"CLEANLINESS IS NEXT TO GODLINESS"

It seems as if all the waste papers in the world are scattered on peoples lawns and about the streets of East Haven. Most of this is inexcusable and may be abolished by a little forethought.

Adults, as well as children are as much to blame for throwing papers around the streets, instead of in the refuse cans, which is done more or less without thinking.

East Haven has had such a thing as "clean-up week" so why not have a permanent clean-up good for all time and not only have a cleaner, neater town, but assist the home-owner to keep his premises looking respectable.

So, bear in mind the above adage, "Cleanliness Is Next To Godliness," and help keep East Haven free from all waste papers in the future.

The Hat-Box SCHOOL GIRL BERET

Almost any type of beret for the school-girl is appropriate and attractive, but a certain new beret is thought of here which is very different.

It is octagon-shaped and made of pliable black cloth. Around its edge of double thickness, there are perforations one-half inch apart. Thru these perforations is laced very fine strings of felt-cloth in gay colors.

It is worn pulled back on the head, so far back that the back of the beret almost reaches the shoulders. In the center is a twisted knot of colored strings.

The dark brown beret with burnt orange, peacock blue and tan combinations of strings attracts most women; but there are many other combinations shown.

THE PEARL OF THE EAST

by Arthur L. Griffiths,
M.A., Yale

Many centuries later, when the United States took the Philippines, the problem of head-hunting was a serious one. It became a formalism gruesomely carried out over hundreds of square miles of territory. Had any of the readers of these articles listened to the writer over the radio last January they might have heard of my personal experiences among the Kalingas, the fiercest tribe of the Head Hunters. I am at present talking about the Moros and the Moro country on the radio. Those who care to hear me may do so each Monday from 3:45 to 4 p. m. over W.E.L.L. Dial 90.

The Head Hunters are now principally known as the tribes of Kalingas, Ifugaos, Ilongots, Gaddanes and Igorrotes. They all live in the greater mountains of the northern island of Luzon, the same island which the city of Manila is situated.

Following the wave of head-hunting Dyaks came the prone Malay wave now known as the Filipinos. The last and fiercest wave I will mention a little later. When our country took possession of the Philippines in '98, they found a very queer condition among the Filipinos. Very few of them had ever travelled away from their birthplaces more than fifteen miles in all their lives. They were therefore divided up into many tribes each speaking a different dialect. The principal tribes were the Visayans, the Tagalogs, the Ilocanos, Pangasinanes, Bicolos, Pampanganos, Cagayanos and Macabebees.

Such was the condition when I landed there. Today, English is the official language and is spoken freely by the younger and rising generations. They made very apt pupils and were eager to learn our language. The climate is both splendid and terrible. Years ago, two fictitious characters, Mr. Dooley and Mr. Hennessey were often quoted in the papers and people laughed much at them. Once Mr. Hennessey asked Mr. Dooley if he had ever been to the Philippines.

"Sure, Mr. Hennessey."
"And how did you like it, Mr. Dooley?"
"It was great."
"What did you like best about the Philippines, Mr. Dooley?"
"The sun, Mr. Hennessey."
"And why?"
"Because the sun was very democratic. It came right down and mingled with the people."

—Linotype—

"Why are you crying?"
"Father called mother a waddling goose."
"Well?"
"Mother called father a stupid ass."
"But why are you crying?"
"Well, what am I?"

"Elmer—Elmer, do you love me?"
"I'll say."
"Do you think I'm beautiful?"
"You bet."
"Are my eyes the loveliest you've ever seen?"
"Shucks, yes."
"—and my mouth like a rosebud?"
"You know it."
"—and my figure divine?"
"Uh-huh."
"Oh, Elmer, you say the nicest things! Tell me some more."

What's What In BUILDING CONSTRUCTION

An open forum for the discussion and explanation of construction and material problems
By Walter R. Shiner
Reg. Architect, State of Conn.

