FEDERAL HOUSING AGENCY RESERVES $58,800 FUND FOR EAST HAVEN USAGE

First Selectman Frank S. Clancy has received a telegram from the Housing and Home Finance Agency in Washington, D. C. notifying him that the Division of Urban Redevelopment has reserved $58,800 in capitol grant monies for urban redevelopment in East Haven. The reservation will be effective until December 30, 1950.

Clancy said that his first act in regards to the money will be to create a study group to investigate circumstances in town and find where the money might best be spent.

The group will be organized in the near future. Although Clancy's request was for $3,000,000, it was explained that the above limit had to be placed in order that all towns might be provided for equitably for requests which might be made within the initial reservation period.

The reduction was made in accordance with Title I of the Housing Act of 1949.

A confirming letter received from Director N. S. Keith said that if there are any further any unreserved capitol grant monies from the first $200,000,000 contract authorization, a further reservation for any part of the excess amount of the local request may be made.

Clancy will be advised if such a condition develops. The reservation does not constitute a binding agreement but is a notice of the intent of the Housing and Home Finance Agency to hold capitol grant monies available for East Haven until the expiration date.

The reservation expires automatically unless, on or before the expiration date, the applicant (a) application for Federal aid under Title I in accordance with the forms and requirements prescribed by the Housing and Home Finance Administration, or (b) evidence of other positive steps toward the undertaking of projects under Title I, which, in the judgment of the administrator is sufficient to justify an extension of the reservation of funds for an additional period of time.

The reservation may also be canceled or reduced if availability of funds or other considerations require such action.

Joseph Melillo Named Athletic Director, Here

Joseph Melillo, director of summer recreation and instructor in physical education for the town's Grammar Schools was appointed athletic director in the high school for the coming year, at a meeting of the Athletic Advisory Council held Tuesday night in the high school.

The appointment of Alfred Migdalski of 171 Oakley Street, New Haven, as assistant football coach was also recommended.

Both choices are expected to be confirmed at the August 11 meeting of the Board of Education.

Full membership of the new council was present with the exception of the student members who will be chosen when school convenes in September.

Melillo will replace Joseph Mayo who resigned last spring. Mayo expects to do outside studying for additional degrees, he told the News at the time.

Migdalski, a graduate of Arnold College and prominently identified as a basketball official will replace Matthew Tierney, resigned, in the scholastic football picture.

BUILDING INSPECTOR GRANTS 42 PERMITS

Forty two building permits were granted in East Haven for the month of July, it was announced today from the office of Building Inspector Arthur Riccio.

The new buildings have been estimated to cost approximately $165,200, Riccio said.

In addition 48 electrical permits, 27 oil burner permits, 22 plumbing permits and 16 permits for septic tanks were allowed bringing an approximate $38,000 additional to the town's building estimate.

Most of the building is being done privately, the town's inspector said.

Twenty two power pump permits and 39 excavation permits concluded that phase of the inspector's work.

Two plumbing licenses were granted and 15 electrician's licenses were allowed in addition to 4 licenses to install oil burners.

Splintered debates are indicated when Foxon parents and parents of the children of Laurel School attend a high school session on Friday evening at 8 P. M. to vote on two plans involving the schooling of the youngsters.

Under Plan I, school authorities would transport grade school children of the first four grades from Foxon to Laurel School and the children of the last four grades from Laurel to Foxon Schools.

Plan II, calls for the hiring of a new teacher for the Foxon School and for the children to attend their own district schools as formerly.

Only parents of children affected will be allowed to vote on the cards which will be handed parents at the door of the meeting place.

People of the area who are vacationing and are qualified to vote will be sent cards. They will forward their choice to the Board of Education which will announce its decision after the board meeting on August 11.

Friday's vote will be final. Objectors to Plan I will voice their disapproval because they feel that their children are too young to be transported into another area. It is quite likely that most of the objection will come from Foxon where the youngest school children will be affected.

In support of the plan will be those who will see a chance for better educational methods under present day standards. Under Plan I, classes will be all of one grade and will average about 12.

