TOWN TOPICS

California bound is Frank Onofrio, former bakery route salesman, who will meet up with his other and grandpa in the great Pacific coast state. Frank will have plenty to tell his attractive misses, temporarily residing with her folks in Momauguin when he returns from his cross-country drive.

Bull-dozers have started preliminary moves in the future erection of several new homes on the Shorekey property on Gerrish Avenue opposite Burr Street. Once the homestead of the McQueeney family, the 3 acre tract of land has under gone drastic scenic changes in the last few years, once basted the growing of some of the finest pears, apples and grapes in town down through the years, neglect of the fruit trees and vineyard reduced the plot of ground to one of tangled brush and weeds.

The present owner, Oren Shorekey, has recently cleared the land and prepared it for building lots, of which several have been sold. Mrs. Shorekey, the little settlement will have access to Frances Street on the east and Gerrish Ave. on the west.

Hope this watching and waiting of Coach Frank Crisall is of short duration. He doesn't know which is worse, waiting for the final whistle or that bird worth the long legs and flapping wings.

A seventh grandson was added recently to the list of William Carr, sports enthusiast and retired mail carrier. As "Pop" puts it, two more and he'll have that family baseball squad he hopes for.

Latest grand child is son of William Carr, Jr., of West Haven, the eldest of the Roy St. mailman's family.

Sporting a leg cast from hip to toe is Mrs. Frank Russell of Martin Rd., who slipped on ice some time ago and received serious fractures in her leg. The cast and cast will be cut down in size, thereby reducing discomfort.

Also suffering from similar injury is Main Street carpenter Tony Concilio, who just about got down from fall from scaffold not so long ago.

A committee of six knights of Columbus members of the Fr. Regan Council are busy at present organizing a fund-raising event, one which will perpetuate the usual periodic Saturday night dances and get-togethers held in the Main Street hall.

Working on this latest project are Al Standist, Jim Milano, Nuke Acto, Pete Limoncelli, Ben Santucci and Tony Piro.

Insurance man Alfred Holcombe a patient at Grand Hospital following an acute attack of gastritis last Tuesday.

Mrs. Jane W. Williams of 45 Elm Court saw signs of Spring under her feet Wednesday while hanging out clothes. Two golden blossomed dandelions were blooming. Currently they are in the office on exhibition.

Dan Bixby, auto accident victim, a year or so ago, has been receiving notices or cards— or better still a letter.

The newly formed Teachers College Band of New Haven is being kept in line by the town's latest drum majors, Joan Horton. Also listed in its personnel is clarinetist Donald Smith.

In another Teachers College note, East Havener Doris Jones who was voted queen of the college at a beauty contest last Fall, visited Derby High School yesterday morning to explain the college curricula to the students.

Legionaire Joseph O'Conner, well known insurance man of 64 Casey Beach Avenue, is recuperating from a recent operation in St. Raphael's Hospital, New Haven.

Mimi Miller, English major at Albion College, looked more like a biology post-grad last Friday night when she bisected that large broiled and succulent lobster in one of New Haven's most popular restaurants.

Incidentally the local American Legion still hopes to put on its annual minstrel providing it can iron out certain difficulties.

Tony Proto, who ran Proto's West End Market at 514 Main Street, is out of the grocery business. Has no regrets, however claiming that his friends and customers treated him royally.

Masson Graves spotted at the Yale-Cornell basketball game on Tuesday night. The local manager of the J. Johnson and Sons branch here, has hopes of attending the Sportswriter banquet at the Taft, Jan. 28th.

CHAMBER STARTS DRIVE FOR NEW MEMBERSHIPS

Professional Men Urged To Join Local Organization

The East Haven Chamber of Commerce started the year 1952 with a large attendance at the first meeting of the year of its Board of Directors held on Monday Jan. 14th. Four new memberships were accepted, Economy Market, Frank's Barber Shop, Momauguin Garage and Carnevale's Colonade. Starting immediately a drive for new members will be made until the Annual Meeting which is held in April, and the regular admission fee for new members will be waived during this time.

