Land To Be Bought By State For New Cut Off

It was learned Tuesday that steps will be taken in the near future by the State Highway department toward the acquisition of land for the second link of the new state highway cutoff which will eventually lead from Lakes Saltonstall to Grannis Corners. Work is nearing completion now at the first link which will carry the new highway through the lower end of Saltonstall ridge along the Olson property and thence across the new Farm River bridge to Sanford Street.

Heretofore surveys have been made of the remainder of the route but property owners have been left wondering just when the state is to begin its negotiations for the acquisition of land. There have also been rumors of the likelihood of a bridge crossing for High Street but it is understood this part of the program is not likely to be carried out but that the two highways will meet on the surface.

The new post road will cut across Kimberly Avenue and traverse Maple Street and will then continue across Peat Meadows a distance of a mile or more to Grannis Corners. Extensive fill will be required for Peat Meadow and there will have to be special provision for drainage. The first link of the post road cut-off will probably be finished before summer.

Churches Hold Special Services For Easter

Special programs of worship will be observed in all Branford and East Haven Churches on Easter morning, with the music forming a particularly fine feature in all the houses of worship. Throughout the week the various congregations have been observing Holy Week with the traditional and appropriate religious observances.

In addition to the music programs to be presented, the Review is very fortunate in obtaining from several Branford pastors Easter messages which we reproduce below.

Easter 1939
"Fear, perplexity and amazement are the words used in the Gospels to describe the emotions of those who came on the first Easter Dawn to the tomb of Jesus. These three things harass us today as we stand in the midst of a confused world wondering what is going to happen next."

"And the angel said, Fear not, for I know that you seek Jesus who has been crucified. He is not here; for he is risen, even as he said."

It is the Angel's words that give courage for tomorrow. It is the fact of the Resurrection that makes all tombs empty and enables us to overcome the last enemy, death. It is Jesus Christ alone who is able to bring peace out of confusion and to destroy all fears about the future."

Memorial Fund Planned For Helen E. Lewis

Plans are being made for a Memorial Fund for Mrs. Helen Edwards Lewis who was a summer resident of Stony Creek for many years.

Mrs. Lewis died in the hurricane of September, one week after receiving the highest honor ever bestowed on any woman in Connecticut.

The following letter is being sent to her friends and co-workers: "The untimely and tragic death of Helen Edwards Lewis has left us grieving for our friend and co-worker. She will always be remembered as "one of the outstanding women in the Connecticut roster of Law Makers." We therefore feel very deeply that fitting and lasting memorial should be erected to her.

Of Helen Lewis' many interests and activities, the greatest was in the field of Education. Where her influence was felt most strongly was as chairman of the Legislative Committee on Education and as a member of the State Board of Education.

Although a Vassar Alumna, she was an ardent and devoted friend and worker for Connecticut College for Women. She was a past President of the Fairfield County Committee of Connecticut College. This Committee, therefore, feels that the most fitting tribute to her memory

Public Health Costs Branford .67 Per Capita

"Efficiency is our health machinery is even more important than in our industrial organizations" says Franklin M. Footc in the March Connecticut Health Bulletin.

In the same article North Branford expended .67 per capita last year; Branford .28 and East Haven .24 for public health service.

Public health does cost money—we cannot expect effective health protection without supplying the fuel to keep our health machinery functioning. However, even the usually recommended figure of $2.00 to $2.50 per capita for all community health activities would represent a small percentage of the average town or city budget. This total figure should include money spent by voluntary agencies; but certainly the local government should at least provide the foundation for a well-rounded health program, communicable disease control, tuberculosis control, syphilis control, supervision of milk and water supplies and general sanitation. This official tax appraised generally should be at least around $1.00 per capita; even then the major portion of the maternal and child health work will have to be carried by private agencies.

Connecticut communities which may be considered as having good public health protection are now appropriating this amount, and even more. For example, the cities of Hartford and New Haven and the town of Greenwich have each been recipients of the first award in the Health Conservation Contest of the United States Chamber in the past; their appropriations out of tax money equal or exceed this figure, and private agencies supplement their work.

Award Contract For New Stone Hamden Church

The Frank P. Sullivan Construction Company of East Haven, was awarded the contract for the construction of the new stone Church of the Blessed Sacrament to be erected on Circular Avenue at Church Street in Hamden, at the bid letting which was held Monday night. The low bid submitted by the East Haven firm was $70,000.