Plan II decrees that the children attend their own district schools but a new teacher would be hired to ease the burden in the Foxon schools. Also, the classes would be doubling up in school rooms, a practice contrary to accepted theories of public education.

Rafter Warns Taxpayers Of Second Half

Tax Collector Wilfrid Rafter, today advised East Haven residents that the second half of their 1949 taxes are due and payable, August 15. The thirty day grace period extended to taxpayers expires September 15.

Persons who are delinquent will be assessed an additional one half of one percent dating from March 15, Rafter said.

Drowning Mars Saturday Fun Of Swim Party

One drowning in the East Haven river, off Mansfield Grove last Saturday, marred a week-end of unusually heavy beach activity here.

The victim, Felix Aleksa, 56, of 288 Wallace Street, New Haven, was believed to have suffered a heart attack while swimming several hundred feet off shore.

Military services were held from the funeral home of J. Markiewicz and Sons, 15 Trumbull Street, New Haven on Tuesday afternoon at 2. Interment was in Beavertide Memorial Park.

Aleksa, a strong swimmer, was one of a beach party of four from New Haven who went to the popular swimming resort early Saturday afternoon. Once he changed his clothes, he immediately went into the water and despite being absent from his party for a long period, he was not missed since the beach was crowded.

His body was discovered by Jack Redford of 77 Woodlee Street, Michael Mancuso of 374 Perry Street and Joseph Somma of 376 Ferry Street all of New Haven. When their small craft nearly upset as they attempted the rescue, they called on Nick Esposito of 55 Cliff Street who operates a speedboat nearby. He maneuvered close to the smaller boat and the body was removed from the water.

Prompt artificial respiration methods failed to revive Aleksa and the East Haven Fire Department was called to the scene. Despite one hour and one half's work with two oxygen tanks, by the firemen, the New Haven man did not recover. He was pronounced dead by East Haven's assistant medical examiner, Dr. Donald Beckwith, who said that death was caused by drowning but added that a heart attack may have precipitated the accident.

Patrolman Edward Stenham, who was assisted in the investigation by Patrolman Ellsworth McGulgan, said that the party arrived at the beach at about 1:45. In the group besides the World War I veteran, were Mrs. Blanche White, who runs the boarding house where Aleksa lived, Mrs. Minnie E. Lunevitz of 446 Elm Street, New Haven and Vincent C. Kripaitis of 107 Warwick Street, New Haven.

The deceased is survived by one brother, Joseph, of New Haven.

TOWN TOPICS

Charley Muller didn't mind the heat at Sunday's weekly drill of the Bradford-Manor Fire Department. In practicing extinguishing automobile fires, the Momauguin man tested the velocity of the pump; the hard way, Charley's clothes, and he, were soaked but his mates did not have their spirits dampened in the least. Just another case of an un-sung hero.

Ben Gamache of 48 Iver Street and Ray Langlois both of faculty will complete a summer course at New Britain State Teachers College this week-end. Leon Taylor has returned to East Haven after a fishing trip of two weeks at New Found Lake in New Hampshire.

Post Office force, left last Sunday for a two week's vacation at Cape Cod. Ben Plans a complete surf casting holiday.

An indication of the work the busy town clerk's office of Margaret Tucker is doing, practically every day is found in the figures of July 1949 when $93 worth of deeds were recorded. Although the sum is large, it is not near the record established in 1945 and 1946 when the area was land conscious.

Paul Albano was a forlorn looking figure on the Hamden Plains on Monday last Sunday. The snappy second baseman has his left arm in a cast, the result of a sliding injury.

This one should have been mentioned before but Captain Brown of the Bradford Manor Fire Department and his fire brigade were called to a house fire in the vicinity of Morgan's Point recently. The blaze was extinguished in jig time but the engine made an unauthorized stop on the way home to put out an automobile conflagration. You guessed it. The good captain's car was the victim.

The Board of Education requested this column to retract a statement made in your July 27, 1950 issue which read as follows:

"Fireworks slated for the Board of Education meeting tomorrow night. Secretary of the Board, John Corbett has recommended the dismissal of one of the high school juniors. Matter was tabled recently on request of Board members, Bancroft and Tripak."