The object of the East Haven Chamber of Commerce is to promote the welfare of the town and its vicinity. Any individual, corporation, firm, partnership, organization, estate believing in the object of the Chamber is eligible for membership. Persons having a particular interest in business, professional or civic affairs are invited to apply for membership and may call H. Scharf secretary, D. Ferrara at the East Haven Green garage, E. Scobie at Knudsen's Dairy Bar or J. Metzko at Metzko Brothers for applications. A special division of the Chamber of Commerce for Retail Members is headed by D. B. Weil of Dayton's Dress Shop.

Among the communications read was a letter from the Weeping Willows announcing that on February 1st a Miss East Haven Contest will be held. Last year Miss East Haven won the title of Miss Connecticut and placed well in the National Contest held at Atlantic City. Considerable interest in the Miss East Haven Contest is expected this year.

Plans are being made to erect a bulletin board in the center of town, which will have a map of East Haven and sites of interest to all.

It was recommended at this meeting, that the Chamber in cooperation with other organizations and clubs in town inaugurate an inter club council for the purpose of scheduling dates for social and other affairs in order that dates for such affairs will not conflict.

Garden Club Plans Wednesday Session

A meeting of the Garden Club of East Haven will be held on Wednesday, January 23, at 3:30 o'clock in Hagaman Memorial Library. Mrs. Leverett C. Clark will preside.

Mrs. Rudolph Schmidt will present a film, and Mrs. Thomas Fenion is program chairman.

Mrs. Arthur W. Hannaway, hostess for the evening, will be assisted by the Mrs. Ellis L. Jones, John E. Coumey, and Thomas Fenion.

Teachers Accept Salary Offer On Temporary Basis

Chairman Frawley Says Group To Begin New Salary Fight

The teachers salary problems have been temporarily solved Tuesday afternoon, it was voted to accept the salary scheduled offered by the Board of Education last Friday.

The acceptance calls to a halt negotiations which had been in progress for more than a year.

But the teachers have also served notice that acceptance of the terms are only temporary and negotiations for a permanent solution to the salary problem will commence shortly.

The new schedule provides for a $2,400 minimum to a $4,300 maximum for teachers with a bachelor's degree. This proposal is less than the figure which was agreed upon between the teachers and the Board of Education last Spring, according to Caryle Frawley, chairman of the teachers' salary committee.

It is also considerably more than salaries in surrounding towns, Frawley said.

The teachers feel, however, that it is the best that could be arranged at the present in face of budget limitations and logjams, he added.

By accepting this reduction from the agreed upon salary, the teachers believe that a difficult problem will have been temporarily solved, Frawley said, it seems advisable to accept the offer for the present.

The new salary schedule, which provides for across-the-board increases of $200 for all teachers, will be put into effect as of February 1, and will be retroactive to October 1, when the school fiscal year began. Under the new agreement teachers holding masters' degrees will receive from $2,600 to $4,500.

State Trafficmen To Study Change In Signal System

Barker Proposes Signal Change At Main And High Sts.

The traffic commission of the state highway department will shortly send representatives here to study a proposal to use walk signals in place of caution lights at the junction of High and Main Streets.

First Selectman Frank A. Barker made the announcement today. Barker said that such systems are used in states other than Connecticut and seemed to work well and that he was hopeful of favorable reaction from state authorities.

No date has been set for the survey. Barker said that the change, if allowed, would make it necessary for some wiring changes in the present street signal system. He said that red would be shown in all directions when pedestrians are allowed to cross the streets.

It was Barker's opinion that the proposed change would benefit schoolchildren who use the crossing four times a day, at least.

Dozen Home Owners Apply For Sanitary Cleaning Service

The cesspool cleaning plan, instituted in East Haven on Tuesday, is apparently a success.

First Selectman Frank A. Barker said this morning that approximately a dozen requests for the service, applications must be obtained in the office of the building inspector. It is made out in triplicate, one retained by the office, one given to the applicant and the third to the operator of the unit.

