The Good Old Summer Time

Summer time is play time for East Haven children. Photographer Stephen Syrotak, of Lucas Studio, caught these youngsters at play enjoying some of the facilities and opportunities for fun at Memorial Field which is open daily to all youngsters. The kids can join some of the organized activities like playing in the Legion Pee-Wee Baseball League, or just enjoy a ride on the slide or swing.

Clancy To Study Proposed Law For Regulating Bikes

A study of a proposed ordinance regulating the use of bicycles and requiring their registration has been promised by First Selectman Frank Clancy. He said that he would obtain a copy of the proposed law from Town Counsel Richard Reilly to "find out what it is all about."

The first selectman had been asked whether he contemplated doing anything about the proposal which has been urged by a number of merchants. The local police department has agreed that it would be able to conduct a bicycle safety campaign through the schools in conjunction with the registration features of the law.

Truck "Winds Up" Against U. I. Pole

A platform body truck tangled with its tow chain and literally wound up against a utility pole snapping it off at the base Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The accident occurred on Saltonstall Pkwy. near the entrance of Sanford St. No injuries were reported.

The truck was being driven by Virgil Eugene Judkins, of Steepy Hollow Cabins, Branford, and was being towed by another driven by Albert Schuckie, of Third St. and Monn Ave., Branford. Both trucks are owned by R. N. Harrison & Sons of Branford.

Judkins told Police Officer Frank Konesky that the truck he was steering was being towed with an 18-foot chain. The first truck slowed and when he attempted to apply the brakes of the second truck, he said, they failed to hold, the truck over-ran the chain which tangled around one wheel sending the vehicle out of control and into the utility pole. The truck was damaged on the right front end and right side.

Judkins, who was using a Maine operator's license, was charged with violation of motor vehicle laws and operating without a Connecticut driver's license.

On Sunday, at 4:58 p.m. a car driven by Mary Ann Ruberlene, of 405 Mlx. Ave., Haddam, struck the rear of a car being driven by Alfredo G. Falorni, 52, of 217 Lafayette St., New Haven. Both cars were going south on Hemmingway Ave. when Falorni's vehicle slowed to turn right into Dodge Ave.

Miss Ruberlene told Officer Konesky that the wet pavement caused her car to skid and it struck the rear of the New Haven man's car. No charges were filed.

Committee For Football Re-Union To Meet Sunday

A committee planning a re-union of former East Haven football players will meet Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at Memorial Field to discuss plans for an all-day outing and dinner to be held on September 25. The committee plans to meet every Sunday.

The meeting will be held "rain or shine" Charles Coyle, committee chairman, said yesterday. All interested persons are invited to attend, he said.

Tickets are now available at $5 per person, Coyle said. They will be distributed through the following establishments: West End Bowling Alleys and Restaurant, Smitty's Tavern, Centre Grill, Johnny's Barber Shop, and Fred's Restaurant, all on Main St., and Florio's Country House Restaurant in Foxon Park.

At Cinque's Farm Carmine Melillo is chairman in charge of ticket sales. The tickets will entitle their bearers to a full course dinner, of roast chicken, clam chowder and other outdoor food specialties in a daylong outing. The outing will be held at Cinque's farm on Laurel St.

The re-union will be held for all players, coaches, managers and supporters of such former teams as the All East Havens, the West Ends, the South Sides and the East Haven Rams.

Assisting the chairman are Melillo, John Anderson, "Billy" Conzolis, "Fat" Bureton, Arthur Leach, Jack Nunziante, George Schmidt, John Enright, "Chick" Bureton and David Leach.

Members of the committee have announced that such well known former stars of East Haven teams who plan to attend are Mike Ardolino now running "Mike Inn" at Branford and his brother Lee. The DeFilippo brothers, Jack, Art, and Lou of Fordham fame, Bill

Scobie Resigns As Prexy Of Chamber Of Commerce

The proffered resignation of Elwood Scobie, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will be acted upon by the board of directors of that body at a special meeting tonight in the Weeping Willows Restaurant.

Scobie, who is serving his second one-year term as head of the local Chamber, has submitted a letter of resignation "for reasons of health." News that he had asked to be relieved of his duties was learned late today.