SUPERVISING SMALL HOME CONSTRUCTION

Naturally, before the side wall shingles or clapboards are applied, the window and door frames must be installed. Door frames must be of plank rabbeted or of one inch stock with stops planted on. See that these frames have an extra rabbet or stop to receive the screen door, otherwise the screen door will have to be applied on the face of the casing, resulting in a poor looking job and the chance of an opening for bugs to crawl through.

The window frames will be stock frames and specifications will call for the kind and style. So many styles are now available on the market that choice of style is about all there is left to decide. Most frames are satisfactory and well made. Double hung frames are now made which include screens and weather stripping and these are the most economical in the end if weather stripped or screened windows are to be installed.

They will be cheaper in the end than to buy frames, fit screens and weather strips afterward and will fit better and harmonize better. One of these types is the Silente made by Curtis. Wood casements are now made including screens and weather strips which are reasonably light and give a very classy appearance. Andersen frames of this type are of the best. Frames of all steel are made in the same type by Fenstra, Truscon, Hope, and many others and they come in several designs, weights and thicknesses to suit any pocketbook. They are not more costly than a good grade wood casement.

These frames should have waterproof building paper put on around the openings before they are installed and should be properly flashed across the top, otherwise leaks will develop. The house frame should then be covered with waterproof paper and the shingles or clapboards applied.

Shingle siding has been discussed in a previous issue. Clapboards may be put on with or without corner boards. The old fashioned kind are laid 4 1-2 inches to the weather with corner boards. The wide ones come 10 inches and are laid 8 inches to the weather and mitred at the corners. Check the corners and see that they are tight. When redwood is used, the priming coat must be applied before the sun strikes them otherwise they will split.

"Toast of New York" To Play Capitol

Pat O'Brien in "San Quentin" with Humphrey Bogart, Ann Sheridan and Barton MacLane, a story of hell on earth, is the current picture at the Capitol for today and tomorrow. "Wings Over Honolulu" with Wendy Barrie and Ray Milland is the co-feature. Saturday Night is Bank Night.

On Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Edward Arnold will be seen in "The Toast Of New York" with Cary Grant, Frances Farmer, Jack Oakie and Donald Meek, in a tale of a power-mad puppet of love. The second feature will be "Woman Chases Man" starring Miriam Hopkins and Joel McCrea.

He made a discovery, but she found her leading man in "Talent Scout" with Donald Woods, Jeanne Madden and Fred Lawrence, the feature picture to play the Capitol screen on Wednesday and Thursday. "Love In A Bungalow" with Nan Grey and Kent Taylor, will be the co-feature. Ladies Gift Night will be featured both evenings.

Facts About Nuts
Peanuts and pecans are native products grown in our Southern states, while Brazil nuts, filberts, cashews and pistachios are imported from foreign lands. Part of the confectioner's supply of walnuts is imported and the rest is grown in this country. English walnuts come from France and California, while black walnuts are raised in the United States. Almonds, although found in five continents, come chiefly from Spain and Italy. California also produces almonds, and Italy and Turkey supply filberts. Cashews come from India.

The Noise-Makers
"A hen lays eggs," said Uncle Eben, "and a rooster crows: Dem dat does de least work is liable to make de most noise."

As It Should Be
Manly nobleness, womanly tenderness, childlike trust, these are among the most of natural affections and generous enthusiasms.

RHEUMATISM IS DISCUSSED

"Rheumatism" is one of the most badly overworked words in the language. The term is used to generally describe lumbago, muscle pains, neuralgia, neuritis, osteo-arthritis, rheumatoid arthritis and sciatica in addition to rheumatism itself. When these painful and stubborn complaints have not yielded to past treatment it is because you have not found the cause of your trouble, which may be excess uric acid, pus in your system, past infections or poor blood and nerve circulation.
Dr. Hamilton has the facilities for finding the real true cause of your trouble. His laboratory service, along with his X-Ray locates causes for your painful conditions that may have been overlooked. His reputation for the past 25 years has been made by his ability to "find it and correct it" with his chiropractic drugless method. You are invited to learn more about his treatments that are doing so much for patients who are discouraged. Phone 51927 or call at his office. Chapel and Dwight Streets, for an appointment. His fees are reasonable and within your means.