Inspections will be made before and after the system is cleaned, Building Inspector Clement Catalano said. A fee of eight dollars will be charged for the inspection service. Applications must provide their own openings and closings, it was said.

Actual pumping will be done under town contract by the Branford Sanitary Company which is owned by Moody Cooke of that town.

The service is for the use of homeowners only and not for business or industrial use.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor: We are writing to ask if you will be good enough to correct two errors in an item which appeared in the January 10th issue of the East Haven News. We refer to the article on school teacher salaries which is at the top of the center column on the second page. We feel that these errors, if allowed to stand uncorrected, pressions upon the people of East Haven. The errors and corrections follow.

The first error is the statement which ends, "—the raises would approximate those offered by the previous Democratic administration."

The fact is that the offer being made by the present administration is considerably better than that made by the previous one. It is also true that this new and improved offer is being made without any need for a change in taxes. We note that the error quoted above is attributed to rumor. This rumor, however, must have been one of the "planted" variety because the facts in the case have been known throughout the East Haven school system.

The second error is the concluding statement that: "The teachers rejected an offer last June of $200 more in salary."

The fact is that no such offer was ever made to the teachers, hence never rejected by them, in June or at any other time. Sometime after the schools had closed, and the teachers had scattered for the summer, a new account was printed in which ex-first selectman Clancy was quoted as saying that it might be possible to arrange such an offer. This suggestion or opinion of Mr. Clancy's was never acted upon by any board of the Town of East Haven. In fact it is quite probable that the teachers who were out of town during the summer never saw the article, or knew a word of it except through chance conversation. From the time the teachers returned to the schools in September, until the election, there was nothing but silence, no offer of any kind was made by them by any person or board. The facts offered here and above may be verified by checking with official records and correspondence.

Very truly yours, East Haven Teachers' Action Committee Raymond C. Smith, Chairman for Publicity

Public Showing Of Plans For Redevelopment Slowed

Final Plans Not Ready Last Week, Session Is Scheduled For Tues.

East Haven must wait at least another week before redevelopment plans are announced.

East Haven will shortly get a first hand view of the final plans for the Redevelopment of Momauguin area.

Chairman Alexander Doran said over the week-end that the initial presentation of the plans to the public will probably come within the next ten days. The Agency reviewed the plans prepared by the Technical Planning Associates, Inc. authorized consultants at a meeting of the commission on Tuesday night.

At a meeting held two weeks ago, the agency received a report from its Real Estate Consultant, Mr. Charles Beausoleil. Mr. Beausoleil has been advising the agency concerning problems of land acquisition, such as the cost of the land and building in the area which will be needed for the redevelopment program, and future values of property when a complete scheme is carried out.

According to Mr. Beausoleil, there are numerous properties in this area which are being saved and which can be incorporated into future plans. In other cases it will be worth while to move some of the houses to new sites in order to create better lots and to eliminate the present over-crowding. On the other hand there are many structures in the area which should be removed entirely, because their condition makes it uneconomical to rehabilitate them for years round use. The plan of Technical Planning Associates, Inc. has been prepared with this procedure in mind.

Mr. Doran said that the agency plans to have a number of meetings in the near future to discuss plans with residents of the neighborhood and others who are interested.

East Haven Support Is Being Sought For Italy Flood Relief Show

The denpian Irishman with the heart of gold, Ed Sullivan, host of the famous television show, "Toast of the Town", will headline a mammoth benefit show in the New Haven Arena on January 31st under the auspices of the State Food Relief for Italy Committee.

The famous newsmen whose column in the New York Daily News is read by millions will serve as master of ceremonies for the gala two-hour show. The army of talent which will shortly be announced promises to be one of the most impressive ever presented on a single bill in this area.

East Haven, Chairman J. Milano emphasized that the arena show is being sponsored to spur relief but is apart from regular drives currently underway throughout Connecticut.

Sullivan, whose benefit stints are legion, is chairman of the entertainment division of the New York Heart Association. The 49-year-old columnist was cited four times by the U. S. government for his World War II entertainment activities in military hospitals.