Scobie is also a member of the board of directors, and it was reported that he will continue in that capacity for the remainder of his term.

Announcements of the meeting had been issued last week by Herman Scharf, secretary of the Chamber, but nothing was said about Scobie's resignation until today.

The directors will also fill several vacancies on the board. Some of the vacancies were created as the result of non-attendance of members. The Chamber by-laws permit only a limited number of absences by directors. It was reported unofficially that three posts would be filled.

Scobie's resignation will probably result in a special election of a successor when the Chamber resumes its activities next fall. In the interim, Donald Bartlett, first vice-president, will head the local businessmen's organization. Bartlett is proprietor of the skating rink at Mansfield Grove in Momaugum.

John Kmetzko, of Metzco Bros., Inc., 330 Main St., is second vice-president.

New Officers To Be Elected For Bartlett Post

A slate of new officers for the coming year of activities of the Harry Bartlett Post, American Legion, was scheduled for presentation tonight at a regular meeting of the post. The new slate will be handed in by former post Commander Frank Wells, chairman of the nominating committee.

A special post everlasting service for the Rev. Jeremiah J. Broderick, former post chaplain, who died last Friday in Hartford. Father Broderick had served as chaplain for the post for many years. Two years ago he was honored by the post at a banquet in his honor and was presented with a life membership in the Bartlett Post.

Junior Auto Derby Wheels and axles for the soap-box racers being built by this year's participants in the Junior Auto Derby were delivered this week. Most of the cars are well on the way to completion, according to Walter Link, chairman of the post Junior Auto Derby committee. Members of the committee are now visiting the young Bar-

Copeland DEM Choice For Judge Of Probate

Re-Appointment Of Wolfe May Have Hit Roadblock

The re-appointment of Fred Wolfe, Jr., to a full four-year term on the Board of Finance — favored by First Selectman Frank Clancy — may have run into a roadblock within the Democratic party organization. In addition, a choice for a member of the Planning and Zoning Commission to succeed George McManus, Republican, may also be influenced by the organization.

Filling of the two posts, which would be vacated on July 31, had been scheduled for a meeting of the Board of Selectmen on Monday. However, according to First Selectman Clancy and minority Selectman Frank Barker, the matter of appointments was not raised. No reason was given.

A decision on party choices for the two posts may come out of a Democratic executive committee meeting next Tuesday evening. Town Chairman James F. Gartland said that filling of the two seats would be discussed along with the selection of three candidates.

Mautte Seen As Candidate For Re-election To House

The withdrawal of State Rep. Adelbert C. Mautte in favor of State Senator William F. Pollard, who was nominated as the Republican candidate for High Sheriff of New Haven County Saturday, now left the way clear for the former to run for re-election to the lower house of the General Assembly.

Rep. Mautte, who, with Rep. Elizabeth Crommey, was expected to be renominated by the General Assembly by the local Republican organization, had been endorsed locally as a candidate for the New Haven sheriffalty. He withdrew before the GOP county convention met at the New Haven County Courthouse on Saturday and appeared instead to second the nomination of the former Waterbury deputy sheriff.

Pollard was nominated unanimously by the 250 delegates attending the convention. The meeting was opened by Leroy Carpenter, of Cheshire, permanent chairman, on a harmonious note as Pollard's nomination went unopposed.

John F. Bruce, of North Haven, another candidate for the nomination, had withdrawn early last week and also appeared to second the naming of Pollard.

While he declined to make any comment, Mautte's withdrawal now left the way open for him to seek the Republican nomination for state representative to succeed himself. Both he and Mrs. Crommey are virtually assured of re-nomination if they decide to seek another term, sources in-

G O P State Senator Convention Meeting In Madison Saturday

State Senator Phylander Cooke of Wallingford will be a candidate for nomination for re-election to succeed himself at the Republican 12th Senatorial district convention to be held in Madison on Saturday. This convention will open at 1 p.m. in the Woodlawn Inn.

Although rotation of the Senatorial nomination among towns in the district is supposed to be the rule, Cooke is expected to be re-named without significant opposition.

Henry Antz will head a delegation of eight persons from East Haven. Other delegates besides Antz are Edward L. Reynolds, Mrs. Jane Gustafson and Ralph Hurder. In addition, Mrs. Edith Sanford, John Esposito, William Ginnett and Mrs. Grace Webster are slated to attend as alternates.