Work will be started on the grounds today when the plot will be staked out by engineers and according to present plans the structure will be completed by October 15. Original estimates of the cost placed the figure at 80,000. The church will face Circular Avenue and be situated between Church and Taft Streets.

Carolyn Baisley Funeral Yesterday Well Attended

The entire town was shocked and grieved Sunday to hear of the sudden death of Miss Imogene Carolyn Baisley, very popular in town of 40 Bradley Avenue, which occurred about 11 a. m. in the office of Dr. A. S. McQueen where she was about to undergo a minor operation on her neck. A short time before the operation was to have been performed, Miss Baisley was stricken with a heart attack. Accompanying the doctor was one of the visiting nurses.

Miss Baisley was 30 years of age and was born in Branford, a daughter of George H. Baisley and Mabel Gilroyd. All her life she had been a resident of this town. For the past ten years she had been employed in Spaldings Drug Store and previous to that time she was a telephone operator in the local exchange. She was also bookkeeper at Baldwin Motors, West Main Street. She was a member of the Branford Drama Club, in which she was very active.

Surviving her are her parents; one sister, Mrs. John J. Ahern of East Main Street; one brother, Melville Baisley of Montowese Street, and nieces and nephews.

The funeral was largely attended by her many friends and relatives from the W. S. Clancy & Sons Mortuary Home, yesterday morning at 8:30 with requiem high mass in St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Edmund A. Cotter, pastor, was celebrant, James E. Cosgrove, vocal soloist, rendered "Mother of Christ." The bearers were Frederick R. Houde, Lee McGrall, John M. McDermott, John Ahern, Rollin Kinney and James Fisher. The burial was in St. Agnes cemetery, Rev. Edward J. Demagne conducting the committal service.

GOVERNOR BALDWIN
I write in no partisan sense when I say that I feel more and more impressed with Governor Baldwin. Everyone knows by this time, the so-called Dual Job Bill badly tangled up in the legislature. The House had voted one thing and the Senate another, and they seemed unable to come to any agreement. Gov. Baldwin suddenly called the two houses into a joint session and addressed them. He was mild, reasonable and conciliatory. He urged that party considerations be laid aside for the good of all, and that the work of the legislature might go on. He suggested that each house voluntarily accept for themselves the restrictions that they had voted in that house. Surely it was reasonable for each to agree to what had already been voted for. The House promptly voted the measure that the Governor desired, and also sent the proposed constitutional amendment to the voters for their approval. So far the State has taken no action, but may do so before this is printed. In this matter party lines are badly broken. It is a much needed reform that the Dual Job Bill aims at, and I sincerely hope it may become law.

THE COMMITTEE ON MOTOR VEHICLES
I have been greatly disappointed in the work of this committee up to date. As is well known, the slaughter of people on the highways has become a state and national disgrace of the first magnitude. Between 300 and 400 killed in Connecticut each year, and something more than 30,000 the country over. It is a horrible thing to contemplate, and it would seem even more so if it touched our own families. Thus far I see no indication that this committee has in mind any speed regulations, or more restraint upon the drinking driver, the two most potent factors in such accidents. The people of the state ought to find some new way to impress this committee with the necessity of doing something to eliminate a large part of this bloodshed. It can be done, but by milk and water methods.

FORBIDDEN CITIZENSHIP RIGHTS
When a person is convicted of serious crime his rights as a citizen are forfeited. Only the legislature can restore such rights, so at every session of the legislature a large number whose rights have been forfeited come back and ask that they be restored. There is some thing about this that is all wrong. I am not sure just what. Do we voluntarily accept for ourselves the restrictions that they had voted in that house. Surely it was reasonable for each to agree to what had already been voted for. The House

EASTER
In all of the Christian calendar there is no more joyous than Easter. Christmas is of uncertain date. No one knows whether it is to be the real birthday of Christ or not. Probably not. Then it has been mixed up with the story of some fabled saint named St. Nicholas. And worst of all, it is a commercialized until it is more of a nightmare to many than a beautiful and sacred day. So far as commercialism is concerned, Easter is beginning to suffer like many other days. But the date we know, and the sacred happenings of that day we know. Friday of Holy Week was one of the saddest days of the world has ever seen. But Easter is one of the most joyous. Jesus, showed himself alive, and he told his followers, "Because I live, ye shall live also." The angel said, "He is not here. He has risen." I wish these words might be inscribed over every cemetery. "They are not here, they have risen." Our friends are not waiting for us some lonely graveyard. On Easter day, of all days, we should seek the things above where Christ sits at the right hand of God.