The Catholic War Veterans commended him for having raised more than $500,000 in two shows at the Madison Square Garden for Army Emergency Relief and the American Red Cross, Richmond, Va., voted him an honorary citizen for his terrific War Bond shows.

A native New Yorker, Sullivan obtained his early education and newspaper experience in Port Chester where he began as a sports writer with the Daily Item. From there he graduated to the big league newspaper circles in New York. He was successively with the now defunct New York Evening Mail, World and Morning Telegraph.

His boss on the Evening Graphic was Emile Gauvreau, once a New York and Hartford newsman. From the Graphic he moved over to the News in 1933 where he has since been writing his syndicated column about the New York social and entertainment scene.

Tickets are now on sale at the New Haven Arena, or can be purchased from Mr. Milano. Seats are limited and will be reserved.

All of the funds will be turned over to the Italian Red Cross to help relieve the emergency existing in the recently flooded Italian towns and cities.

Gov. and Mrs. John Lodge, and several Connecticut senators and representatives are expected to be among the notables who will attend the arena show.

Beauty Contest To Select Miss East Haven Scheduled

G.O.P. Women's Club To Install Officers At Annual Meeting

The Weeping Willows Restaurant is paying beauty, brains and personality but mostly talent.

Last year, Miss East Haven was a Bridgeport girl, Miss Beverly Burland, who went on to win the Connecticut title and a chance to compete for the national beauty crown.

Miss Burland was honored with her own East Haven Day here last August at which time she greeted hundreds of well wishers, in local stores.

Recently she has appeared as a model in the current March of Dimes campaign.

Reservations to witness the local contest are already being received. Other than the selection of the town's beauty queen, the evening will be devoted to fun, dining and dancing. A special floor show has been secured for the occasion, Mgr. Acampora said yesterday.

The East Haven Civil Defense Organization will take an active part in the "Alert America" week which will be celebrated in this town in conjunction with the arrival of the "Alert America Caravan" — a huge motorized cavalcade carrying a dramatic message on America and Civil Defense in the atomic age — that will spend a four day visit in New Haven from January 28 through January 31.

The arrival of the "Alert America" caravan was announced this week by Allan Knight Civil Defense Director, who also stated that the week of January 28th through February 2nd would be designated in East Haven as Alert America Week by First Selectman Frank Barker.

The theme of the convoy program will be that "Civil Defense is Common Sense" and the exhibit which will be held at the Goffe Street armory in New Haven will demonstrate how the individual citizen in now an equal partner with the person in uniform in the defense of this nation.

Two flammable sweaters, of the type recently sold throughout the greater New Haven area by peddlers, have been turned in to the Police Department and have been destroyed.

Chief Edwin H. Priest warned all local residents who may own such sweaters to destroy them immediately or face a possible fine.

The sweaters flare into flame when exposed to a high degree of heat.

Announces Plan Following Panel At PTA Meeting

First Selectman Frank A. Barker this week announced his intention of appointing a school planning committee to look into the problem of building needed new schools here.

Barker made his statement before a meeting of the Union School P.T.A. last Thursday night, during a question and answer period which followed a panel discussion on the subject.

The proposed committee will probably take action on the suggestions and information contained in the report recently made available to the public.

Barker said that the town would be able to borrow money to build new schools and that the burden of the taxpayer would not be too heavy.

He said that the town would be able to borrow money to build new schools and that the burden of the taxpayer would not be too heavy.

Participating in the discussion were Sup. E. Gillis; Raymond Moore, of the Survey Committee; Miss Doris White, a third grade teacher; and Barton Reed, chairman of the Board of Education. Mrs. Oren Parker served as moderator for the discussion.

The extent of overcrowding in local schools was brought forcibly to those in attendance when Mr. Gillis said that he was not planning to use the Library and the houses as classrooms next year in view of their inadequate facilities. It is better to have double sessions, he said.

Previously Miss White spoke on the unsuitability of double sessions and Smith told why the survey committee wanted only to show preventable facts in the report.

