St. Vincent's number one team of Holy Name League, boasts of having its own private statistician in the person of Bill "Pop" Carr, who keeps score at game time, in the bargain. "Pop" sees to it that all six team members are kept "on the ball" as to total pin-fall, average, etc. right up to the minute. In addition, the versatile ex-minor league acts as team advisor and critic. "Buddy" Tinar, of local football fame and Mario De Gussieppi, recently accepted for military service, leave for induction next Tuesday.

William Graves has been picked to guide the Student Council for the coming year at East Haven High School.

Another boy in blue is Frank Casanova, of Roy Street, who enlisted in the Navy and left for boot training last week. Frank's smiling face will be missed at Wheelan's Service Station where he pumped gas and otherwise kept the cars rolling.

Local nimrods flocked to Maine this week for opening of deer season but Eddie Clough and son found the backyard best for their purposes. Hunting for the first time in thirty years the senior Clough brought home a four pound cock pheasant and a couple of squirrels. Sorry to hear of Frannie Walsh's mother's illness. She's recuperating at Fran's home.

INITIAL REPORTS SHOW $60,000 IN PLEDGES AS CHURCH STARTS DRIVE

Members of the Old Stone Church in East Haven were enthusiastic this week over the possibilities of an early conclusion to the campaign for funds when it was announced last Sunday evening that $60,000 had been raised in four hours of solicitation.

More than 300 excited persons gathered at the church to head the reports of the afternoon's work and were advised that approximately one third of the calls were still to be made this week.

It is the hope of church workers to raise $100,000 by public subscription in the early phase of the campaign. Also included in the plans are a modern kitchen, a parlor for the use of women's organizations, a pastor's study and a church office. Pledges signed last Sunday and this week will last over a two year period.

The announcement of the success of last Sunday's opening wedge was made at a dinner given in the church for canvassers and their families.

Commenting on the initial effort, Pastor James E. Waery said, "I feel God has blessed us in this effort not only in the material gifts but much more in those things of mind and spirit among our people. It is this way, that, in the work of God, assures success."

Rev. Waery feels that when the final report is in from the canvassers and those who will make special gifts, the sacrificial giving of the church members and its friends will make it possible for an early start in the expansion work. Before the workers adjourned last Sunday appreciation gifts were tendered Bill Hasse, Curt Schumacher and Mrs. Fletcher.

Oh yes, also to Jack Allen, he's the expansion program, plans for which were drawn by architect Harold H. Davis after more than a year of study - by several church committees, provides for renovation of the present parish house and the addition of a new Fellowship Hall and 18 Sunday School classrooms. New facilities will also include a large kitchen, Ladies' Parlor, a drop-in room and youth center, pastor's study and church offices.

The new Fellowship Hall will seat 400 persons and will be equipped with a modern stage. The present assembly hall will be used as a gymnasium, with its length increased by removal of the present stage. Estimated cost of the project is $250,000. The committee has set $100,000 as the goal to be reached by home visitations this Sunday; $50,000 to be obtained through special gifts; $50,000 to be represented by the work of the men of the church who plan to complete the interior.

The building program was conceived two years ago to meet the problem of extreme over-crowding of the Sunday School and lack of facilities for the ever-increasing activities of church organizations. The last expansion of the Old Stone Church was in 1924 when the present parish house was constructed through renovation of a building known as the Chapel. Since that time the population of East Haven and the size of the congregation have been greatly increased and facilities have proved to be entirely inadequate.

Old Stone Church, established in 1711 with the present sanctuary construction in 1774, has left a glorious heritage of service to God and the community. The theme of the Building Expansion Program is "Your Heritage For Tomorrow."

United Nations Day Gets Full Recognition

United Nations Day was observed at the High School on Tuesday, October 24. In the history classes, the periods were devoted to a discussion of the U. N., following specially prepared assignments.

The 4th period class heard the address of President Truman at Lake Success, the address of General Clay and the ringing of the Freedom Bell in Berlin, Germany.

Mr. Carl Garvia opened the regular morning broadcast with the following tribute in observance of the birthday of the U.N. On October 24, 1945, after numerous conferences and preparations, the United Nations formally came into being in the city of San Francisco, when the delegates of fifty nations pledged themselves to achieve and maintain Security, Justice, Welfare and Human Rights to all mankind. These obligations are great, and many obstacles must be overcome before success will be realized.

