Petitioners Obtain P.U.C. Hearing On Bus Cut-Back

A hearing on two separate petitions protesting a cut-back in bus service on the so-called Saltonstall Line and for the area of the Riverside development on River Street will be held by the state Public Utilities Commission in Hartford on September 30.

Petitioners protesting the cut-backs in service by the Connecticut Company are expected to be accompanied by a member of the Board of Selectmen or one of the state representatives from this area or both. GOP Town Chairman Matthew Anastasio is also expected to attend.

Mrs. Herman M. Johns, Jr., of 20 Martin Road, one of several who circulated the petitions stated that more than 100 signatures had been obtained protesting the discontinuance last Saturday of service in the Riverside area.

"Now there's only one bus at 7:27 a. m. and that's not enough," she said. "We hope that we can get a resumption of service at least on an hourly basis," said Mrs. Johns. She stated that company arguments that there was only a four block walk to the New Haven-Brantford line did not take into account the difficulties presented by bad weather, especially for children attending school.

"Quite a few children from here attend Hamden Hall, Wilbur Cross and other schools in New Haven," she claimed.

Mrs. Johns said that a company survey of passenger traffic was taken in July and therefore did not give an accurate measure. She said that school children did not use the buses and shopping was at a minimum in that month.

Petitioners opposing the elimination of the half-hourly runs along the Saltonstall route also gathered as reported "more than 100" signatures. One housewife, who was helping in the campaign, stated that the cut-back, resulted in a hardship. "We need the service here because we are too far from the center," she said. "We can't walk that distance in bad weather without getting drenched," she claimed.

"The company has been running these buses for 13 years and I don't see why they can't continue them now," she asserted. She claimed that the company was receiving sufficient revenue from fairly heavy passenger traffic on the westernmost part of the trips between East Haven and New Haven and felt that the line was paying its own way, so that the service over the Saltonstall route should be returned.

Fire And Police Budget Requests Show Increase

An operating budget recommendation of $91,947 together with a request for funds in the amount of $47,000 for the purchase of a pumping engine and ladder truck have been submitted by the Fire Department to the Board of Finance, First Selectman Frank A. Barker disclosed.

The operating budget represents a sizeable increase over the $74,541 for comparable funds allotted in the fiscal year now closing. Of the amount, $55,850 is for salaries of regular personnel already employed plus an additional $18,000. Compared with the $48,150 last year it represents an increase of $7,700 to cover the additional salary and the automatic increases granted to personnel.

Car Competition Blamed For Bus Service Cutback

Competition of private cars which has been steadily cutting into revenues from passengers over the past few years, was given by a Connecticut Company spokesman as the reason for an announced cutback in service on the Saltonstall line. The action has been met with the circulation of petitions in the East Haven area affected by the change.

Harry W. Springer, manager of the New Haven division of the company told the East Haven News that patronage had been dropping steadily over recent years and that it had "just reached a point where we couldn't continue the day-long service."

Mr. Springer pointed out that half hourly service would be continued as usual for the peak periods from 2 to 9 a. m. and 2:30 to 5:05 p. m.

As an example of how few passengers the buses carried during the non-rush periods, he said that during the week-day the average number of passengers amounted to one per trip.

"One thing I think should be emphasized," he said, "is that the people in the River Street development can cross the green and catch the Brantford bus every half hour."

The bus service was begun 12 years ago and formerly extended to River Street. Now the bus travels only as far as the Saltonstall terminal at 6:05, 6:35, 7:05, 7:35, 8:05 and 8:35 in the morning and 2:35, 3:05, 3:35, 4:05, 4:35, 5:05, 5:35 and 6:05 in the afternoon.

The buses leave the Joyce Road Terminal at 6:03, 6:33, 7:03, 7:33, 8:03, 8:33 and 9:03 in the morning; and 3:03, 3:33, 4:03, 4:33, 5:03, 5:33 and 6:33 in the afternoon.