George McKee doubts that schools will be ready for the opening in September. McKee, a member of the school building committee, says new schools are urgently needed. Which the town agrees."

We are sorry if we were misunderstood. We understand Mr. McKee is not a member of the school building committee and that the schools will be opened for the coming school year.

We also understand that no recommendations for dismissal were made or acted upon.

Papa Chris DePolice was the happiest member of trio when his other half and daughter, Jane, came into Everybody's Pharmacy the other evening, with announcement of her blue ribbon winning dolls in hobby show at Memorial Field.

EIGHT THOUSAND EXPECTED TO VIEW COLORFUL PARADE AT FIELD DAY, SATURDAY

Members of the winning teams in the three Bowler leagues for Boys are in for a New York trip to watch the Yankees play. It was learned yesterday in the Town Hall where First Selectman Frank S. Clancy was preparing to call George M. Weiss, general manager.

The date will be at the discretion of the New York Club officials. In addition, the winners of the three leagues plus the girls softball league will receive small gold charms from the Park Department.

The decision to send the boys to New York came after a conference between Joseph Melillo summer recreation supervisor, and Clancy at Memorial Field on Wednesday.

A year ago an attempt was made to send the winners of the league to New York but enough private support could not be obtained to pay for the excursion. Instead they were taken to Exhibition Stadium for a Sailor game.

Clancy said that he will request the use of a school bus or buses, as required, to make the trip. In a telephone conversation with the Public Utilities Commission in Hartford Wednesday, the First Selectman was advised that school buses could not be used for the trip providing they were town owned.

The local leagues have been holly contacted this summer at Memorial Field where scheduled games are played four days a week. The three circuits exceed by two, last year's one league operation.

Much interest has been evidenced in the girls softball league under the direction of Charlotte Gallo. The winners will be included in the group receiving the charms.

Citizens Asked To Volunteer On Home Front

East Haven's entire defense against air raids or other wartime attacks consists of the fire department's siren and fire horns.

That was a summary sent to State Civilian Defense Coordinator Edward Hickey in Hartford, this week. Hickey is also state public commissioner.

Disturbed over the lack of an active group planning for conditions which might prevail during a possible war, First Selectman Frank S. Clancy asked yesterday that persons interested in serving on such a committee contact him and an early meeting would be arranged.

The entire state is making quiet plans against any lack of preparation. The Chief Executive said, "and East Haven must be among the other towns."

Weekly meetings are being held in Westbrook where the heads of various civilian departments are learning how to combat radio-active burns and many of the distress situations which might come in case of war.

The purpose of Hickey's letter was to inventory the needs of this and other towns.

THE COLOR CALL

By BILL AHERN

Two weeks ago all was bustling about the Branford Army where some sixty-three men were preparing to embark for the Camp for summer maneuvers. There was considerable hithering as is the case whenever a group of young fellows congregate, preparatory to starting an adventure.

If anyone noticed Captain John Schweinfelder smiling laudably in public, he is not humorous, graciously smiling in public, before leaving. He is not humorous, graciously smiling in public, before leaving. He is not humorous, graciously smiling in public, before leaving.

Local dallies carried copies from Major General Grant saying that the 43rd would not be among the four National Guard divisions to be mobilized. He thought that he would send his dist burier, Walt Gathman, to the hill in an effort to lighten the load.

Happy over the Townies' recovery from a recent hitting slump, Sadovoy intimated that there would probably be no changes in the line-up which won over the Plainmen in a thrilling 7 to 2 fashion Saturday.

In such an event, long ball hitting is a must. It is in this regard that the Townies have been successful. The pitcher and the batter are both expected to be good.

As soon as a telephone line could be cleared, Captain Schweinfelder was on the phone explaining in terse words, the situation. He was calm and his thoughts were of his men as he relayed the information to explain to everybody that his men would be home on Sunday as scheduled.

Once in 1888, the Branford Battery experienced a call to duty but the further it went into actual combat was the Niandic Training Camp. The unit had just been recognized from another war.

It was on the mud filled fields of France, in the midst of some of the war's most memorable battles, that the Branford men watched tanks lumber into battle for the first time and saw canvas and wiring wire connections present a great change in military tactics.

