Former Road Foreman Denies He Quit; Says Reason For Firing Was That He Supported The Republicans

DeCrosta Claims His Fellow Workers Quit When He Was Fired

Benny DeCrosta, former road foreman for the Town of East Haven, and member of the town highway department for 16 years, said yesterday that he didn't quit as was reported but that he was fired when the Democrats returned to office under First Selectman Dominick H. Ferrara.

"They said I quit," DeCrosta said, "that isn't true. They let me go."

"I showed up Tuesday morning," DeCrosta continued, "to give them the keys. This is the usual custom when a new first selectman comes into office. When I walked in Longobardi (Salvatore Longobardi the tax collector), did all the talking."

"He said to me 'Well you worked for the Republicans so we can't keep you.' With that I walked out."

The former road foreman admitted that he did work for the Republican party, but that was "nothing new, for he had always been a Republican, and openly held out as such, during the 16 years he worked for the town."

What irks the former town employee is the fact that it was announced that he failed to show up for work on the morning following Ferrara's election, therefore it was assumed he had quit the town job.

"Why shouldn't I show up?" DeCrosta asked. "I always showed up after election. I worked for 12 years under Jim Sullivan, a Republican; two years under Clancy, a Democrat; two years under Barker a Republican and the last two years under Clancy again."

"Speaking of Clancy," he went on, "he was always very nice to me. On the day after election, when he first went into his office (1949) I went into his office to turn in my keys. He wasn't there so I left the keys in the office. Later that day he called and said: 'What's the matter Benny aren't I good enough for you to work for?' I said he was and he told me to come back and pick up my keys."

"When my men found out I wasn't going to work, all quit with the exception of one man. They told me 'We feel sorry for you and for the years you put in.'"

Women's Club Hold Drive For Sight Saving Organization

The East Haven Women's Club is collecting old eye glasses, or frame and soft cases which cannot be used any longer and are asking that they be left in the Welfare Office in the Town Hall.

New Eyes for the Needy, Inc., is a non-profit organization, sponsored by the Junior Service League of Short Hills, N. J. Volunteers sort old eye glasses, odd bits of jewelry or scraps of gold and silver sent in from all over the country. The metal frames and gold and silver are sent to a refinery, while the plastic glasses are set aside for future use.

With the funds obtained from melting down the gold and silver, New Eyes purchases new prescription glasses and artificial eyes for the needy. This is done by establishing funds with hospitals in many major cities.

Any hospital or accredited agency may receive assistance for purchase of glasses upon request. Any individual may apply directly to New Eyes for glasses, and after their need has been certified, New Eyes pays for the prescribed glasses.

The plastic glasses set aside are classified according to various categories. "Simple magnifying and near-sighted glasses, sunglasses, cataract glasses and good frames are distributed for use through hospitals, missions and welfare organizations at home and as far away as the Philippines, India and Africa."

South End Assn. Purchases Land For Club House

The South End Civic Association has announced that it has purchased several acres of land on Old Town Highway, which will be used to erect their proposed club house.

To date the association has raised about $1,000 in funds to be used to finance the construction of the club house. However, until such time as construction gets underway the land will be used as a playground.

A landscape engineer will advise the group as to the most appropriate site on the land for the building. At present plans are being made to clear land and establish a picnic grove.

Mental Health Head Announces Start Of Xmas Gift Campaign

Mental Health Commissioner John J. Blasko announced today the start of the seventh annual Christmas Gift Campaign for the patients in Connecticut's three state mental hospitals.

Dr. Blasko said, "Two developments create the potential for the most successful Christmas Gift Program yet held."

"First, our hospitals have been making every effort to expand their treatment programs, including the use of the so-called tranquilizing drugs. The overall results have been good. Many patients who formerly were agitated or withdrawn are now calmed, are interested in their health and appearance, their surroundings, and in other people."

"In this improved setting the community can play an important role in the patients' behalf, and can do this at present through the Christmas Gift Program. The patients need and can use, and enjoy the thousand and one items which we who are not hospitalized take for granted — items such as articles of wear, cosmetics, books, handkerchiefs, tobacco, etc."

"But a gift to a patient has a worth far greater than its usefulness. It has a meaning of community interest and kinship which mentally ill people greatly need."

The Commissioner of Mental Health cited as the second development the organization of volunteer organizations and auxiliaries at the three state mental hospitals.

He said, "Many people are becoming active in working with the patients in the wards or working for them in the auxiliary movements. It is expected that a large part of their activity in the coming weeks will be devoted to the Christmas Gift Campaign both in and outside the hospitals."

The Campaign is intended to aid nearly 9,000 patients at Connecticut, Norwich and Fairfield State Hospitals. Each hospital will have a list of the location of receiving depots.