In addition a bus leaves the Joyce Road terminal at 6:28 p. m. going to the garage by way of Warren Avenue. Passengers can transfer at Grannis corner, the Ferry Street bridge, Grand Avenue or on State Street.

Fire Dept. Called Out Three Times Over Past Week

While not as busy as on the preceding week, the Fire Department was called out three times this past week to answer alarms. On Saturday at 11 a. m. Company One was summoned to Box 212 near 7 Estelle Road where they found a tree clubhouse blazing. The small shack was completely destroyed by the flames which were of undetermined origin.

At 5 p. m. the same day a summons for Box 63 for a reported grass fire opposite Laurel School turned out to be a false alarm.

Tuesday evening at 8:40 Engine Four, answering a call from Box 333, extinguished a blazing front seat in a moving van parked in front of 9 Phillip Street. Damage was limited to the seat cushion.

Local Residents To Get Fire Prevention Stamps This Week

Fire Chief Thomas Hayes announces that stamps will be sent out to 5,000 families shortly for the observance of Fire Prevention Week, which will be October 5 through 12. These little seals will sell for one cent each and will be sent in $1.00 sheets, the proceeds to be used for the support of the volunteer fire fighting companies which no longer can raise money as they did in the past by their annual carnivals.

William Brown, Captain of Bradford Manor Hose Company heads the committee which is now preparing the seals for mailing.

Another phase of the Fire Prevention Week observance according to Chief Hayes will be an essay and poster contest in the schools, sponsored by the Exchange Club. There will be two classes, one for high school pupils, and one for the seventh and eighth grades. Prizes will be awarded for the best essays and posters. The committee members of the Exchange Club are Peter Limoncelli, chairman; Sal Longobardi and James Milano.

Other members assisting Capt. Brown are Capt. James Minihan, of Company 3; Capt. Florian Auerhauer of Company C; Thomas Webster of Co. 1, who is secretary and Alfred Bowden, manager of the First National Branch, who is treasurer.

E. H. Man Absolved Of Responsibility In Auto Accident

Charges of violation of rules of road lodged against Donald J. Smith, of 2 Mount View Terrace, were nulled by Judge Vincent J. Fasola in Town Court on Monday.

Mr. Smith was the driver of a car which overturned on Ora Road Saturday night, September 6. His wife, Ethel, a passenger in the car, was hospitalized at St. Raphael's with back injuries.

Mr. Smith told police that he had a blowout which forced the car off the road. The vehicle rolled over on one side. The car, a 1946 model was heavily damaged.

East Havenites gazed with curiosity at the 102-year-old Williamsburg Brougham which visited the town last Saturday morning in a publicity stunt to advertise James E. Gillis School Opened Monday On Schedule, Principal Reports

The new William E. Gillis school opened Monday on schedule and without any serious difficulties, Principal Catherine McKee announced. It is expected that within 10 days or two weeks the remaining two classrooms will have been made ready for use.

Coach Crisafi Confident Over Football Prospects

Coach Frank Crisafi displayed optimism yesterday over his chances of developing a fighting team from among the largely inexperienced material which has turned out for practice this season.

Commenting on the performance of his youthful charges Crisafi announced that the boys he had selected as first-string material were "much improved over what they were during the first week of practice. 'We're coming right along,' he said, 'and barring any injuries we ought to be able to give all of our opponents a real game.'"

The High School coach said that he had put his boys to the test in a scrimmage game with Darien last Friday and concluded that "we still need a lot of work." He said he hoped to work out difficulties that the boys were experiencing with timing when on the offensive. The team will play several more scrimmage games before opening its season here in a tussle with Southington High on the 27th.

"We're starting off with a rough game," said Crisafi. "Those Southington boys are coming back with a veteran ball club, and they're an A-One team. They already have been," he said.

Crisafi felt confident, however, that if his present progress with the team continued, "we'll be able to give them a good game."

The coach acted very pleased with his boys. "They're working hard, and their team spirit has been wonderful," he stated with a smile of pride.

Crisafi was a little concerned over his limited reserves. "We're pretty well stabled in the backfield, but I only have two good men to replace any gaps in the line," he said.

