Maryanne Scallise, Madeleine Riccietelli, Robert Bowden, Julie Criscuolo, Robert Hackbart and William Woods were the representatives.

Following the afternoon meetings the delegates were entertained at a dinner by the students of the Junior College of Commerce at the Whitney Avenue Campus.

Draft Board headquarters 8, 9 and 10 have been located in the Veterans Center, 284 Cedar Street, according to Edmund Markiewicz, chairman of Board 10, and spokesman for the other boards.

The three boards, which cover the New Haven area were moved from their former quarters in the Army Induction Center, Howe and Chapel Streets. The move was made to make it convenient for men being discharged from active service, by having all services in one building.

Town Raises $1,441.59 For Polio Victims

The town of East Haven has raised $1,441.59 as its share in the recent National Infantile Paralysis Drive. General Chairman Matthew Anastasio said today.

MATTHEW ANASTASIO

The sum is approximately the same as last year's but was a even better job the chairman saluted since two heavy contributions, made last year, failed to materialize this time.

Anastasio was proud that East Haven was able to equal last year's contribution since most other towns in the area failed by wide margins to match the quotas set for them.

Aside from letters which were the main source of income, with $738.70 collected, through the mail, the schools gave in for a major portion of the praise for the excellent job done raising $210.00 through that medium.

Organizations and business houses contributed $195.00 and coin collections totaled $156.30. The East Haven Theatre, through its coin box system of collection, raised $140.00 from the Theatre patrons.

Mr. Anastasio especially thanked all who in any way contributed to the success of the campaign, particularly the following chairmen and their committees: Honorary Chairman, First Selectman Frank S. Clancy. Co-chairman, Mrs. Eugene Barker. Treasurer, Wilfrid Rafter. Tax collector, Colin boxes, Salvatore Longobardi. Organizations and business houses, Benny Goodman; Hackbart, William Durso, Herman Tompkins and James Miland; Schools, William E. Gillis and Carl H. Garvin; Mailing and stamping the Mrs. Harry Hunt and Moore. Publicity, Mrs. Jane Thompson, Paul Stevens and William J. Aherm.

The chairman also thanked Ruth Homans for her speaking appearances in behalf of polio and Mrs. Coulter and her typing class for the excellent job of typing the letters.

Equal thanks was expressed to the Pequot Tribe, No. 71, Order of Redmen and the East Haven Chapter of AMVETS who made the theatre collections.

Although most of the collections have been coming scattered returns are still coming through the mails, Anastasio said today.

Simple Forms For Landlords Are Now Ready

Clarence C. Westerber, Area Rent Director, announced today receipt of simplified forms for use in a landlord's application for adjustment of rent. Westerber stated that the revised form will be used by landlords in filing their petitions for increases in rent on all grounds other than Fair Net Operating Income. The new form, available in the Rent Office, he stated brings to date in one page form the various requirements for application under the Rent Act and the rent regulations.

In making his application, the landlord certifies that he is maintaining the services which he is required to furnish, and he has given a copy of the petition to each tenant. The tenant in turn, is required to respond within seven days and a copy of his response directed to the Rent Office, must be furnished to the landlord.

The new simplified form, the Regional Housing Expediter stated, should result in greatly accelerated processing of the landlords' petitions inasmuch as it will be used for all grounds for adjustments covered by the rent regulation with the single exception of those applications which are pre-empted upon the Fair Net Operating Income adjustment provision. Petitions based upon that adjustment provision must be filled on a special form since sundry figures from the books of the landlords are required to be submitted.

Booster Club Meets Monday To Hear Erichs

The E. H. Booster Club will conduct another town-wide meeting on Monday evening in the Town Hall, starting at 8:15.

Guest speakers, a prominent father-son combination will be presented, both of whom are closely associated with youth welfare activity, similar to the Booster Club effort. Herbert C. Erich and Bert "Buddy" Erich, for many years summer residents at Mansfield Grove, will give interesting comments pertaining to youth welfare and what can be accomplished through organization.