Many doubt that the United Nations will last, and these defeatists try to undermine the efforts of those entrusted with this grave responsibility. However, today, the U.N. is the only hope that the world has for achieving real peace. And only as the citizens of the world give their moral and spiritual support and confidence to their U.N. delegates, will they have the courage to continue their efforts to "save succeeding generations from the scourge of war which twice in our lifetime has brought untold sorrow to mankind." In tribute to the United Nations delegates, and in the earnest hope for success in their continued efforts for the welfare of people all over the world, let us pause for a moment of silent prayer and ask that Divine Guidance light the way to Victory and Peace.

The Dental Clinic has been looked forward to for some time and it is hoped that it may soon become a reality. The Teachers League solicits the cooperation of all townspeople in behalf of this worthy cause.

SOUTH END CIVIC ASS'N HELPS SCHOOL PROGRAM WITH PLAYGROUND GIFT

A big step in eliminating the confusion in building a new school in the South End District was apparently solved this week when the South End Civic Association voted to turn their playground over to the town and the School Building Committee to augment an already purchased site to allow for sufficient acreage to qualify for state aid.

The decision was voted last Friday night at the largest special meeting ever held by the South End Association.

The action apparently solves the last major obstacle before proceeding with actual construction. The move was a most philanthropic one by the residents of the area since the people of the district have spent six thousand dollars and ten years of work in converting the former swampland into a playground for their children.

The School Building Committee has been stymied for over a year in an attempt to buy the Schutsky property at a price reasonable enough to get state aid at an advantageous profit. The land is adjacent to the property desired by the school building committee. The five and one half acre stretch would form an acceptable L-shape stretch for school purposes.

Russell Frank, the executive officer of the Association said that the vote carried 60 to 7 in favor of relinquishing the property.

Under the terms of relinquishment the youngsters of the area would be allowed to play in the yard after school, weekends and during holiday periods.

Instead of a possible delay of two years, the school now could be started in a matter of months to be ready for occupancy next Fall.

The civic association received the land by quit-claim deed from Martin Olsen who developed the Coe Haven project. The association has spent approximately $5,000 improving the property, including $1,000 for playground equipment. Olsen, who stipulated the deed land was to be used for playground purposes, has approved its transfer to the town, Frank said.

Delay in construction of a new school in the area recently precipitated a move to oust the five-man School Building Committee, but the committee was upheld by a substantial majority at a town meeting. An attempt to acquire a portion of the Schutsky property for the school site has bogged down in the courts, leaving the town with insufficient land available to meet state aid requirements.

POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS ON UPSURGE HERE AS 648 VOTERS REGISTER

Campaigning in East Haven picked up a pace this week with the announcement from Town Clerk Margaret Tucker's office that 648 new voters were made last Saturday. Saturday's total makes a complete number of 648 new voters made in town since last town election, a year ago.

Only one more restricted session for making voters will be held previous to November 7 and that on the previous Monday when those whose rights have matured since October 21 and on or before Tuesday, November 7, shall be made voters.

Of the 1st made on Saturday 113 came from the center district; Momauguin had 30, Foxon the same number.

A surprise was registered in the West End District where 70 new persons declared themselves eligible to vote. Much of the current campaigning is being centered around the new voters since the balance of power could easily rest in the newly made voters.

East Haven has an additional interest in the November state since William Jaspers, of 132 Prospect Road, is again seeking the state Senator's post from this district. A new name has been included on the G.O.P. ticket in the person of Mrs. John Crouney of 41 Prospect Place who has replaced Mrs. Charlotte Miller, who declined the nomination after serving the town for twelve years as one of its representatives. Vincent J. Fasoano will seek reelection to the post of Representative from East Haven. Mrs. Miller is currently campaigning for Western Republican nominee for manager for Mrs. Alice Leopold of Secretary of State.

The democrats expect to make serious inroads into the G.O.P. majority of two years ago with George E. Wood of 78 Forbes Place and Herbert H. Herr of Foxon the local standard bearers as Democratic nominees for the House of Representatives.