Mr. Reed, speaking as a citizen and not as a member of the Board of Education told of the approaches planned for securing additional facilities here.

Superintendent Gillis quoted a survey made in 1944 which predicted many of the current conditions in East Haven schools. He also gave enrollment figures showing the increased enrollment during the last few years. In 1948, the enrollment was 2,985; in 1950, it was 3,273; and last year it was 3,646, Gillis said.

Gillis also said that many new rooms would be needed in all schools in September. Momauguin which now has seven, will need 10; South, which now has two, will need nine; Tuttle, which now has eight, will need eight; Union, which now has seven, will need eight; Gerish, which now has eight, will need 10 or more; Laurel, which now has four, will need five or more; Highland, which now has eight, will need eight; and Foxon, which now has four, will need five or more. In addition, the high school enrollment will be increased by 50 to 65 more students.

Selectman Barker said today that he had not decided on the make-up of the planning committee as yet.

THE CONNECTICUT LIGHT AND POWER COMPANY A Business-Managed, Tax-Paying Company

GRAND GUY

By Bill Ahern

It was one of those hot August days. Little air stirred the waters of the pond on the campus of the University of Connecticut. Darker skies and muttered grumbings of nature forecast a coming thunder storm.

In ever increasing numbers, cars cut through the outer fringe of modern buildings which outline the campus, and mysteriously drew up to one of the dozens to discharge various numbers of men.

Most of them were youthful, athletic figures, but one was a returned personality, his step still brisk despite outward signs of advancing age.

For a short while, the men introduced themselves with the help of badges pinned to the lapel of their coats, but more and more they were drawn to the little man who seemed to be everywhere at once.

It was Tommy Monahan whose physical characteristics often were likened to the late and great Notre Dame coach, Knute Rockne.

After introductions were over, the group assembled at the Hawley armory where the annual sports clinic for high school coaches was to be held.

Famous college coaches were to outline their pet theories on football, baseball and basketball. Questions were welcomed from the floor. Some of the young lads, scarcely older than the boys they taught, were bright chips, eager to learn. Their questions were of the kind, in several cases, where the pointers were particular rather than general, the instructor would apparently be ignorant of facts which clouded the issue.

It was then that Tom Monahan, of Bristol, would be asked to supply an answer. In quiet, gentlemanly tones, Tom would express his thoughts—and always conclude, "That's the way I'd do it. Of course, you follow fellows do things different today."

But the famous Bristol High coach knew as well as anyone that the only way is the right way and that the right paths can lead to the same building, if it answers to high correct.

Later in the evening, he found time to sit around in the lobby of the dorm and chit with college coaches and schoolboy mentors alike. Always the subject was of boys. Always Tom had a fund of tales to tell.

Only a few knew that Mr. Monahan was probation officer in his adopted town. Veteran politicians and newsmen, close to the scene, credit his just counsel for favorable lack of publicity in a town where it might be rampant under statistical scrutiny.

Tom had a soft way of getting under one's skin and one personal conversation made him a life-long friend. His ability to recognize people after a single meeting was tremendous.

Every Spring he was in Boston to witness the New England basketball tournament. He liked most to sit in the lobby and talk over strategic situations of the previous night's play with life-long friends, the newsmen.

And they, accustomed to the blowing of publicity seeking sports figures, used the astute Monahan to settle their questions. They listened and were glad to learn even as they had from one of Monahan's greatest rivals and friends, the late Chick DeWitt, of New Haven.

Previous to Bowen's unlikely death and after he had left the coaching field, it was a great thrill to sit in the lobby of the Hotel Manager in Boston and watch the pair retrace their friendship. Bowen, as assistant principal at Hillhouse, would arrive on Friday evening, but Monahan would have already been through four court games and thirty hours of handshaking. Even before he moved to the desk to complete his registration, Bowen would be scanning the milling crowd for his friend's face and would be glad to learn even as they had from one of Monahan's greatest rivals and friends, the late Chick DeWitt, of New Haven.