Mr. Erich, the elder, a department head at Seamless Rubber Company, enjoys the distinction of having an instrumental part in the success of many greater New Haven sports activities, not to mention his active participation in several Yale University Athletic functions. For many years he was a professional wrestling referee.

Another notable point is his prominence in the N. H. Sportsmen's Club, N. H. Boy's Club, Gridiron Club and Y. M. C. A., sports program. His sincere interest in the Booster Club is the reason he has volunteered to appear at the meeting to lend assistance in the development of a worth-while organization.

Cross Harbor Swimmer
Bert "Buddy" Erich, the son, is no stranger in these parts. His name being synonymous with cross-harbor swims of yesterday. While merely a youngster, "Bud" displayed unusual aquatic ability which resulted in capturing the annual Budiva Rock to Lighthouse swim match several times.

His swimming prowess came to him naturally, under the watchful eye of his dad; an accomplished swimmer in his own right. At present, "Bud" is on the faculty at Hopkins grammar school where he continues to devote time to his love, the water, as coach of the swimming team.

Aside from enjoying the words of the honored guests, the busy-ness at hand concerning the elections of officers for the ensuing year and the acceptance of a report of a committee which met recently with the Board of Education on matters important to the welfare of the local youth.

The meeting is open to all interested.

The usual summer baseball program, instituted three years ago by the Booster Club, must also be discussed, with plans for this summer to be outlined. Father and older brothers of the youngsters who participated in the past programs are especially urged to attend this meeting as a testimonial to those who are making an effort to keep the younger boys occupied with a supervised baseball league.

Inasmuch as other Monday evening functions prevent the possible attendance of many men who would otherwise be on hand, a suggestion is hereby offered to forego the usual attendance at the other affairs and be present at this Booster Club meeting. This suggestion is in no way made to undermine any other organization, but rather to make one supreme effort to enlist those whose interests are essential to the future of a strong youth program.

LOCAL GIRL'S WORK SINGLED FOR S.N.E.T. MAGAZINE ARTICLE

In the February issue of the Telephone Bulletin, considerable space is devoted to the work of girls in the Plant Department of the Southern New England Telephone Company. In particular, Marjorie Page Plant Clerk in the Branford office is singled out for special story title, "On the Job With A Plant Clerk," it follows:

"Despite the predominance of rugged, two-lined males in our Plant Department, you're dead wrong if you think the department can get along without the help of the sugar-and-spice sex. "We found that out by visiting Marjorie Page, Plant equipment clerk at Branford. We chose Branford and Marjorie because all the clerical assignments there are handled by one employee and it's easier to see the complete job in a one-clerk office than in a large one where the work is divided among several people.

"In terms of the records and files she keeps, the reports she prepares and the services she performs, Marjorie has a hand in almost all Plant department activities. "Marjorie is the department's information bureau; she can tell the boss (Plant Supervisor Oscar Carlson) how many hours his men put in the previous week, how many subscribers reported trouble with their phones the previous day, or report to him (for the next month) the causes for all service troubles in the three exchanges (Branford, Guilford and Madison) served by Branford Plant.

"She must be able to produce from her files at a moment's notice blueprints, operating procedures, records on tools and personnel and motor vehicles, and correspondence of all kinds. This means, of course, that she keeps them filed up to the minute.

"Engineers, accountants and Plant supervisors at headquarters also depend on Marjorie for information. For example, her reports tell them what jobs Branford's Plant force worked on and for how long, how the service orders completed each day, and the number of service troubles reported and their causes.

"Normally calls from subscribers reporting trouble with their telephones go direct to the men at Branford's switchboard. Marjorie, however, has been trained to take 'trouble calls,' and when a bad storm strikes, crippling service,

"This is no routine job. Marjorie has been working at it over five years and admits she's learning all the time. "I wouldn't trade it for any other job I know of," she says. "It's never monotonous, because for every report or filing job I do over and over there is always a new one that's a little different from the others.