Easter Day is a challenge to us to face our most fundamental problems concerning life. Jesus did not die merely to declare to a small minority of the race that there is life after death and personal victory here over the powers of evil. He died to bring mankind into the consciousness of Divine sonship and human brotherhood. It is the Spirit of Easter that thwarts the stupidity of ill-will, the suicide of selfishness, the triumph of sin. It is God's refreshing gift to mankind, the world seems set on reneating the

Pork Chops And Apples For Easter Dinner

Pork chops and apples are an old, old combination, but a favored one. Just the same, the art flavor of the apples seems to enhance the rich, delicious flavor of the chops and makes the whole meal just right, even for an Easter dinner.

In order that pork chops and apples may make a real menu stand-by, it is necessary that there be variety in the way these two favorite foods are prepared. According to Inez S. Wilson, home economist, there are many ways to combine them. For instance, the pork chops may be stuffed, and served with apple quarters which have been browned in the pork chop drippings. Or the pork chops may be filled with an apple stuffing. Or the pork chops may be cooked enchaussure with apple and sweet potatoes. Here are suggestions for preparing and serving these two foods together.

Stuffed Pork Chops With Apples
6 double pork chops
1 cup bread crumbs
1 cup corn pulp
1 teaspoon powdered celery leaves
Salt and pepper
Have the pork chops cut thick, and a pocket cut into the center from the side, next to the bone. Make a stuffing from the bread crumbs, corn, and seasonings. Fill the pocket. No skewer is necessary when the pocket is cut from the side of the chop. Season the chops lightly with salt and pepper and brown on both sides in a hot skillet. Add a little hot water, cover the chops lightly, and cook slowly until done, about one hour. Pork chops always should be cooked test daily newspaper.

WAR DECLARED

April 6, 1917-1918
Today is just 22 years that the United States declared war on Germany. That day was our official entrance into the World War.

Since then April 6 has been called Army Day and celebrated as such.

slowly until thoroughly done in order to bring out the rich, delicious flavor.

When the chops are done, remove them to a hot platter and keep warm. With part of the drippings, brown and cook apple sections, and with the rest, make rich brown gravy.

Instead of using apples as a garnish and accompaniment for pork chops, you may want to use an apple stuffing. Here is the way it is prepared:

Apple Stuffing
2 slices salt pork, diced
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 cup bread or cracker crumbs
1/2 cup chopped parsley
5 tart apples, diced
1/2 cup sugar
Salt and pepper
Fry salt pork until crisp. Cook onions and celery in fat until they are tender. Then add chopped apples, sprinkle with sugar and cover. Cook until apples and season with salt and pepper. Fill pockets in pork chops with apple stuffing and cook as described above.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Madonia sent us a copy of the March 22 Try-on Daily Bulletin, the World's smallest newspaper.

Frank Fay Brings A Hit Show To Broadway

Although Frank Fay's vaudeville revue, in which the popular stage and screen jester shares stellar honors with Eddy Arnold, Eva Le Gallienne, Smith and Dale and the Méry-Macs, is now in its fifth capacity week at the Broadway Theatre, Broadway manager are still bewildered by the overnight success of this variety entertainment. Seats have been placed on sale four weeks in advance and four Easter week matinees, Monday, April 10th, Wednesday, April 12th, Friday, April 14th and Saturday, April 15th, have been scheduled as further evidence of the popularity of Frank Fay Vaudeville.

The only one not surprised at the quick success of the show, naturally, is Frank Fay, who produced the extravaganza against the advice of his closest friends.

"You can't bring vaudeville back," they warned.

"But I'm not bringing vaudeville back," Fay protested. "All I'm doing is giving the people what I think is a swell show."

Fay's judgment was correct. The show is now evidenced by the critical raves accorded the show after its premiere. The audience laughed till their sides ached and they were in the front row. Robert Coleman in the Mirror, Robert Benchley in the New Yorker, and other critics have all said that they could be proud of it. Sidney Whipple added his tribute in the World-Tribune by calling it "a gay show with a mad finale touched by some of the Olsen-Johnson genius, with most of it grand stuff."

The public reaction to the show came tonight to the show given at the 55th St. Theatre is naturally pleasing to Frank Fay. "Playgoers to read."

Another hazard is that down town vaudeville more than ever, he says. "But you can expect people to enjoy a vaudeville show in five thousand seat houses where you see the face of the actor. Vaudeville might just as well telephone the bill to him. Personally, and I don't think the day is so far off either, when vaudeville will be one of the mainstays of American entertainment."