Bill sessions at that time of the year just until dawn breaks. Monahan seldom attended them after 1 A.M. Instead he was up bright and early the following morning, a half dozen papers already discarded behind him. Other early risers would join him for breakfast and once more the conversation was steeped in the mistakes and fine plays of the previous night.

Jack Lockery, the referee now of Stamford, was a slight, curly haired kid playing forward for Hillhouse, when Monahan's Bristol team first won the Connecticut scholastic basketball crown. Lockery had a great shot from the corner and was supposed to beat Bristol's zone defense apart but Monahan devised a method to halt the crack youth and walked off with the crown for the first time in 1927.

The touch remained with him in 1929, 1930, 1933 and 1934, but in the intervening years, Bowen, who was a great player, a former Branford athlete, and grabbed the title after one of the greatest plays ever seen on the arena court. Albe Gursko, Andy Palau, and Uke were matched against Bobbitt, Kelly, Davin, Ferlie and Ritter and the scores were always close, the play thrilling.

Twice Bristol won the New England championship, in 1933 and in 1941. The maroon and white needed only one more leg to win permanent possession when Sam Bender's Hillhouse team retired the $500 trophy, a few years back.

It was a big disappointment to Monahan. He wanted that trophy for Bristol and the boys he believed in. He realized that the new parochial school in Bristol will rob the town of any likelihood of getting another opportunity.

Actually he had little chance. His teams were generally staffed with small men who were always good shots but lacked the height to get the rebounds. Consequently in late years, he searched the school to find a boy, the pivot wheel around which his entire machine could be geared. He apparently had that last season, for until last night, his quintet had lost only one game in ten plays.

Tom Monahan was proud of the gold key given him by Connecticut's sport writers in 1946 and proud of also having been given previously the highest honor, the Boy Scouts of America can bestow on the benefactors of scouting, the Silver Beaver. The latter presentation was given him at a surprise assembly in late years.

Some years ago, after Emmons Bowen had died as the result of a fall from a school window, Tommy Monahan was trying to explain the deep personal loss he felt. For Bowen, like Monahan first built men, then athletes. Both took their bumps in stride—and they had them. Both were stronger characters because of them.

Somewhere in Bristol today, a student could be playing hockey except his heart isn't in it—for suddenly, on Tuesday morning, white at school, Tommy Monahan, the friend of all kids, big and small, old and young, died suddenly.

A pall clouded Connecticut's sport life immediately, morally likened to the cloud-darkened sky over Storrs during Clute time last August.

Already two personalities have met somewhere in the hereafter. One is an athletic red-headed coach with the broad shoulders of a major league ball player. The other is a rotund figure, facially akin to another great coach, Knute Rockne.

The former New Haven coach already has offered that warm hand-clasp and smile, "Where were you, Tom? I've been waiting for you."

And Tom has rubbed his hand over his bald pate, a memento he used when pondering substitutions in a basketball game, and answered, "I was late, Chick. You see I have a pretty good team this year."

Then, arm in arm the two walked off, looking for a conversational partner.

Nearby, a figure was bent over. The Creator was making new molds. He smiled.

Two of his finest patterns were home.

Branford High Visits Derby Friday For League Contest

Branford fans are waiting for a prediction by Coach Warren Sampson as to how the team will fare in the coming season. The waiting may end on Friday night.

For several weeks now Sampson has been saying that forward Billy General is due to break out with a dash of basketball. "He needs confidence," is the way Sampson puts it.

Tomorrow night may provide his opportunity for the Hornets will play on the road to Derby where they will oppose the Red Raiders in scheduled League League contest.

Derby, with only Dick Kiley left of its 1951 winning championship team, will be a tough opponent. The five last year, have not come along too fast to date and in his inexperience may rest General's opportunity.

The Raiders are paced by Kiley who uses a fadeaway shot and shies from the right corner and is not too good setting. The last is a scrapper and uses good height for an offensive rebound.

Branford will control the boards, however with its captain and ace, Paul Slaton, who is a Horn's share of the scoring.

Friday's game will be the last for the Derby team as they leave East Haven in a traditional battle with their Army one week from tomorrow.

