A HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Town of East Haven has many interests within its bounds in connection with history, both local and national, and it would be a very wise plan for the Town to form a Historical Society.

This subject is brought to mind, clearly, upon recalling a little incident that happened a few years ago, when he town of East Haven very foolishly sold the oldest house in the township, namely the Isaac Bradley house, which stood in Main Street, just a short distance from the Green, to a man in Darien.

Upon purchasing the house, he immediately moved it from the town and had it reconstructed there.

What the town received from it in finances, it is doubtful that it ever equaled its historical value to the town.

When such a blunder of that description occurs, there should absolutely be a historical society to prevent such occurrences.

At present, the Hagaman Memorial Library is being used for such a cause, and it is to be appreciated for its doing so, but being a library, visitors interested in matters of historical importance, do not know of this and therefore pass up the golden opportunity.

Now, if these relics were enclosed within the portals of a beautiful historical society building, with a board in charge, it is a sure thing that it would attract many visitors.

Even though the town is in no position to build a historical society, there should be a body appointed by the town, to see that East Haven's historic values are kept within the town.

The Hat-Box

The Summer Leghorns are again in style for the first time in several years.

Its very wide brims are very flattering and also very protecting on hot, summer days. Most of them have round or irregular crowns with plain ribbon trim. The more dressy models have bunches or wreaths of wild flowers, while others have bands and streamers of rainbow chiffon.

The most popular model seems to be the one with leghorn brim and crown of wide, georgian ribbon in brown, navy and black, with an opening at the top to show the hair. What could be more attractive for the lively summer dresses.

The present style seems to be one extreme or the other, having either an extra wide brim or an open-top halo. The medium-sized brim is pronounced as just a little backward in the millinery march, but only for the present.

Two-Meaning Word
There seems to be little connection between flattery and the wagging of a dog's tail, yet in nearly all the Northern European languages the same word signified both.

Port of Liverpool
One of the chief reasons for Liverpool becoming a great port is that it possesses the only deep-water haven on the west coast of England. There are 9 1/2 miles of docks on the city's side of the Mersey and 9 1/2 miles on the Birkenhead side.

Buttercups

There must be fairy miners
Just underneath the mould,
Such wondrous quaint designers
Who live in caves of gold.

They take the shining metals,
And beat them into shreds;
And mould them into petals,
To make the flowers' heads.

Sometimes they melt the flowers
To tiny seeds like pearls,
And store them up in bowers
For little boys and girls.

And still a tiny fan turns
Above a forge of gold,
To keep, with fairy lanterns,
The world from growing old.

A Slipping Pane

Rastus (on being sent to the general store): My boss wants a pane o' glass nine by 'leven.
Clerk (jokingly): Haven't got that size, Rastus, but will a 'leven by nine do?

Rastus (thinking it over seriously): I'll try it. Maybe if we slip it in sideways nobody'll notice it.

A pious and uncommonly homely spinster was accosted by a staggering drunk.

"Lady," he said, "you're the homeliest person I ever saw."
"And you, sir," replied the spinster, "are the drunkest man I ever saw."

"Mebbe so, lady," countered the drunk, "but I'll be okay tomorrow."

"Went fishing today." "Have any luck?" "Sure, very good luck."
"What did you use for bait?" "Chewing tobacco." "Chewing tobacco! Never heard of such bait. How do you use it?"

"Well, you just put it on the hook. The fish comes up and gets it and goes away. Then when he comes up to expectorate, you hit him over the head with the pole."

A girl was introduced to an old flame of hers. She decided to high-tail him.

"I didn't get your name."
"That isn't your fault. You tried hard enough, didn't you?"

What's What In BUILDING CONSTRUCTION

By Walter R. Shiner

Small House Economy (Concluded)

The domestic hot water system is always a problem in this locality due to the definite summer season when the house heating system ceases to function.

For economy of operation, it is necessary to eliminate the gas fired hot water heater, at least for the winter season. With hot water or furnace heat, this is best accomplished by the use of an "Acorn" or brass coil placed directly in the fire-pot and connected to a gas hot water heater, which for the average five room house should be a 20 to 30 gallon insulated automatic gas fired hot water heater. The gas may be shut off during the winter heating season and the hot water obtained from the heating boiler without any extra operating expense. For steam or vacuum vapor heat, a Taco coil heater is used, placed between the house heater and the domestic hot water heater to obtain the same result.