"And sometimes the job is exciting, like the stormy day last February when I was on the repair service desk all day. All day long I took calls from people who were having trouble with their phones. At first it didn't look as though we'd ever catch up. Then as the day went on and saw the 'trouble clear' reports pour in I felt pretty good. It was nice going home at night, knowing I had helped."

"ST. PATRICK'S DAY DINNER Mr. Frank Kinney, Jr., and Mrs. John Waters have been named Co-Chairman for a Turkey Dinner at St. Mary's Church Hall on Thursday, March 16th at 6:30 P.M. A large committee is working with Mr. Kinney and Mrs. Waters. Tickets are limited, and anyone planning to attend should purchase them well in advance. Mrs. Edward Garrity is in charge of tickets.

"HALF HOUR CLUB Branford Half Hour Reading Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Sidney V. Osborn on Thursday.

"FROM OUR BAKERY HOT CROSS BUNS Jim and Nino's RESTAURANT and BAKERY North Main Street Tel. 8-0271 Branford

"HERE'S PROOF: Full-width Freezer Chest holds up to 43 lbs. of frozen food. New full-length door. All- porcelain storage compartment. Ice-Blue interior trim, new-est kitchen fashion note. All-aluminum, rust-proof shelves.

"ADJUSTABLE SLIDING SHELF. New split shelf. Two all- porcelain Hydrators that stack up. All- porcelain Multi-Purpose Tray. Quikchoke Ice Trays. Famous Meter-Miser mechanism with 5-Year Protection Plan.

Garden Notes

MARCH is intimate and mud and willows budding into bud. March is sniffling. March is sleep. March is looking up nose and feet. March is sun and wind and chills and crocuses and daffodils. March is winter. March is spring. March is something of everything.

The Branford Garden Club will hold the regular meeting at the Library, Friday, March 3, at 8 P.M. An illustrated lecture, "Hemlock-Rosemary from the Garden to the Garden Club," and the reader will be Miss Madeline Zacker. Mrs. H. E. Cox, president, will preside and Mrs. Hag Soldkin and Mrs. George S. Paven are in charge of the program. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Witchhazels— forerunners of Spring. These lines were written in the woods before the swallows dare and take. The winds of March with beauty, the sequence of full bloom with praise of daffodils, but they might have been inspired by the golden ribbons of the witchhazel blossoms which, though less conspicuous than daffodils, appear even earlier. Moreover, in some species, the flowers are decidedly winter months of viewing the garden through the snow. Witchhazel is actually on its way, merits our appreciation.

In the first place (and what people) the witchhazels are very easy to grow. They do not require any particular kind of soil, doing well in most good garden loams. Naturally the better the soil, the more vigorous the growth and the more flowers they will bear.

A well-drained soil might be best as far as moisture requirements are concerned, but there is ample evidence to suggest that at least the Hamamelis virginiana, native to the eastern United States, seems to do well in either moist or dry situations. On a walk through the woods in almost any part of the East, one will come upon these shrubs often growing in "trouble clear" spots, but don't be fooled by this; they thrive in full sun. The plants which are in a group are on an open place in which to grow. Witchhazels as a group are valued for this very thing; their early flowers sometimes appearing even before winter snows and winter cold have disappeared. Are they worth the trouble of growing? That will depend somewhat on its site. But here are a few things to consider. After a dreary winter months of viewing the garden through the snow, the first glimpse of witchhazel in full bloom is actually on its way, merits our appreciation.

Marjorie gets okay from Oscar Carlson, Plant service supervisor, on order for special materials. She received order from Gil Floyd, foreman of installers and handles it from there.

you'll find her at the repair desk taking calls and passing them on to the men. In order to do this job properly, she has learned how to post the "trouble log"—a running record of all service troubles—and the "line cards"—individual record cards for each subscriber.

"Marjorie helps the facilities assigner, too. He is busiest during the summer months, when summer residents swell the population of Branford Guilford and Madison, bringing a wave of temporary telephone installations and later disconnects. The facilities assigner must keep his cable charts up to the minute and during the busy summer months Marjorie pitches in to help him whenever she can.