I agree with Rev. Dr. Talmage, that there is wit, humor, and even, "there are among God's people."

—Mary Barker Edly

Ronnie Dahlquist Named President Of Model Aircraft

Mr. Duke Hull owner of the Hulls Shop in New Haven was the guest speaker at the Branford Recreation Advisory Board model airplane group meeting held at the community house, Mr. Hull demonstrated various models, and showed the boys various techniques to use in constructing models to achieve the utmost in performance. He discussed various types of plane engines.

At a business meeting of the club, Ronnie Dahlquist, well known Branford model airplane builder, was elected president of the newly activated group. Vice President is Tommie, surrounded by fans, would break away gently, murmuring apologies and hurry to Bowen's side. There was no effusive handshaking, just a firm grip which spoke volumes. Then the two were lost to the scene as they adjourned to a private conversation took to enlarge on the generalities of their greeting.

Lyman Hall Opposes 'Jackets' In Housatonic Loop Fray

Several new changes will probably greet East Haven High basketball fans on Friday night when Lyman Hall of Wallingford provides the opposition in a Housatonic League game, here.

Young Massari, a newcomer and a starting forward berth from the veterans Vin Gagliardi or Willie Paoillo, Coach Frank Crisafi has indicated.

The youngster, a trifle over six feet, has developed rapidly in recent games and turned in a fine performance last Tuesday in Shelton.

Apparently set in the starting pivot post in Paul Wisninski, who during slumping on the scoring end, is doing everything which might be asked of him defensively and on the rebounds.

If Massari breaks in the lineup, Gagliardi may be shifted to guard replacing Ron Russell who has not been so good setting. The last is a scrapper and uses good height for an offensive rebound.

Walling for a shot to show their abilities will be Jackie Norton, a real sharpshooter in practice but a bundle of nerves in a game, and Paul Norman, a power on floor who is still trying to get his timing down.

The visitors, coached by Fred Shipko, have two good men in their ranks, Captain Chet Robakiewicz and Junior Art Caplan.

How To Disguise "Hand-me-downs"

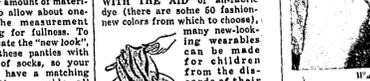

NO NEED for youngsters to resent "hand-me-downs" when, with very little effort, they can be disguised so your children won't feel self-conscious wearing them. Nor is it always necessary to be an expert seamstress to give garments a "new look," for there are many tricks and short-cuts which help you save dollars on the family budget. For example, you can make a new dress out of an old one by altering the neckline and sleeves or by changing the color and pattern.

WITH THE AID of all-fabric eye (there are some 50 fashionable colors from which to choose), many new-looking wearables can be made for children from the discarded cards of their elders or from household odds and ends.

By a new color.

Home Economics Bureau, it's important to wash and thoroughly rinse all articles before dyeing and to remove buttons, buckles and trimmings. Also it's a good idea to use a different color to a particular one from a dark shade to a lighter one.

Cranberry Apple Relish . . . Quick . . . Easy . . . and Wonderful with Meats and Turkey

Here's a new relish that features the sharpness of raw cranberries, the sweetness of raisins, the good meaty crunchiness of walnuts and—as the climax—the spirited tart tang of apples!

The sliced apples that come in cans were the apples used for this relish. First, because of their deep apple flavor and second, because canned slices save all the work of coring and peeling. You see, the apples canned in slices reach you already cored and peeled. Also, the apples canned in slices are the hard, extra juicy varieties that stay firm and hug their juice . . . perfect for this relish!

It's a relish as delicious with hot meats such as baked ham, corned beef or pork tenderloin as it is with turkey, chicken, or Sunday night supper cold cuts. Whisk it together this way:

- Cranberry Apple Relish
- 1 quart cranberries
 - 1/2 cup seedless raisins
 - 1 cup canned sliced apples
 - 1/2 cup chopped walnut meats
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- Using medium blade put cranberries and raisins through food chopper. Dice apples; combine with cranberry mixture, nut