Fay was virtually raised in the shadow of the theatre, at four he made his debut as a polwog in Victor Herbert's "Babes in Toyland." At six he was the kid in James Cagney's vaudeville act, "Leary's Kid." Subsequently he appeared with Rose Stahl in "The Chorus Lady." The passing years found him also with such good stage companions as Sir Henry Irving, Wilton Lackaye and E. H. Sothern.

Brings Plea To Clean Hurricane Elms By June

Three diseased elms were found in Branford in 1938 and the same number in North Branford. There is grave danger of increase and spread of Dutch elm disease in Connecticut unless hurricane elm wood is cleaned up before June, according to a report of Forester W. O. Filley of the Agricultural Experiment Station at New Haven, who is in charge of elm disease work for the State. Branches that carry the disease are breeding under the bark of this neglected wood. Mr. Filley said they will emerge in June, and some of them carry the infection from diseased to healthy trees.

As a result of the report, Station Director W. L. Slate signed a cleanup order affecting four Connecticut counties. The order gives federal and state agencies permission to remove or dispose of any elm wood infested with Dutch elm disease. The order was issued on May 15. At the same time the director appealed to citizens to help in the cleanup by disposing of diseased wood. "Disease spread so that danger of disease spread would be minimized," he said. "Dutch elm disease is still a pest in the campaign to dispose of diseased wood so that danger of disease spread would be minimized," he said. "Dutch elm disease is still a pest in the campaign to dispose of diseased wood so that danger of disease spread would be minimized," he said.

Forester W. O. Filley who is in charge of Dutch elm disease control work for Connecticut, Mr. Filley said that the disease has been developed since the hurricane. Elm wood with bark on lying about on public and private property. Some of the wood is being used as cordwood, and much of it lies as it fell. All of it constitutes a menace because it is an attractive breeding place for bark beetles, carriers of Dutch elm disease.

For the past few years the State has attempted to protect elms by keeping the numbers of bark beetles down, Mr. Filley said. This year, with the large amount of breeding material available, the increase will be enormous if measures are not taken before June. Merely cutting the wood into lengths for firewood will not do the trick. The wood must be piled in the water under the bark where they lay their eggs, and the young emerge about the first of June. If the tree in which they have lodged their eggs is cut, the beetles carry the infection to live elms where they go to feed.

Another hazard is that down town vaudeville more than ever, he says. "But you can expect people to enjoy a vaudeville show in five thousand seat houses where you see the face of the actor. Vaudeville might just as well telephone the bill to him. Personally, and I don't think the day is so far off either, when vaudeville will be one of the mainstays of American entertainment."

Fay was virtually raised in the shadow of the theatre, at four he made his debut as a polwog in Victor Herbert's "Babes in Toyland." At six he was the kid in James Cagney's vaudeville act, "Leary's Kid." Subsequently he appeared with Rose Stahl in "The Chorus Lady." The passing years found him also with such good stage companions as Sir Henry Irving, Wilton Lackaye and E. H. Sothern.

MOST PEOPLE agree that Pontiac is the most beautiful thing on wheels. But too few people, for their own good, know that this big, Silver-Strained eye-stopper is even better than it looks! No car on earth is better engineered, and the results are literally amazing.

You flash from take-off to top speed almost as fast as you can say "Silver Streak." You drive with half of former effort, thanks to Pontiac's pioneering Shift Shaft.

Every mile is sheer delight, because Pontiac's mighty engine is equal to any task, and Pontiac's exclusive combination of Knee-Action and Duflex springing makes main highways out of country byways.

That's the kind of performance you expect from costly cars. You get it in a Pontiac for a price prizing on the lowest—and you get peak economy, too!

If all this is true, you naturally want a Pontiac. Take a ride and you'll decide you haven't told half the story!

EASTER CHICKS AND RABBITS

As the Easter season draws near, we wish again to call the attention of adults to the practice of giving baby chicks and rabbits to children as Easter gifts.

In many cases the young child is not prepared for such a present and as a result the animals suffer. Children, and very often parents, have no idea what to feed the new rabbits or baby chicks, nor have they any facilities for raising them properly. Too often they are indifferent. Many times when the newness of the pet chicks or bunny has worn off, they are sadly neglected and ill cared for.

As people persist in buying chicks and rabbits at Easter time another cruel practice arises. Countless thousands of these little things are shipped from long distances to stores for the Easter gift trade, under extremely adverse conditions. They are crowded into small quarters in unsanitary surroundings, often with little food or water, and too frequently left over Sunday without care or attention. They are handled carelessly by prospective customers, and thousands die by being picked up by children who are too young to realize that rabbits and chicks may be painfully injured or killed by rough handling or even by too much petting. Unfortunately, the children treat them as they would toys—not understanding that they are living creatures and capable of suffering.