"By the middle of the season, I hope to have a pretty good team," he concluded.

X-Raying Of High School Students Starts Tuesday

A school health program starting with chest X-raying of all High School students on next Tuesday and Wednesday was announced this week by Miss Florence Parker, school nurse.

All students in the ninth through twelfth grades will be X-rayed at the school by a mobile unit from the New Haven Department of Health. Use of the micro-film makes it possible to make the X-rays without the removal of clothing.

The program is financed by proceeds from the Christmas Seal Fund. The same unit will be set up tomorrow for the X-raying of adults at the Town Hall.

Purpose of the program is to detect tuberculosis in its early stages.

Following the chest X-ray program, physical examinations of all pupils and students in the first, third, fifth, seventh, ninth and eleventh grade will be conducted by Dr. Ronald Beewth and Dr. Rocco Bova. The date will be announced.

The school dental hygiene program, under the direction of Dr. Louis Tiroletto, will follow later at a time to be announced.

Legion Sells Mag Subscriptions For Medical Supplies

Commander John W. Camp of the Harry R. Bartlett Post No. 89, American Legion, has announced that the Forty and Eight of the American Legion of New Haven County, is now conducting a magazine subscription campaign. The funds derived will be used to purchase hospital beds and other equipment for home use.

The drive was conducted in 1951 for Polio-Pack heaters, one of which will be presented to the East Haven Visiting Nurses Association within the next few weeks. Portable iron lungs purchased as a result of the 1949 drive are now stationed in all State Police barracks in New Haven County. In 1950 baby incubators were purchased, one of which is in use at the Hospital of St. Raphael.

As in the past years, donations are not accepted by mail. Accredited representatives bearing letters of introduction from county and local officials will call at homes and explain the plan in detail. Residents should demand identification. This canvass is expected to continue until mid-October.

Survey Reveals Three Sides In Controversy On Conditions

An investigation of reports concerning some dissatisfied homeowners in the Glenmoor state low-cost housing development in Foxon quickly revealed that there were three sides to the controversy.

On one hand is a group of dissatisfied residents led by Jerome H. Grady, of 12 River Drive, president of the Glenmoor Civic Association, Jack McLaughlin, of 81 Glenmoor Drive, chairman of the grievance committee, and other officers of the association. These homeowners claim they got a "raw deal" at the hands of Nicholas R. Mauro, Jr., the contractor who built the houses. Besides charging him with failing to make repairs to the homes reporting defects, the group accuses him and his associates with being uncooperative.

On the opposing side is Mauro, his brothers Albert and Edward, and Kenneth Aubrey, sales manager. Mauro and his associates hotly contest the claims of the grievance committee, stating that the difficulties arose when the committee refused to pay unfavorable newspaper publicity, instead of hashing matters out with him.

In between, these two sides are a number of Glenmoor householders who are totally satisfied with their homes or who, if they have complaints, feel that the contractor has been doing his best to remedy them. This group of families thinks the committee has gone too far and there is even talk of an organized counter move.

The dispute centers about two distinct types of problems. One is the matter of obtaining adjustments for defects, many of them minor, which became evident in the houses after they were occupied. Secondly, there is the external problem of faulty storm drainage, which resulted in the flooding of some cellars.

Christian McLaughlin of the grievance committee claims that, in a number of cases handled by his group, the contractor failed to act upon the complaints reported. He said that delays in securing adjustments to plumbing or the repainting of walls or woodwork sometimes extended for weeks, even months. His claim was verified by several other residents.

Mr. Grady and Mr. McLaughlin insist that they were finally obliged to take their complaints to Governor John Lodge telling him the committee was getting a "run-around" and urging him to have the State Housing Authority send an official to meet with the Glenmoor residents.

Pictures of flooded areas, surrounding homes in one section were included in the letter as proof of the complaints.

Governor Lodge informed the association he had referred the matter to the housing authority.

