

Grady Answers Barker's Blast On Piggery Issue

Claims Melillo Was Told He Violated Law In Re: Garbage

Jerry Grady, chairman of the East Haven Zoning Commission, yesterday issued a reply to the charges of Frank A. Barker, incumbent First Selectman and candidate for First Selectman on the GOP ticket, that the Zoning Commission had not acted properly in handling the petition of Strong Street residents regarding Paquette Melillo's handling of garbage.

Grady, who is also candidate for office, as Second Selectman on the Democratic slate, claims that Barker was motivated by "the one and foremost thought... to make political hay."

The Democratic candidate also said that the "actual piggery itself was not in question (and) the board definitely stated that Mr. Melillo was in violation of zoning by dumping raw garbage on the 100 acre tract... in question."

Grady said that the board's decision was strictly non-political and will both the Democratic and Republican board members, casting a unanimous vote.

The board chairman defended his refusal to make a personal statement at the time of the hearing on the grounds that should the matter be litigated, it could be asserted in court, that he was "intimidated."

Grady's open letter to the NEWS reads as follows: "It was very much surprised to read the claim of Mr. Barker regarding the action of the zoning board in the case of the Melillo pig farm."

As to Mr. Barker's statements it would appear that either he or his semi-professional writer did not stop to check the minutes of the Zoning Commission's hearing, nor did they take time to even read the case at hand. As is the usual case in Mr. Barker's writings, statements complete disregard is given to the proper functioning of town government.

The one and foremost thought... to make political hay. True interests of proper government, which I advocate, involves integrity and truth if we are to solve the economic and social problems facing our town.

If Mr. Barker had checked with the Zoning Commission it would be very clear that the decision of the Board definitely stated that Mr. Melillo was in violation of zoning by dumping raw garbage on the 100 acre tract of land in question.

A review of the petition obtained by Mrs. Warrington and signed by some twenty-five people shows that the alleged zoning violation was against the above land and this is what the board was considering. The actual piggery itself was not in question and any action to stop the importation of garbage into the town must legally come before the Board of Selectmen. Mr. Barker is well aware of this and it only adds to the three charges

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Memon of 337 Laurel St., East Haven, announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Jane, to Anthony H. Melillo of 91 Prospect Place, Extension, East Haven. He is the twin son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Melillo.

Mr. Melillo served two years with the U. S. Army. An early Spring wedding is planned.

Mr. Melillo is attempting to organize a group of people who have a real problem.

If Mr. Barker's statement... any indication of the administration he would afford the town then it would certainly be the best of the town.

The zoning Commission rendered its decision subject to review by the Town Council.

Mr. Barker knows (also) is a qualified attorney paid by the town to give legal advice and opinions. The Melillo question is definitely loaded legally and it behooves any of us not to back adequate advice for protection of the town and to give the petitioners definite grounds to abandon in the zone violation claim.

Mr. Barker has set himself up as a presumed dictator as chairman of the board in this action. A check by the gentleman would show that the decision was strictly non-political for the vote was unanimous by both Democrats and Republicans.

Mr. Barker is well aware that I can not express my personal feelings regarding the zoning piggery question for should the case go to court it could be claimed that I had established an opinion before the case had even been presented.

For the good of our town I believe that it would be better if Mr. Barker and his well known political ghost writer would check facts before plunging into the realm of fiction. I might add that the sudden interest in a sincere problem of town people, by Mr. Barker and Mr. Venturi makes their absence from the open public hearing rather conspicuous.

Hurricane Warnings

This Sword of Damocles—

This sword of Damocles— that hangs over our heads during August and September is the threat of a tropical storm which could be used in assisting in carrying out the youth recreation program now under study.

We, in this immediate area, were very lucky that Connie didn't smash us as the '38 storm did. The danger is that Connie will be in what now seems to be the danger zone for these tropical storms. And Connie's backwash of rain certainly created a disaster unparalleled in the state's history.

As Connie's threat was somewhat dissipated ten days ago, we heard a number of people say, "It will be a long time before we hear of another hurricane so big as Connie." There's the danger!