Where strict economy is necessary, an ordinary galvanized boiler may be used with auxiliary gas hot water heater such as Vulcan, attached without the automatic feature. The only disadvantage is that it is necessary to light the gas heater when water is needed and to wait until it heats.

These same hookups may be used with an oil burner as well as with the use of coal. The best arrangement where there is an oil burner and where economy of initial cost is not a factor, is to use a Taco coil heater and an extra heavy galvanized boiler placed on ceiling of basement.

This should be connected for year round use in connection with the oil burner. For steam or vapor heating systems an Aquasat takes care of the proper water temperature. In summer hot water is usually kept at a temperature of about 150 degrees, the house heating system remaining idle meanwhile as it requires a temperature of 170 degrees or over for vapor heating system to function and 212 degrees for steam heating systems.

Hot water by oil burner with hot water heating systems may be accomplished along the same line of hookup by the use of Bell and Gossett single flow high limit and operate the system. A Bell and Gossett indirect water heater must be used in place of the Taco.

These installations require an initial output but the operating cost the year round is at the minimum.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

FINAL ASSEMBLY

The Final Assembly of the year was held last Wednesday morning, June 23, in the auditorium, at which members of the 1937 Graduating Class and the eighth grades attended: John Moran, president of the Junior Class, presided.

Mr. Moran introduced Mr. William E. Fagerstrom, principal of the high school, who in turn introduced the following speakers: Mr. William E. Gillis, Superintendent of East Haven Schools; Mr. John Maher, Athletic Coach; Mr. Matthew Tierney, track coach; Miss Louise Scott and Mr. F. Meredith Cooper, coach and assistant coach of the debating teams; and Mr. W. J. Talbot, representing the American Legion.

Special awards were presented to the following students: Robert Whittlesley, first prize of $5.00 for the best essay on "Insurance"; Grace Collins, second prize of $2.50. Helen Malone, cash prize, awarded by the South School P. T. A., for the best essay on "Value of Musical Instruments in the High School"; Helen Orlando, honorable mention. Mr. W. J. Talbot awarded prizes to the following students for the most attractive posters on the subject of safety campaign: Frank Kawra, Harry Dill, Jane Dempsey, Betty Festa, Doris Colman and Mary DeFrancisco. Miss Janet Daniels was the winner of medal for good citizenship presented by the D. A. R. of New Haven.

Certificates and letters were presented to the athletic teams and certificates and keys were awarded to the debating teams.

Two scholarships were awarded to Miss Janet Daniels, to attend Larson Junior College, and to Miss Vera Blakeman, to attend the Junior College of Commerce.

The remainder of the program included a dance specialty by Merritt Thompson, songs and motion pictures.

The entire assembly was under the general direction of Miss Louise Scott.

Miss Natalie Porter

Miss Natalie Porter, who has been in charge of the cafeteria during the past year has accepted an appointment at the Bedford Junior High School, at Westport, Conn., as instructor in domestic science. She is leaving because of the curtailment here. She will be succeeded by Miss Mary Ingham.

Compton Out Trapping Cosmic Rays

Dr. Arthur Holly Compton, famous University of Chicago physicist and Nobel prize winner (1927), is pictured with his new cosmic ray meter aboard the Aorangi. This is the first time a cosmic ray meter has been erected on a ship travelling through northern and southern hemispheres for the purpose of checking the variations of cosmic ray action in both spheres. Under the shield, which affords a screen of lead (through which cosmic rays but not radio-active rays may penetrate), is a body of matter on which the impact of cosmic rays is registered by means of an electrically-operated device. The readings are recorded on a photographic film.

Fruit Punch
4 cups hot water
2 cups sugar
1 small can chopped pineapple
Juice of 3 lemons
Juice of 4 oranges
1 bottle carbonated water.
Prepare syrup of water and sugar. Boil 15 minutes, cool, add fruit and carbonated water. Serve ice-cold.

Grape-Juice Lemonade
Juice of 3 lemons
1-3 cup sugar
2 cups grape-juice
Enough ice-water for 1 qt.
Combine ingredients in given order, and chill for one-half hour. Serve in each glass a slice of lemon from which seeds have been removed. This will serve six water glasses or 18 punch glasses.