The latter, recovering from a recent operation, was named a week ago to replace Fire Chief Thomas J. Hayes on the ballot. Hayes was the original Demie choice but resigned after having recently been appointed Fire Chief of the Town. Herr has previously served in the legislature for several terms. Wood served as second selectman in the 1930's and is the senior member, in point of service, on the Board of Finance.

Insiders in the local political arena feel that the combination will be powerful in picking up the independent vote.

DEN MOTHERS

At the recent meeting of Momauguin Pack 6, Cub Scouts at Bradford Manor Hall the following volunteered as Den Mothers: Mrs. James Bishop, Mrs. Frederick Flagg, Mrs. Frank Novak and Mrs. Nelson Merg. Alfred Walters volunteered to serve on the Pack committee and Mrs. William Porto to be publicity chairman. The pack will sponsor a paper and rags collection on Nov. 19.

Town Tax Office Readies List Of Tax Delinquents

The East Haven Tax Office is currently preparing a list of auto tax delinquents, which will be sent to the Motor Vehicle Commissioner in Hartford. Persons included in this list will not be able to renew their car registration next year until their back taxes are paid.

Walter J. Rafter, Tax Collector, stated that he is compelled by State Statute to do this each year. He is advising all delinquents by mail and recommend that they pay these taxes as soon as possible. When they are paid their names must be released through Hartford, and if a person waits too long there may be a considerable delay before this information reaches the Coffe Street office, where most registrations are renewed.

Rafter also said that veterans owning property for the first time must file their original discharges with the Town Clerk before Nov. 1, 1950 if they wish to receive exemption on auto or real estate on the October 1, 1950 grand list. After that date the Board of Assessors will be unable to, under State law, to allow exemptions.

John Houston Is Chairman Of Library Bd.

John D. Houston was re-elected chairman, and Ellsworth E. Cowles, secretary and treasurer of the board of directors of the Hagaman Memorial Library at the annual meeting Tuesday night. Committee appointments will be announced at the next meeting.

The annual report of Miss Beth Taylor, librarian, indicated that the total circulation of books for the year was 39,200, an increase of 3,250 over last year. There were a total of 2,642 borrowers of whom 548 were new. The lecture hall was used 60 times by different groups during the year and there were two art exhibits. Nineteen story hours were held for children with funds provided by the Rotary Club.

Herbert Herr, Sr., of Foxon is convalescing from an operation at Grace Hospital in New Haven. He was named last week by the Democratic Town Committee as candidate for representative in the General Assembly following the resignation of Fire Chief Thomas P. Hayes from that nomination.

A little boy was badly eating the frosting out of a cake when his mother said to him, "Why don't you eat the cake too?" "What do you think the cake is for?" The little boy said, "I don't know, but I'll eat it all if I can."

THE SNAPSHOT GUILD

It's a Matter of Thirds. We usually think of pictorial composition as a matter of thirds, rather than of mathematical selection. But, strange as it may seem, one of the simplest and most useful rules of composition has its basis in plane geometry.

This is commonly known as the "rule of thirds" and will help you to determine where in your picture to place the point, or points, of emphasis for the best effect. Such a picture is essentially a good picture. To be meaningful, a good picture must have some one thing or group of things that are the subject of the picture. It is this subject in the dead center of the picture area.

Of course, like all rules, the rule of thirds is not to be broken and used in accordance with particular situations. However, in general, it's a good guide and you will find that it works particularly well when you are dealing with action and movement.

Long before the Christian Era, primitive people were assembled by their rulers to discuss the most important matters of state. They did so by the clash of spears on shields or by the raising of spears. In the Middle Ages, the vote was given by acclamation, by division into groups, or by balloting with colored and bronze discs.

Another means used consisted of placing a pebble or little ball in an urn - hence the word "ballot" - from the Italian "ballotta," meaning a pebble. This was the crude forerunners of today's elections by machine.

Thomas A. Edison was a pioneer in the use of the first practical voting machine. In 1869, he was for an "Electrographic Vote Recorder" which he called the "Vote Recorder."

The first machine actually used in an election (in Lockport, New York, in 1892) was the invention of Jacob H. Meyers. It was a massive device, too cumbersome for widespread use throughout New York State.