With this thinking we entirely too had to hurt business along the shore (and hurt business these warnings most certainly do), but it's a while of a lot better to have people than to let them be practically no warnings at all. Literally hundreds of people lost their lives in consequence, and millions of dollars of damage was done that might have been prevented. Remember the scene of devastation at Essex? Beautiful hours piled on each other, and

NUTMEG NOTES

Heroes And Bums. Of the many heroes we have seen and read about, none were more numerous than the hundreds of people who went for hours on end to evacuate people, to save lives, and to start recovery from the flood.

There were acts of heroism beyond imagination, as the patrolman and his companion who sacrificed their lives attempting to save others; the man who raced into the torrent to rescue five in immediate danger of being swept away; the man who went frantically from house to house shortly after midnight to evacuate people; the police, firemen and civil defense volunteers who spent as many as 80 and more hours on their feet giving care to the doctors and nurses who defied exhaustion to see that the injured were cared for and the rest protected against disease. To name them all would be impossible. Yet there are hundreds who, with no thought for themselves did every possible, and things even superhuman, to aid.

Yet in spite of this extraordinary show of heroism, there were hordes of sightseers, blocking attempts to rescue the injured, and the police, firemen and civil defense volunteers who spent as many as 80 and more hours on their feet giving care to the doctors and nurses who defied exhaustion to see that the injured were cared for and the rest protected against disease. To name them all would be impossible. Yet there are hundreds who, with no thought for themselves did every possible, and things even superhuman, to aid.

J. D. A Political Football?

Ever since James T. Garland took office as town judge, July 1, the controversial subject of Juvenile Delinquency among the youth of East Haven has been his favorite speaking subject.

In addition, he has treated one case concerning a 16-year-old youth with the "harshness" he threatened to use before taking the oath.

Now, the Democratic Party, of which Garland is town chairman, has taken up the issue. Are they, Garland and the party's candidates sincere? Or are they using this as a political football because the issue as a whole has gained national prominence?

We cannot, as yet draw the Republican party into this subject in view of the fact that they have not issued any bombastic statements concerning juvenile delinquency, or have they stated in any way what they intend to do about it as a whole.

However, since the Democratic leaders have seen fit to publicize their attitudes towards "juvenile delinquency" in East Haven, comment will be made on this basis.

Juvenile Delinquency is far too serious a matter to bandy about lightly for the mere purpose of getting votes in the fall. It is not a thing that is prevalent only at election time—and if it exists in East Haven in abundance as stated, then the fight is not to be carried on from mid-September until Oct. 3, but it is a year-and-a-half-out task.

It is hard to believe that the Democrats are sincere in their promises to help the juveniles. Why? Their past record does not indicate, either on a personal basis, or party matter, that they have given much support to the welfare of East Haven's youth.

Judge Garland, for example, was against building enough school rooms for the children of East Haven. To, in having the appointment of a probation officer to handle the problem of juvenile delinquency, his choice was not one that was met with town-wide approval.

Neither he nor his hand-picked candidates have been noticeably active in youth recreation. Although some of the men on his ticket are successful business men, they have not seen fit to promote tennis in juvenile competition.

While they have made it a point to appear at functions where the majority in attendance are of voting age, they have been conspicuous by their absence at affairs sponsored for the youth of this town.

Many people complain that most newspapers are one-sided, that they print only a slanted version of the news. This may be true in many instances, but on the whole a newspaper tries to be fair in the dissemination of the news.

However, no paper, large or small, can possibly interview or seek out all persons whose versions or ideas differ from those printed. Therefore it is up to these people since the mountains cannot be moved, to go to the mountain, or in other words let the newspaper know your thoughts, or ideas concerning certain public issues.

This can be done through the use of letters to the editor. Such letters, while they may not be in harmony with the editor's opinions or beliefs, can be printed as open letters in a column set aside for this purpose.

By such methods you, the reader, can air your opposition or confirmation of matters that are of civic interest. In this manner you have the right to express yourself and your privilege to be heard.

It is far better to employ such a means, rather than gripe that a newspaper is unfair and that it only prints one side of an issue. The reason that many times only one side is printed is that it supplied the information and has made it readily available to the press.