Cooke, who was elected in 1952 to succeed Sen. William Jaspers, now state central committeeman, would be seeking his second term. His Democratic opponent in the last state election, Arthur B. O'Keefe Jr., of Madison, is expected to receive the Democratic nomination again on August 10.

Nominees For State Legislature May Be Selected Tues.

Charles Copeland, of 57 Catherine St., Momaugum, will be the Democratic candidate for judge of probate of East Haven, Town Chairman James F. Gartland predicted this week. Selection of the probate nominee plus two candidates for state representative is slated to come at a meeting of the executive committee of the Democratic Town Committee next Tuesday evening.

Harold E. LaPointe, of 30 Elm St., still is seen as leading for one of the nominations for state representative, while the other appeared to be a toss-up between Jerome Grady, of 12 River St., and William Hackett, Jr. of a fourth "also mentioned", Arthur Riccio, of 95 Hughes St., has indicated that he is not a candidate.

Although the formal caucus for the selection of these three nominations will not be held until August 24, Town Chairman Gartland indicated that they may be decided upon at next week's executive committee session.

Copeland Unopposed Appearances were that Copeland who has been mentioned frequently as a candidate for the post, will be unopposed for the nomination. A member of the town committee, he has been closely allied with the local Democratic organization.

Copeland is a former deputy judge of the local Town Court. He served with the late Armen Krigrorian, who was judge of the court for a two-year term from 1949 to 1951. Both were appointed by the then governor, Chester Bowles.

Copeland also served as a member of the Board of Education for long term, resigning last summer. He has served as a member of the building committee for the William E. Gillis School. The former deputy judge has been non-committal about his future political plans. However, Chairman Gartland's prediction of his nomination would appear to bear out the belief, commonly held in political circles, that Copeland would seek election to the newly created probate court.

On the other side of the political fence, two men have announced for the Republican nomination for judge of probate: Deputy Judge Clifford Sturges and Edward L. Reynolds, attorney and clerk of the Town Court.

LaPointe, like Copeland, has been for many months viewed as a candidate for a particular nomination. Last year, he indicated that he would be interested in running for state representative, and he is generally expected now to be one of the Democratic nominees.

With Riccio out of the picture, the other nomination choice appears to be between Grady, who is presently serving as a publicity director for Gartland's campaign for the Democratic nomination for Congressman, and Hackett, who is a former New Haven ward leader.

Riccio has denied that he was a candidate. "I don't know where you got my name," he told this reporter, "but I am definitely not a candidate." Riccio is a member of the Board of Public Safety.

No other Democrats have been mentioned so far for the two legislative posts.

The local Probate Court will be set up next January for the first time in the newly created probate district of East Haven. It was set up by a special act of the state legislature at its last session.

Bradford Manor Meet July 31

Members of the Bradford Manor Drum Corps met this week to complete plans for their Annual Field Day Competition Saturday, July 31. Chairman Elliott Pantalone announced that invitations had been sent to 100 corps throughout the state and outlying states.

The meet will be held in the high school with the Junior competition starting at 2:30 p.m. and a gala parade beginning at 6:30. The Senior Corps will compete in the evening in the high school gymnasium. The line of march for the parade will be as follows: from the West side of the high school to Bradley Avenue, to Main Street, to Hemmingway Avenue, to Tyler Street, returning to the high school.

Attractive trophies will be awarded for winners. There will also be competition for individuals in drumming and other musical instruments.

Other members assisting Mr. Pantalone are Mr. and Mrs. Herman Scharf, Mr. and Mrs. James Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith, Mrs. Alvin Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chadeayne, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Oren, Mr. John Chadeayne, Mrs. Raymond Langlois, Mrs. John Leary, Miss Pat Priskey, George Prosch and Sherwood Sheades.

Delegations Falling Into Line To Endorse Gartland

In accordance with predictions by National Committeeman John M. Golden, of New Haven, and local backers of James F. Gartland, delegations have begun falling in line to back the local Democratic town chairman for nomination for Congress.