Twenty-three years later, they humbly bade farewell to their country and their homes. They were sent to a military school in instruction from books of experience which had already been thumb-marked by time and discarded. It was in January of 1941 that the 208th A. B., newly designated Branford Base Battery went to Camp Edgewood, N. Y. and from there was shipped into El Paso, Texas for a period of six months.

In February of 1942, the Battery was leaving the shores of California bound for a new theater where it was to be engaged in the most intense fighting since the days of the Civil War.

Wondrous, if awesome, sights greeted their eyes, as they watched huge machines cart away jungles and mountains alike. In creating a bridge where thousands of planes based their attacks in all out efforts from sleek, powerful craft, a reconstruction of wire cloth, small boats and waves and then waddled on stone against constant fire and other craft skidded in shallow water to unload great tanks which sped in powerful fury against the enemy.

Back home, mobilization was carried on in a different way. Gray jackets spent afternoons sewing and making bandages. Aircraft spotters alertly screened all kinds of weather and an odd assortment of youth and age became a remarkable home guard. Then, as today, preparedness was the theme.

Young Tars Will Oppose Townies Sun.

Followers of baseball here will be in for another diamond treat next Sunday when the Townies oppose the Young Tars in one of the day's two New Haven Baseball League contests.

The youngest team in the eight club circuit, the Juniors have had a tough season but have managed to make things interesting for every club it has opposed.

The locals won the first, grand-slammed Exhibition Stadium early in the season by a 6 to 0 count. Manager Bill Sadovoy said last night that he will send his dist burier, Walt Gathman, to the hill in an effort to lighten the load.

THE SPORTSPOUT

By BILL AHERN

Nearly 2000 townspeople got a kick out of the Donkey softball game between the Headquarters Fire Department and the local police at Hammer Field last Sunday night but not nearly as much as the players received after riding the haykriter for three periods, concluding with a 9-2 tie.

Some of the police were sore over it. It is well to remember that the basket brigade did not come over it was able to tie the encounter. One particularly frisky animal carrying John Kasianes to first, remarked, when touched with the electric battery, "I sure get a charge out of this." All the other donkeys got the point and the Haykriter, who understands why daddies never sit.

Loss Here, Too. Many of the New Haven teams will feel the loss of key players since the edict which makes the 43rd division a part of the regular army. HELD IN TIME. Many of the New Haven and Branford high schools appear set for good seasons although practice is still three weeks away. COPS, FIREMEN PLAY 9-9 TIE AS DONKEYS FRISK UNDER LIGHTS

Nearly 2000 townspeople got a kick out of the Donkey softball game between the Headquarters Fire Department and the local police at Hammer Field last Sunday night but not nearly as much as the players received after riding the haykriter for three periods, concluding with a 9-2 tie.

Some of the police were sore over it. It is well to remember that the basket brigade did not come over it was able to tie the encounter. One particularly frisky animal carrying John Kasianes to first, remarked, when touched with the electric battery, "I sure get a charge out of this." BRANFORD'S LOSS

Jobs Not Affected By Flexible Tubing's Shift To Guilford On Nov. 15

When Flexible Tubing Corporation severes its connections with Branford and moves into its new $150,000 brick and steel plant and office building in Guilford about November 15 no Branford employees will suffer loss of their jobs by virtue of the change. Secretary Eugene G. Swartz told The Review that in the new plant, construction of which is already underway, the manufacturing concern will have an immediate factory employe potential of more than 100.

of Hartford, Mr. Daggett is now a resident of Pine Orchard. He came here during the war years as commanding officer of the Coast Guard in this area, and subsequent to the cessation of hostilities joined the organization of Warner Brothers in Bridgeport. That company had been making a war-born retractable tubing which was used by the Navy for ventilation on ships and in shore installations.

Production of the tubing was about to be dropped, but Mr. Daggett, an air conditioning engineer, saw its peace-time possibilities and through the assistance of the American Research and Development Corporation of Boston was able to form a corporation which took over the tubing patents. The original designer was Clyde M. Hamblin, a civilian engineer with the Navy's Bureau of Ships.

See Editorial "How Many To Go?"