In the meantime the committee issued forms for the listing by all householders of desired repairs. Fifty-five returns showed 36 painting complaints, 36 plumbing and heating, and 50 general construction complaints, including a number of reported leaking downspouts and spilt gutters.

When interviewed, Nicholas Mauro reported that the lists of complaints had been received from the committee and that within a short time "about 60 to 70 per cent of the complaints had been taken care of." He invited this reporter to visit any of the homes on the list that were "taken care of" to see whether or not satisfactory service was rendered.

The contractor denied that he had been uncooperative, contending that whenever he had been approached in a respectable manner, he had tended to the complaints as promptly as possible. He pointed out that sub-contractors had left the development for other work and were sometimes not available immediately for refinishing work. Mauro charged the committee members with being abusive and asserted that he refused to negotiate with the group. However, he said he was grateful for the lists compiled by the committee since they made it easier for him to accommodate the residents. The contractor said he was angry at the committee because it agreed to work out its complaints with him and then had violated the agreement by resorting to newspaper publicity. "But I intend to take care of all complaints," he said.

Three New Haven Men Face Charges In Local Theft

Three New Haven men arrested by East Haven Police Saturday in connection with the reported theft of a meat slicer and a mixer are slated to appear Monday before Judge Vincent J. Fasola in Town Court.

John Daniel Gardner, 18, of 764 Quinipiac Avenue, recently released from the County Jail and Thomas Rolly, 23, of 2 Murray Place, are charged with larceny. Nicholas Caputo, 21, of 240 James Street, proprietor of Nick's Restaurant at Lloyd and Chapel Street, is charged with possession of stolen goods.

All are being held under $1,000 bond each.

According to Assistant Police Chief Joseph Pollo the machines, valued at $300, were taken from a building owned by Raymond Terryn, of 200 Highland Street at about 11 p. m. Thursday. Pollo said Rolly entered a rear garage door to gain access to the building in which the appliances were stored. He and Gardner took the machines away in their car and drove to River Street in New Haven.

The following day (Friday), the assistant chief said, Gardner brought the machines to Cuomo's restaurant selling them for $35.

All three were arrested by Chief Pollo and Officer Patrick Duffy on Saturday. Details of the arrest were not available, but it was reported that the pair charged with theft had been observed acting suspiciously in the vicinity of Mr. Terryn's property.

You Can Register As A New Voter Monday Evening

New voters will be registered and sworn in at the Town Hall by the Board of Selectmen and Town Clerk Monday from 5 to 8 p. m., the registrars of voters announce.

To be eligible would-be voters must have been a resident of the state for the past year and of East Haven for the past six months. Also they must be 21 years of age or older.

Because of the large number of registrations this election year, new voters are urged to appear as soon as possible in order to avoid the lengthy lines which are expected to characterize the final registration period.

Registration of voters will take place on two separate days in October. On November third, only those who have become of age since the last session in October will be sworn in.

Young Conchologist Shows Shell Collection Here

Young Joyce, 11, shows his collection of shells to a group of collectors at the home of his father, Thomas L. Joyce, at 11 Klumbury Avenue, Branford, Conn., Sunday afternoon.

Young Joyce, 11, of Klumbury Avenue, Branford, Conn., Sunday afternoon, showed his collection of shells to a group of collectors at the home of his father, Thomas L. Joyce, at 11 Klumbury Avenue, Branford, Conn. Young Joyce was started in this interesting hobby by his father, Thomas L. Joyce, of 11 Klumbury Avenue, proprietor of the Joyce's Stand, an open air shop selling beach equipment and lawn ornaments.

Another hobby contained a number of tiny striped shells measuring between a quarter and a half-inch long. These he discovered in a garden shell he had buried in a hole in the yard. The dark dots distributed evenly in a spiral about the outside were pointed out as a "Chinese albatross."

A number of small objects he described as "false shells" were displayed on another board. Also in the collection are a number of body cones and a fibrous, spotted shell whose striking resemblance lends it the name of "turkey wing."

The collection included many small specimens which resembled a miniature volcano and a large unmounted "crown" shell with a beautiful pink spiral.