Driver's Responsibility

Back to School

Noticably quiet over the holiday. Bunches deserted, fishermen are running. All roads now leading to Momauguin School.

Fred Melillo, popular captain of Branford Manor Fire Company, now convalescing at his home at Oregon Avenue. A quick recovery is the wish of all.

Saturday will be the last day for residents to be made voters, excepting those who will become 21 by October 4, when a special session will be held on October 3.

St. Mark's Allston will hold its monthly card party Friday night in the firehouse.

St. Clare's Guild will meet Monday evening in the church hall. Mrs. Edward Karmezyn will preside at the business session.

East Haven was named in 1707, originally called Iron Works Village and was incorporated from New Haven in 1785.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Buechele, 40 West Sands Road, have a baby son, Ben, at New Haven hospital, Sept. 2. Ed is a member of the town fire department, and secretary of the firefighters local group.

Many Cannon goes to sea as commander of the ferry to Barlett Post tonight. She is believed to be the first female (female) to job under $200. The brother, the local Police football team won its last game of the season last night, knocking out the New Haven Detectives 18-15.

Big blow of the game was Duke Pasarelli's home run. Frank Ranfone was on third, and tried to run on a late inning, when a single brought home the runner.

At one stage of the game the New Haveners led 9-1, but a rapid succession of hits by Walter Fleck, Al Torelli, Duke, Ranfone, Hatch, et al, brought up the score to a more even count.

John A. Vestuti GOP Nominee For 2nd Selectman

John A. Vestuti, the Republican candidate for Second Selectman, was born in New Haven on December 12, 1921. As a member of a family of retail merchants he attended and graduated from Commercial High School, now Wilbur Cross High School, in preparation for partnership in the family business.

Shortly after his graduation, Mr. Vestuti entered the U. S. Army for World War II service where he continued his studies whenever possible. After his discharge from the service he enrolled in and graduated from the Warner Electric School of Mechanical Science and in this field he became president of the Superior Manufacturing Company.

When the Vestuti family decided to move and enlarge their store, he continued his studies whenever possible. After his discharge from the service he enrolled in and graduated from the Warner Electric School of Mechanical Science and in this field he became president of the Superior Manufacturing Company.

400,000 Connecticut Youngsters Start (Arrgh) School Next Week

Soon almost 400,000 Connecticut youngsters will be walking or getting into a bus heading for school. A goodly number of them are going to be brand new scholars and this is a day of momentous change in their lives. The mixture of eagerness and reluctance with which they face this new world of school depends upon how their previous experiences have prepared them for it. Fortunately most of them are ready.

We know that many Connecticut children have benefited all during early childhood by a least one visit each year to a doctor for examination and advice to assure their best growth and development, both physical and emotional. Most have been surrounded by loving and understanding parents who have made them a good start on the road toward growing up.

To be especially certain of the child's physical readiness for school the parent should have a medical and dental examination within a year before his schooling begins. This will pay off in better teamwork and lessening of the child's anxiety. The child should be tested by the school nurse and the reading by a parent and teacher to be sure that his eyes and ears are serving him well. The school is glad to have a record of such examinations and will supply a report form to be filled out by the physician and returned to the school. The child should have had at least one recent or booster "shots" against diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus and be vaccinated against smallpox. On registration the school will find the necessary records of the physical examination and of the immunizations and need only a proof of the child's age such as a birth certificate or a record of birth registration which was sent to parents soon after his birth.

Most schools today plan registration to include an opportunity for the parent and child to see his future classroom and meet his teacher because this experience is helpful to the child, the parent and the teacher.

There are some other ways to help a child to look forward to school. However eager he may seem, he is bound to feel a little uncertain and the parent's conversation and the attitudes they exhibit about school can reassure him. He can be told that his teacher, the nurse and the other grown-ups at school are his friends and that he will have many boys and girls his own age to work and play with. Pleasant stories of the parents' own school days are fun for him to hear because he then feels he too will soon be a sharer in like experiences.

Wins Promotion

Howard Edsall of 68 East Main St., Branford, has been promoted to the position of mechanical planning engineer in the engineering department of the Southern New England Telephone Co. A graduate of Stevens Institute of Technology, Edsall joined the organization in 1932. He is married and the father of two children.