In 1898 Standard Voting Machine Company's machine appeared on the market and named the Voting Machine of Jameson, N. Y., which has been used in this country. The inventor of the machine was the inventor of the machine.

The first record of the use of the ballot in America was in 1629 when the members of the Salem church chose their pastor. A few years later the Colony of Massachusetts adopted this method to elect civil magistrates.

In these early days, little secrecy was afforded the voter in marking his ballot. Each party or faction distributed its own ballots among the voters. Frequently printed on colored paper, it was readily possible to determine which ballot the voter selected.

The Australian Ballot was introduced in this country in 1888. It is the most modern system of voting. The names of all candidates for each office are grouped on the same ballot and the voter indicates his choice by marking an "X" for each candidate he favors.

This provides some measure of secrecy for the voter, yet, then, at the time the inherent weakness of any paper ballot method were evident.

During this long and romantic struggle to permit the people to decide the fate of government by secret ballot, many brilliant inventors have sought to perfect a fair, infallible, yet simple method of voting and vote counting.

Don't lister friends... Now lister friends... Come election day... Get out and vote... You've heard and whither-prayer for one of the greatest entertainers in show business, and whose last performance was held in Korea, God Bless Al Jolson.

Union Church Starts Series Of Meetings

A new Sunday evening program for adults has just been introduced at the Short Beach Union Church. The Sunday evening program has its first organization meeting at the church last Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. The Sunday Nighters plan to meet every second Sunday at 8 o'clock with the stated purpose of providing fellowship for members of the community and of increasing the relationship of religion to life through a program of lectures, forum, and discussions.

Some of the topics which have been proposed for presentation are: "The Psychological Use of the Christian Approach to Socialized Medicine," "What Separates Labor from the Church?" and "The Role of the Secular Education and Religion of our Children."

The next meeting of the group to which the public is invited will be held on Sunday evening, October 29th. At that time, the speaker will be Dr. John Oliver Nelson, former head of the Commission on the Ministry of the Federal Council of Churches, and now director of religious field work at the Yale University Divinity School. His topic will be "A Church in Search of a Community."

The occasion of the American Indian was undoubtedly the first footnote in this country, but the real beginning of the shoe industry in the United States was at Salem, Mass., in 1790.

Old Man Winter Won't Scare Cars 'Serviced' By Boldtmann's

Old Man Winter frightens many cars off the road and he'll be along soon with his freezing blasts and slippery tactics. But he won't scare your car or any car if it's "serviced" for the seasonal driving needs.

The place to go for this important work is Boldtmann's Service Station, 1183 Townsend Avenue, New Haven.

"Winterizing" cars is a feature and by expert lubrications, the right grade of motor oil, and motor tune-up, the checking of tires, battery and putting in anti-freeze, the car will be equipped. The station has a good stock of anti-freeze, but it is advisable to buy now and be sure.

This is an all-Textaco station operated by Oscar H. Boldtmann, in business five years there. He has six courteous aides.

He will get your car started for you, too, via "Community Service" plan to the stranded. Car washing is beautifully done at this station. You can buy best makes of tires there also.

Garden Notes

FALL FLOWING
Across a sea of golden stubble The plowman's strength and steady will
Is winding coils of damp black furrow
Around a capstan knob of hill.

—H. Haynes
The Branford Garden Club Study Group will meet at the Academy on November 3, at 2:45 P.M. to make scrubbooks for hospitals and other Christmas work. It is still a little too early to plant roses, yet it is high time to get the beds ready for them. To make a rose bed takes time. If the gardener is interested in first class results, it is a good thing, too, to give the soil a good chance to settle well before planting. Where roses linger for a year or two and show a rapid decline—afterward the gardener very likely just stuck them in where he thought they would look best with out realizing that the performance of the plants is limited by a restricted root area. Two feet should be the minimum depth for the planting holes.

Remember that roses must have perfect drainage or they are doomed from the start. Good garden soil, a fair percentage of humus and fertilizer placed in the layer below the roots are as important as good soil in close contact with the roots at the time of planting.