The latest bloc of delegates to be pledged to Gartland's candidacy were the 23 West Haven delegates who voted 18 to 4 in favor of Gartland at a convention last night with one delegate missing. Under the unit rule, Gartland will receive the entire bloc of votes.

Already committed to the East Haven political chieftain are North Haven's nine delegates, who announced their support for him last week, and the East Haven delegation of ten.

Earlier this week, the 28-man Meriden delegation rejected a motion to have it committed to former Congressman John A. McGuire, chief opponent to Gartland's bid for the party nomination for the third Congressional district. The Meriden town chairman refused to commit the delegation to either candidate.

New Haven Convention Mon. Ninety delegates will be selected at a convention in New Haven Monday evening, and Gartland backers are claiming a substantial majority of that delegation which would also be bound under the unit rule.

The East Haven News reported on June 24 that a confidential source inside the Democratic party had claimed that the local candidate was "virtually assured of solid backing by the New Haven delegation" at the Congressional convention which will be held in the Town Hall here a week from Saturday.

With three towns with a total delegate strength of 42 already committed to Gartland, New Haven's bloc of 90 votes under the unit rule would give the local Democrat 132 votes — with only 126 needed to clinch the nomination.

Many politicians will be on hand to watch the New Haven convention Monday evening at Wilbur Cross High School to see whether rumored challenges to Golden's power will materialize. New Haven town Chairman Arthur Barbieri predicted that the local delegation would support Gartland, who has received Golden's blessing.

No Link Seen In Breaks Here And At Double Beach

Local police doubt that there is a connection between a break into a restaurant at Double Beach in Branford early Wednesday morning and an earlier entry into the Parish House of the Old Stone Church in East Haven sometime Saturday night or early Sunday morning.

Burglars who entered the Old Stone Church parish house priced open a combination filing cabinet and safe from which they took a number of valuables. Kenneth Griffiths, chairman of the church board of trustees, said that "some valuables were taken and others damaged." He did not indicate the amount of the loss. He said that three rooms of the building were entered by the intruders.

Police Chief Joseph Folio, assisted by Officers William Mahoney and Walter Marlas are investigating the break. The entry was discovered Sunday morning by a member of the church.

Police Chief Edwin Priest said that indications were that entry was not forced to the building. He stated also that a number of collection envelopes had been taken from the building.

At Double Beach, burglars chopped a hole in the roof to gain entry into the restaurant there without setting off the burglar alarms. Despite their precautions, however, the alarm sounded about 2 a.m. and a near-by resident summoned police.

Branford Police Chief Morawski said that the burglars had broken into several cigarette machines inside the building, but doubted that their "take" amounted to very much. He said investigators were puzzled as to the manner in which the alarm had been set off, because the intruders appeared not to have touched the alarm wiring.

On Wednesday, East Haven police joined officials of Branford and other area towns in a wide search for a car that might have been used by the burglars. An East Havener was released after brief questioning by police. When it turned out that his car was not the one being sought.

where he is completing his first term, he has served as chairman of the Senate Committee on Penal Institutions and is a member of the Cities and Boroughs Committee.

The 63-year-old retired policeman pledged that he would devote his full time to his duties if elected. The statement was taken as a crack at the Democratic incumbent, James P. Redding, who conducts an insurance business, in addition to his public duties. Redding is expected to gain the Democratic nomination for re-election on August 7.

The local Republican caucus for selecting nominees for state representative and for judge of probate will be held on September 20. Edward L. Reynolds, local attorney, and Deputy Judge Clifford B. Sturges are candidates for the latter nomination.

Our Town "Beach"

If East Haven had used its collective noggin some years back and provided for the future, one of the things this Town would have is a decent beach. Since hindsight isn't much use in solving the problems of today, however, there is no sense in sighing about what might have been.

We should do the best we can with what we have. That is why some people are asking why the Town doesn't do a better job of maintaining that 40 or 50 foot wide strip of beach off Cooney Beach Avenue which serves as a town beach.

One Monauguin lady informs us that the sharp stones which litter the area are a constant hazard to swimmers and displayed a few cuts and bruises to prove. She asks the Town post a sign urging people to use the trash can furnished for the purpose.