Al "Butch" Mellito, co-captain and right tackle, of the East Haven football team, was chosen the player of the week for his work in the Shelton game Friday night. $1,572,763 Budget For 1955 - 56 Approved By Voters Monday Night

Estimated Tax Rate Set At 34 Mills As Less Than 200 Attend

In a very quiet and orderly session, the voters of East Haven approved the 1955-56 budget at a town meeting held Monday night in the high school auditorium.

The meeting, which was called to approve a budget figure of $1,572,763 and set the tax rate at 34 mills, was attended by less than 150 people.

Although the budget is $143,240 greater than that of 1954-55, the decrease in the tax rate can be attributed to the $1,600,000 rise in the grand list. The present grand list figure is $35,372,450. Also a key factor in reducing the tax rate is the increase in state aid to schools, which is about $90,000. The town will also receive $11,139 in other indirect revenues.

The estimated direct revenues was set at $1,202,000.

Largest single item in the budget was the school funds which was set at $900,593, an increase of $145,705 over last year. Judge of the town court, presided over the orderly meeting which lasted a mere 45 minutes.

The only item on the agenda that was disputed was that of selecting the nine member Board of Directors for the Hagaman Memorial Library.

The power of a town meeting to make such appointments was disputed by Matthew Anastasio, Republican town chairman, who maintained the names of candidates for such a board should have been included on the voting machines on election day.

The meeting went off smoothly until the motion for adjournment was raised. At this point, a gentleman attempted to introduce a motion from the floor, but Fasnano ruled him out of order and allowed the motion to adjourn to carry.

As a result of the increase in indirect aid and in the town's grand list, it was felt that a 34 mill tax, a one mill decrease in last year's mill rate, would be sufficient to raise the funds necessary for the budgeted items.

Open Date This Week For Local Gridders; Oppose Woodrow Wilson High School Here Next Saturday

East Haven High School's football team enjoyed a quiet week this week, with practice sessions being held to a minimum.

With the scalps of the tough Shelton Gaels hanging from their lodge, the local eleven have an off day Saturday, their last open date of the season.

On the following Saturday afternoon they collide with Woodrow Wilson High School of Middletown at the local field. Beginning with W. Wilson, the Blue and Gold team will be occupied on successive Saturdays by langling with Wallingford on Oct. 29; Seymour, there on Nov. 5; North Haven, there on Nov. 12; Southington, away, Nov. 19, and Branford, Nov. 25.

This week's rest should prove helpful to several of the local players who have been all but sidelined by injuries. Harry Lage's bruised hip should be better by this week's lay off, as should Butch Mellito's knee.

A few others have picked up bruises on the various parts of their anatomies but all should be in good condition when they resume play against the Middletown eleven.

In going against Wilson, the local's will be sporting an undefeated streak, having downed St. Mary's of New Haven 32-6 prior to handing Shelton their first defeat of the season to the tune of 13-0.

Board Of Education Hold Organizational Meeting At High School Friday Night

The East Haven Board of Education will hold an organizational meeting tomorrow night in the board room at the high school.

There will be an election for chairman, vice chairman and secretary.

At the present the officers are Francis Walsh, as chairman, Elizabeth Chapkovich vice chairman and Bernard Luongo, secretary.

There has been talk that Walsh and Luongo will not receive the support of the other Democratic members of the board, due to the fact that these two members supported Frank S. Clancy in his unsuccessful bid for nomination as First Selectman. Following this, the two men resigned from the Democratic Town Committee.

"They may receive support from the Republicans, who are in minority, three members to six Democrats."

If Walsh and Luongo do get the support of the GOP members, this would make the alignment five to four in favor of the Republican — dissident Democratic coalition.

Following the organizational meeting there will be a business meeting of the board.

Women Voter's League Submit Survey Results On 'Know Your Town'

Reports on the Know Your Town Survey, a study of East Haven, were heard by members of the East Shore Unit of the League of Women Voters at their meeting held last Thursday evening at the Hagaman Memorial Library in East Haven.

The elected and appointed officials of the Town of East Haven, their responsibilities, and the salaries they receive were listed by Mrs. Anthony DeMayo in her review of the structure of the town government. Mrs. Francis Flood discussed the town's election laws and the regulations applying to registration and voting. She also described the organization of the Republican Party in East Haven. Mrs. Charles Nichol reported on the Democratic Party organization in East Haven.

A discussion of recreational facilities, including both those operated by the town, and those provided by other organizations, was presented by Mrs. E. W. Muehl. The information for these reports was obtained from the town's documents and records, and from interviews with town and party officials.