Parents should take all the opportunities they can to get acquainted with the teacher, the principal and the nurse. This will pay off in better teamwork and lessening of the child's anxiety. The child should be tested by the school nurse and the reading by a parent and teacher to be sure that his eyes and ears are serving him well. The school is glad to have a record of such examinations and will supply a report form to be filled out by the physician and returned to the school. coffee break ...

BY Esther Mock

The spanking breeze has done it again. It's loaded that first whiff of the change of seasons. As it hints at turning the leaves, it lightly turns my fancy to the most prodigious planning for fall and winter.

By October 1st, says a breathing deeply, I shall be completely organized. I shall have the household schedule running smooth as soap — split second timing on split second scheduling. We will arise bright and early for the oldest boy's departure at the in-between hour of 7:15. Forty-five minutes later, the two youngest boys will grab their lunch boxes on the way out.

At home, lunch will be served at 11:30 and 12:30, respectively for No. 2 boy, departing on a fast track, and No. 1 boy, returning for the day. And around and about, I shall be accomplishing all sorts of things I've been meaning to do—early—every day. The Christmas list will be made up almost immediately allowing plenty of time for leisurely consideration of something really nice and suitable and inexpensive and easily mailed in plenty of time.

Practically simultaneously, I shall check the names to send Christmas cards to, arranging for the notes and personal messages that give real spirit to the exchange.

As soon as the day-by-day schedule is set, we will proceed to work with a will, finding time, I am sure, for contemplation, study and the quiet depths of the joys of living. In the back of my mind, I know full well that between the last boy's getting home for a school year, something keeps telling me the 1st of October will be very much like the 1st of September was. I have an experienced feeling that I'll be looking desperately for anything to send Cousin Sue—just so she can possibly get it in time for Christmas. But the first break breezes affords cool me. You can't tell. Maybe this year will be different. . . .

Worthwhile Reading ...

... for your whole family in the world-famous pages of The Christian Science Monitor.

He calls his spade a spade—entitled "Raw Fish"—and, so far, he has 22,400 coming from the publisher for his effort. However, it will take some time for that aim to get into his hands because he is allowed only $15 a month spending money.

For some reason this story reminded me of an elderly gentleman in a home for the aged. I could hear Mr. Wright telling how difficult it was to keep the necessary equipment for writing in a small locker. He was having trouble with a title, too, when I met him.

As far as I know, Mr. Wright's book was never published, but he collected a trip to New York from California with a long enough visit to see the sights and plenty to talk about for years after his return to the home.

In New York, Mr. Wright explained to his radio audience that he had written his book—"Wright's Way" or "Wright's Without" or whatever he finally called it—because he had no letter "e" on the old typewriter he used and he wanted to see if 50,000 words.

Busy hands make happy minds at the Children's Center in Hamden where the photographer caught the occupational therapist at a convenient contact with small tots at work that's fun. Happiness is a need that is recognized and provided at this outstanding child care agency—one of the many which receives support through donations to the Branford Community Fund.

Family Life Provided For Youngsters At Children's Center; Local Fund Helps

One hundred and twenty-two years ago, a small group of women in New Haven established an institution which today stands as a safeguard to the community of Branford, as to other communities in New Haven County. It is a unique social welfare agency serving children.

Established in 1833 as the New Haven Orphan Asylum, in 1926 when it was moved to 1400 Whitney Ave., Hamden, it became the Children's Center, dedicated to the physical restoration and mental adjustment of children in need.

Today, the Children's Center, a beneficiary of the Branford Community Fund, which has served to care for 36 Branford children alone, since 1946, is considered one of the finest institutions of its kind in the world. Mrs. Beaufort H. Reeves is the Branford representative on the Board of Managers of the Children's Center.

The Children's Center is a private, non-sectarian child care agency, the only one of its kind in the entire area, pursuing a four-point program which includes institution and convalescent cottage care, foster home placement and adoption service.

Some 6,316 days' care have been given to the 36 Branford children at a total cost of $37,000. Of this amount, approximately $23,000 has been received by the agency from Branford from the town, agencies or parents referring children, last year's contribution from the Branford Community Fund and private donations.