She also came up with the suggestion that the townspeople themselves could be mobilized and that they could be given a nester and not throw paper wrappings and other debris around the beach. "Why doesn't the Town post a sign urging people to use the trash can furnished for the purpose," she asks.

Well, why not?

Educational T.V.

A recommendation that the State legislature appropriate a budget of approximately $300,000 to finance an experimental unit for producing educational television programs is something that ought to be acted upon as soon as possible.

The recommendation was made by the Connecticut State Commission on Educational Television in a report to Gov. John Lodge last May. After a brief treatment in the newspapers the commission's report quickly sank into obscurity.

A recent proposal before the Federal Communication Commission to open to commercial development the ultra-high frequency channels reserved for educational T.V. would make it all the more urgent to keep for Connecticut three channels set aside.

The state commission, which was appointed by the last legislature to study the advisability of having the state operate television stations for educational purposes, has advanced a very conservative proposal. That is to apply state funds to a two-year program of producing educational material for issuance through commercial stations. By so doing, the commission report says, Connecticut would demonstrate its sincerity in reserving channels for future educational use.

The commission reasons that by investing limited funds in the production end, the State will avoid the encumbrance of a larger investment in electronic equipment. Thus it will limit its losses in the event that the program does not succeed.

It recommends the appointment of a seven-man Educational Broadcasting Commission widely representative to handle the experimental unit for the two years. If it should prove a success, then the state could go ahead with the construction and operation of its own educational television network.

When T.V. was first loosed on us in the post-war era, much was heard about the possibilities of this new medium. In fact, it became the center of one of the liveliest controversies. The optimists thought that it would be a great blessing and that it would be a facile means for bringing culture into the home. In some cases, the new medium was used very effectively both commercially and by educational institutions to bring into the home programs of instructive as well as entertaining value.

There may be many ways, according to which you can enjoy your vacation.

The Passing Scene by Jefferson Macomber

The pessimist thought that the public would be educated to a reclining mass of stardom. One educator went so far as to jokingly suggest that in time the human race would have evolved into a kind of plant life.

Most of the pessimists were extreme, but some of their forebodings have certainly been borne out. It is not unfair nor is it an exaggeration to say that a substantial portion of present-day T.V. fare is just so much tripe.

Day after day viewers are served the same old Arthur Godfrey, the inane quiz programs which worship the isolated fact, the detective and cowboy thrillers that are as badly acted as they are corny, the diluted antics of the Nelson family, and of course those third rate dramas that labor so hard to present some threadbare theme. All the banalities of radio have been translated to television!

If the viewer is choosy, he may occasionally see something worth watching. But that is the trouble with most of commercial T.V. is that it is operating without real competition. The relative sparsity of stations combined with the short range of transmitters has limited its in-station competition. The networks serve further to reduce competition.

What little competition exists is such that mediocrity breeds more mediocrity. What is needed is very much a yardstick against which commercial television could measure itself. Our T.V. broadcasters have all to do with the technical facilities, the talent and the financial resources at their command, but what they do with it is a downright shame.

More than anything the T.V. industry needs a leader. A state-operated agency for educational programming could provide such leadership. The state commission set up by 1957 has the reach of educational stations. The other half of the population, including all of private owners can invest money into having their beaches cleared, why doesn't the Town?

She also came up with the suggestion that the townspeople themselves could be mobilized and that they could be given a nester and not throw paper wrappings and other debris around the beach. "Why doesn't the Town post a sign urging people to use the trash can furnished for the purpose," she asks.

The salary structure of the Board of Tax Review will be studied by the Town Council within the next few months.

There are three members of this Board, which hears and settles complaints of property owners who feel that they have been unjustly assessed. They meet during March to listen to complaints. They inspect the property involved, and make their decisions.

The Board of Tax Review is, in effect, a people's court with a heavy responsibility to understand real property values, to have the courage not to be swayed by pressure.

The Town appropriates $900 to pay these three men, and the practice has been to pay each of them $300. The proposal that the Council will study is to pay the chairman, who makes it all the more urgent to keep for Connecticut three channels set aside.

The state commission, which was appointed by the last legislature to study the advisability of having the state operate television stations for educational purposes, has advanced a very conservative proposal. THE EFFECTIVE fighting man in one who is prepared not only physically and militarily, but also morally and spiritually to face the ordeal of battle.