With the leaves starting to fall and the garden cleanup job proceeding week by week the compost heap should give great quantities of future organic matter to be re-applied to the garden. All disease-free plant and vegetable matter can be added to the heap and decomposition may be hastened by using a commercial product. Do not leave such items as dahlias, cannas and gladiolus to rot in the yard. They will be killed by frost. Within a few days more harm than good will result by leaving them in the soil.

This is an ideal time to transplant lilacs, they will arrive from the nursery with their root systems protected by a covering. When moved in the home garden care should be taken to assure against the root systems drying out.

Many of the deciduous trees will move well as soon as their leaves have fallen. Some exceptions are dog wood, magnolia, birch and sweet gum.

Geraniums that are to be potted and brought indoors for propagating stock should receive a severe pruning at the time of potting. The winter, very few people can afford to make fine cuttings for rooting late in the winter. Sharp sand is a good easy-to-procure rooting agent.

Carefully label all bulbs and roots that are to be stored over the winter. Very few people can afford to make fine cuttings for rooting late in the winter. Sharp sand is a good easy-to-procure rooting agent.

Hardy annuals such as larkspur may be sown within the next few weeks with assurance. They will come into flower well ahead of any spring-sown seed.

NINE STUDENTS START TEACHING EXPERIENCES

Members of the Junior Class at New Haven State Teachers College have begun their first student teaching period. For six weeks, these student teachers will work in the laboratory school: Schanton, Roger Sherman, Barnard and Ivy Street Schools, the Besty Ross Nursery School and the Child Study Center.

As part of their teacher education, these students have two practical teaching periods during their junior years, and two during the senior year; in all, twenty-four weeks of actual classroom experience, during which they work under the direction of specially trained and skilled classroom teachers.

At the beginning of this student teaching period, each student observed the work in progress in the classroom to which he is assigned. Soon, he participates in the teaching of individuals and small groups, gradually assuming more responsibility, until during the last period in his senior year, he is able to take complete charge of the classroom, always under the guidance of the regular classroom teacher.

During this work in the laboratory schools, the student teachers come in direct contact with the children, and soon know them as individuals. In the college classrooms they have studied Child Psychology, Child Development, and various techniques of teaching the various branches of learning. Here in the schools, they have an opportunity to observe these techniques in action to use them themselves, to observe and evaluate the results.

During their student teaching, the students return to the college each week for conference regarding their work. They discuss the learning situations which they have observed and which they relate their successes and try to analyze their difficulties. They receive suggestions for the improvement of their work.

This student teaching at New Haven State Teachers College is under the direction of Miss Lois King, assistant professor of education, who supervises the program. Elizabeth Briggs, Harriet Doolittle Nancy Hartgen, Loren Lehr, Lenore Palumbo and Angela Polastri are among the Branford students receiving the training.

"CHEERFUL GREETINGS"
It's great to make a brand new friend
Of those you meet each day,
To see a friendly hand extend
And hear a stranger say,
"How are you, Pal?"—it's just a phrase
But means an awful lot,
Can set the spark of hope ablaze
In those that luck forgot.

New Born Babies To Be Numbered In New Haven

New Haven—According to a federal decree, 12,000 babies born during the last two years will be numbered serially for the purpose of identification and to set a definite link between the new born babe and the record of his birth.

The task has already gotten underway, Registrar of Vital Statistics John T. Coleman announced, and the work should be completed by the staff shortly after the turn of the new year. Since the arrangements are incomplete, Coleman added, numbers will be placed on the birth registration notice issued to parents after the birth of their child.

It will be months before serial numbers will be assigned to the local office for babies born here this year. But the State Department has up to now assigned digits for over 12,000 born here in 1949 and 1950.

Birth serial numbers are so designed as to enable anybody to decode them and determine the year and state in which the birth occurred. The number consists of 11 digits which are divided into three groups. The first block of three digits refers to the state or area of birth, which is 106 for Connecticut. The second block of two digits designates the year of birth, while the third group of six numbers represents the serial registration number assigned in the area where the birth occurred.

Establishment of birth numbers, Coleman pointed out, opens up several interesting possibilities for the future, such as using the birth number as a social security number, licensing according to that number, and identification by this number for marriage, school entrance, passports, and entrance into military service.

Six hundred stewards of the South African Garment Workers Union have called on all union members to prepare for a strike late this summer when the present wage agreement expires.