THINK AGAIN

If, as some of our politicians argue, the steady and rapid extension of government control over individuals and businesses marks the royal road to security and plenty for the people, the totalitarian states should be veritable marvels of prosperity.

The fact is, as everyone who has studied the subject knows, that totalitarianism tends to promote a lower, not a higher standard of living; a lower, not a higher wage for the workers; a smaller, not a larger return for farmer and manufacturer.

In Russia, articles that Americans of all economic levels consider almost absolute necessities—such as woolen clothing, good leather boots, meat and butter for the table, and adequate furniture—are possessed only by the relatively few, the favored ones of totalitarian "aristocracy." In Italy, wages and the standard of living have been consistently lowered by governmental fiat, and even so common a commodity as whole-wheat bread is unavailable to the bulk of workers. In Germany, the government-sponsored spread of "ersatz" foods and materials—that is, substitutes for rubber, eggs, butter, bread made of grain coffee, etc.—testifies amply to what is happening to the ordinary citizens' standard of living and chance to progress there.

There isn't any mystery as to why this is so. As Harry Curran Wilbur has said: "Government is a non-producer, and has no resources save what it takes from producers, distributors and those serving both processes." Taxes and competition, under paternalistic government, gradually deplete the nation's resources as gradually used up and destroyed. The national income drops, while taxes rise. And the standard of living goes down.

COMMUNITY GOLD MINES

(From the Hunterdon County (N. J.) Democrat)

Formerly it was thought advantageous for nation, state and community to encourage and to cooperate with industry as a means of bringing about prosperity.

In recent years there have been many forces turned loose which tend to retard production, to tax and otherwise restrict industry. In calling attention to the value of industries to a community, Charles R. Hook, president of the American Rolling Mill Company, said recently: "If gold were discovered on the outskirts of your community tomorrow, the newspapers would carry the news in the biggest type they could find. There are few profitable gold mines, but there are many thousands of mills and factories which day after day turn out a steady stream of gold in the form of pay checks. When the pay envelopes of industry are well filled, the whole community will thrive and prosper."

Too often in communities such as we live in, we take for granted the payrolls of our industries. It is not until they cease operating by reason of poor demand for goods, depletion of capital or strikes among workers that we become aware that they are really gold mines.

The people in a community owe an obligation to their industries to see that they are not overtaxed and that they have all the protection and their property is entitled to. The workers owe loyalty to their employers to see that they are not overtaxed and that they have all the protection and their property is entitled to.

THE REAL EMERGENCY

No less than 39 national "emergencies" have been proclaimed in Washington in the last six years, according to the research findings of one of the Congressmen. That is at the rate of one new "emergency" every six weeks.

None of these emergencies doubtless did exist, but most of them, apparently, were simply a spring board for some new fangled reform or regulation proposal advanced in those six years was accomplished by a proclamation that an emergency existed, and that more reform or regulation was the only way to meet the situation.

But the emergency "viewers-with-alarm" have overlooked the real emergency. That one is the really alarming and speedy rise of the National Debt. It has more than doubled in the six year period of these 39 other emergencies, despite higher taxes imposed in that period to meet increasing expenses of the Federal government.

Certainly it is about time the planners re-considered this emergency. And if it is more reform and regulation they want, that will apply here very well. No more important reform could be effected than the reform of the Washington habit of spending more than it takes in.

blems of business he will find privileged opportunities and promotion awaiting him. —Henry H. Metcalf, executive.

"A despotism may almost be defined as a tired democracy. As fatigue falls on a community, the eternal vigilance which has truly been called the price of liberty, and they prefer to arm only one single individual to watch the land while they sleep." —C. K. Chesterton, Everlasting Man.

WPA WORKERS DO RESEARCH ON CO-OPS

According to a recent announcement of the Cooperative League, 94 writers, research workers and translators are working on the WPA "Cooperative Project" in New York City.

In line with the policy of the Works Progress Administration, the project does not prepare original material, but is making an extensive existing material to make available to meet a growing demand for information about cooperatives.

Other plans of English co-ops include competition with the five and ten cent stores. The English co-ops have long stood idle by white Woolworths.

But things will be different if a cooperative movement is accepted. According to the plan under consideration the co-op would be a series of limited price variety stores to bring back to the cooperatives part of this very type of business.