In that hell of battle you discover who are the tough fighters. They are seldom the men who talk tough, who revel in obscene language, who boast of their drinking ability and immoralities.

THE REALLY TOUGH fighting man is the man with physical endurance, and the ability to resist temptation, determination, intelligence, and the ability to respect for himself and others.

NEITHER CAN WE assume that because some of our men have no principles that they will not benefit from spiritual and moral training. They are men who are trained men and women to cope with the realities of a life in mortal ideological conflict.

Whenever our training programs are being conducted with full realization of the nature of the people we train, our Service personnel is being influenced by the same principles that recognize the dignity of the individual and the God-given rights of every man and woman anywhere in the life of this Christian Nation.

YOUR SON OR DAUGHTER in the Armed Forces is an individual whose spiritual as well as physical needs must be safeguarded, whose moral discipline must be maintained, and whose character must be developed under supervision. True discipline comes from within; it compels a man to do the right thing.

Speaking of PUBLIC SAFETY

20,000 persons are duped to death each year by the fallacy that you are safer driving at night simply because there is less traffic. Actually, you need only a glimpse of the traffic accident picture to realize how fallacious that reasoning really is.

Out of every hundred fatal accidents, 60 occur in the dark when only 25 of every 100 vehicles are operating. In addition to the 20,000 lives, the night toll last year was $60,000,000 inured and $1 billion of economic loss.

It is because of the greater danger of fatality at night that motorists are urged to observe special safety precautions at night.

REDUCED SPEEDS: Driving at night should always be at a speed which permits stopping within range of headlight vision.

WATCH FOR SIGNAL CRASHERS: Never crash lights nor stop signs and don't ever move into an intersection until you have looked in both directions after the light has changed. Don't assume that a green light means safety! Too many drivers like to race through the red end of a light change.

PROPER VEHICLE LIGHTING: Headlights should be accurately focused, kept clean, and rear lights properly operating. Directional signal lights, both front and rear, aid in signaling but no driver at night should assume the mere act of signaling his intent will prevent an accident. He should never intersect traffic unless absolutely sure he has ample time to avoid a "close call."

NO "DRIVE IN DRISBY": Night driving requires keenness of all faculties. Seconds save lives. If you feel sleepy, don't drive. Thousands of people are killed because either they or the drivers who hit them dozed for an instant.

AVOID ALCOHOL: Darkness which dulls vision and alcohol which dulls mental and physical reactions is a deadly combination at night. If you must drink, for humanity's sake don't drive.

Motorists are urged to observe these precautions at night to compensate for the inadequate visibility which will continue to make night driving dangerous until street lighting is made adequate in cities and towns and on critical accident-prone areas of highways.

It's The Driver, Not The Vehicle That Sets Speed

Increasing automobile horsepower doesn't necessarily lead to greater highway speeds, according to a survey conducted by the Yale Bureau of Highway Traffic.

The tests were conducted on two sections of the Wilbur Cross Parkway outside New Haven. Conclusions of the survey, just published in the "Traffic Quarterly," indicate that "the critical factor in determining highway speeds is still the driver and not the vehicle."

The survey showed that the highest powered vehicles, while driven more frequently in the high speed ranges, are not driven at any greater maximum speeds than the lower powered cars.

'Magic And Music' Opens At Westport

"Magic and Music" is the title of the tenebrous twin bill that opens at the Westport Country Playhouse on Monday, for a week's run through Saturday.

Garden Notes

By Mrs. M. D. Stanley

The first child's garden to be presented by a commercial firm in the eastern section of the country is now on display in the 17-acre rose gardens of the Jackson and Perkins Co., at Newark, N.Y. Opened as a feature of the 23rd Annual Rose Festival, the garden measures 35 feet by 50 feet. Designed by Henry B. Aul, assistant horticulture editor and landscape architect of the New York Herald Tribune, it is called "The Children's Story Book Garden." The garden was created to teach youngsters the pleasures of planting, raising and owning a rose garden. The light touch of fantasy and whimsical nursery-land setting was designed by Mr. Aul to capture attention and imagination of children. At the same time, each of the separate plantings is a practical application which could be used to enhance the appearance of anyone's garden.