Flexible Tubing now employs in the neighborhood of seventy people, the majority of whom live in Branford, although they are several who commute from Guilford. Guilfordites reach Branford by car pools each day. Bus riders are met in the center of Branford and taken to the plant. When the move is made, it will be the local workers who will be transported in a similar manner.

Product Used Universally to Guilford's The new addition to Guilford's "industrial family" manufactures a flexible and retractable tubing used for ventilation and for products conveying, the use of which is so universal that the company has agents in every part of the globe. Trade named "Spiratube", the treated fabric and wire-reinforced tubing is much in demand, and the necessary up-production program decided upon the erection of the building there.

Flexible Tubing's new building will be on Whitfield Street, set well back from the roadway on a site immediately south of the New Haven Railroad right of way. This includes about eighteen acres purchased from the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, and five acres from Mr. and Mrs. Harry Preston. This plot of land was bought by the company to allow for plant expansion and for truck parking and maneuvering, and the site is particularly advantageous as it will allow for a railroad siding in the future.

Ground was broken for the new modern one-story plant, which was designed by Caproni Associates of New Haven, well known industrial architects, July 21st at a ceremony presided over by Frederick K. Daggett, the president of the corporation.

Ground Breaking Ceremony The first shovelful of earth on the Whitfield Street site was spaded up following a luncheon at the Little Stone House which was attended by guests of the corporation and by officers and plant officials of Flexible Tubing.

The invited guests included Loren Wheeler, resident inspector, United States Air Force; A. Gove Newton, member of the Flexible Tubing board and president of Rockbestos Products Corporation in New Haven; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Thurston, Guilford realtors; W. Elton Sheehan, chief of the Guilford Fire Department; Guy A. Fogarty, chief of the Guilford Police Department; Lambert W. Harrison, Guilford postmaster; H. Philip Dudley, Shore Line Times editor; and Walter Hoelzer of the Caproni Associates.

Representing Flexible Tubing at the luncheon and ground-breaking ceremonies were Mr. Daggett, corporation president; Eugene S. Swartz, secretary; A. H. Loux, manager of distributor sales; Jack William Gibbs, Jr., accountant; Robert Moran, production and quality control engineer; W. A. Butler, traffic manager; and foremen Herman Bassett and William Lyons.

13,000 Square Feet Mr. Daggett and Mr. Swartz collaborated in spading up the first earth for the building, which will have an area of 13,000 square feet, and then left the rest of the shovel work to mechanical contrivances.

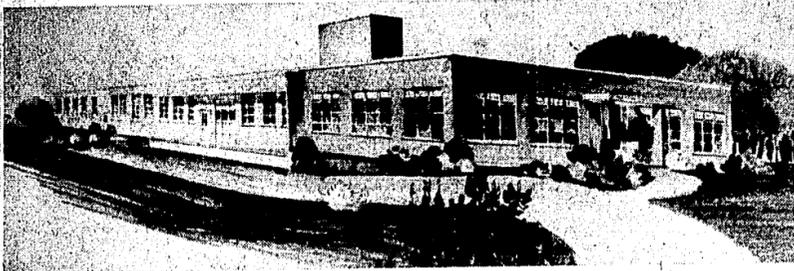

Mr. Daggett, in discussing the plans for the new building and the future of Flexible Tubing, pointed out that the Guilford plant would have a 100-employe potential as compared with a "crowded sixty" in the present leased location on Route 1, Branford cutoff. The further expansion of the Guilford plant is for the future to decide, he said.

Mr. Daggett added that military demands might force a quick expansion of operations, but that Flexible Tubing's development was not dependent upon wars, hot or cold, and that "this move to a new plant in Guilford is by no means one engendered by any military emergency. This is a peace time move to Guilford, with the objective of permanency."

He went on to say that the transfer of operations would be carefully planned in advance, and that the 10 mile shift from Branford was expected to be made without the loss of working day time.

November 15 Tentative The November 15 date for the inauguration of operations in Guilford is a tentative one. Mr. Hoelzer, who is handling the building plans, said that construction would be speeded up as much as possible with the hope of making an even earlier shift. Flexible Tubing's president is well known in the shore area formerly