Young Joyce said that he had a number of shells from snails which were almost extinct and that was one of the reasons he gave up on the hobby.

Att'y R. L. Reilly Addresses High School Assembly

Attorney Richard L. Reilly, of 23 Tuttle Place, was guest speaker at an assembly of the junior and senior classes at the high school yesterday morning. In a talk sponsored by the Public Information Committee of the State Bar Association, he spoke on the subject of "The Court System in Connecticut."

Attorney Reilly explained the state's judicial system and the make-up and jurisdiction of the various courts. He pointed out the duties of the private citizen toward the courts and how he may serve as a juror or as a witness.

"The law," he told his young audience, "is for our own benefit. It enables us to live together harmoniously and protects the citizen against the few members of society who have no respect for the rights of others. It should be one of the first duties of every citizen to give his wholehearted cooperation to the courts and to the law enforcement agencies in their work of administering justice."

The young lawyer, who is a graduate of the University of Connecticut Law School, is the son of former Judge Thomas F. Reilly. Besides his association with New Haven, Attorney T. Holmes Brackett, he has a local practice and shares offices with his father at 185 Main Street.

Bread Softeners May Bring Health Hazard Says Medical Group

The use of chemicals to preserve the softness of bread may constitute a health hazard, according to the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association.

In a recent issue of Today's Health, the Association's popular health magazine, it is noted that, in the mind of the average consumer, the softness of bread is closely related to its freshness.

Dr. James R. Wilson, Council secretary and author of the article, emphasizes that only fragmentary knowledge is available concerning the possible toxicity of chemical bread softeners.

"Unless the complete harmlessness of these agents can be demonstrated beyond reasonable doubt, they should not, in the council's opinion be employed in basic foods," the writer states.

The American Bakers Association and the American Institute of Baking recently adopted a statement of principals about the use of such chemicals in bakery products, Dr. Wilson said. Their statement demands that the ingredients be proved completely safe before use.

Recently, he pointed out, the Food and Drug Administration of the federal government announced new standards for five commonly used breads and banned the use of certain chemical bread softeners. The rulings have been held in abeyance pending an appeal to the U. S. Court of Appeals by one of the manufacturers of such compounds.

Orchids For Young Miss Jones

It isn't curls or curves or big blue eyes that win hearts for Miss Jones — it's her unfailing party-line courtesy when she uses her telephone. She keeps her conversations reasonably brief. She allows time between calls. She always gets off the line when she's asked to do so in an emergency. We nominate her "the girl we'd most like to share a party line with."

"How Far Is Three Million Miles?"

3,000,000 miles would take you around the equator more than a hundred and twenty times. Connecticut people use about 3,000,000 miles of telephone wire — and that's about a mile and a half for every man, woman and child in the state! Since the end of the war, we've been adding wire at a record-breaking clip to meet the unprecedented demands for service.

In Case Of Attack

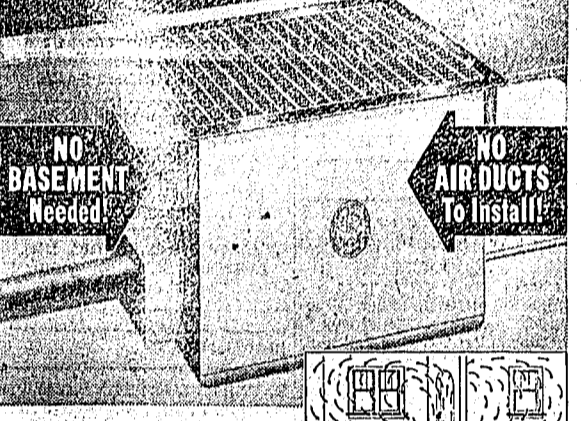

Telephone service is essential to national defense. That's why your telephone company has laid careful plans to protect the service in case of enemy attack or other disasters. Virtually bomb-proof cables deep in the ground, emergency equipment and mobile telephone units all contribute to a system designed to protect you, no matter what emergency may arise.