The survey is a first step toward the formation of a League of Women Voters of East Haven. At present the East Shore Unit is part of the Greater New Haven League. Mrs. Nichol, in a brief discussion of the League's organization and activity, pointed out that study and action on local issues will be made possible by the formation of an East Haven League.

Mrs. Raymond Greene, chairman of the unit, presided over the meeting. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Will Remain On The Board Of Selectmen; No Permits Issued To Canna On Six Houses

Third Selectman Frank A. Barker, the Republican candidate for First Selectman during the last election campaign announced yesterday that he never again will seek public office.

However, Barker said he will remain on the present board of Selectmen until his term is up in October, 1957.

In the same statement sent to the NEWS Barker also criticized assistant building inspector Thomas Frisco, and Frisco's father-in-law, James Canna, a member of the Board of Finance for the fact that six houses now being erected by Canna have not had building permits issued for them.

Barker stated that the attacks upon his character by the Democratic Party during the last campaign are instrumental in his giving up running for public office.

"The election is over and won," Barker said, "but the attack on my character is something I do not intend to forget or let it drop. . . I intend to keep the people informed. . . I now intend to publish some facts."

The "fact" Barker released in his statement is that on two different occasions, he, Barker, checked the permits issued by the building inspector's office. On both these occasions Sept. 30 and last Tuesday, there was no record of the permits being issued.

The houses, being erected by Canna on which no permits are recorded are in Foxon and are lots number six, seven, eight, 63, 66 and 67 on Pineview Drive.

Barker's statement is as follows:

To the Editor
After a week of thinking about the recent town election, and listening to some of the stories that have come to light since then, I have decided that I never again will seek public office. When a political party gets so low that it will lie about a man's honesty and try to ruin his character in order to win an election, and enough people vote for that party so that it wins, there is little hope for the honest man.

The election is over and won, but the attack on my character is something I do not intend to forget or let it drop. I am still a member of the Board of Selectmen and will be in a position to know what is going on in town government. I intend to keep the people informed of what happens, and my words cannot be laughed off as political talk because I have already stated that I will not run for office again. I ran a clean campaign, but my opponents used dirt that was all false. I now intend to publish some facts. This is my fact for this week.

The new Democratic member of the Board of Finance is James Canna, who is also a builder. He is building houses in Foxon. Six of these houses are nearly completed, but no building permits have ever been issued for them. The building inspector who is supposed to issue permits is the son-in-law of James Canna. I checked this on the last day of the fiscal year, Sept. 30th, and I checked again on October 11th. When building permits are issued it tells the tax assessors that taxable property is being built. No building permit, no assessment unless the assessor catch the information by accident.

Also I could not find any record that James Canna had taken out a bond to make sure that the roads he is building are built to meet the legal specifications for roads in East Haven. The houses without permits are on lots numbered 6-7-8-61-66 and 67 on Pineview Drive. I have information on some other things that I will publish as soon as I have collected all the facts. Very truly yours,
Frank A. Barker.

Jaycee Group May Come To Branford; Meeting Monday

The New Haven Jaycees will hold an organizational meeting at the Elks Club with the young men of Branford on Monday at 8 p.m. The object of this meeting is to explain the purpose and operation of the organization and to answer questions as to why Branford should have a Junior Chamber of Commerce.

All young men between the ages of 21 and 35 have been invited to attend this organizational meeting. The Branford Chamber of Commerce has already given the Jaycees enthusiastic support and has urged all young men in Branford to seriously consider the opportunities available through participation in a Jaycee group.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is an organization which helps young men develop leadership training to actively participate in community and civic projects. The task of community building is not a job for a single organization since varying needs produce different organizations. The Junior Chamber of Commerce meets the needs of young men. As such, it fills a gap in the organization of the community. Although Jaycees are a separate organization, it sometimes does it's best work in cooperation with other local groups.

Through active participation in a Jaycee in Branford the organization will offer the individual an opportunity to take part in a wide scope of community activities. Leadership training is also

The "peak" of the season for many of the family favorite foods is here. Current market reports indicate that the supply of peaches, apples, pears, plums, tomatoes and peppers are plentiful and cheap. This is a sign that Connecticut housewives to be sure can afford to eat these fruits and vegetables at this time. A lot of times

NUTMEG NOTES

Pentagon Code

The solution to the prisoners of war problem won't be found in the Pentagon's new code of six commandments for POWs. The code which says generally, "Be a good American and don't let the Communists break you. If you do crack, you're on your own. If you can prove you were brain-washed, chances are you won't go to jail."

This code has created much controversy, and in addition to the issuance of the new code, a peculiar sort of training is being attempted in at least one small fraction of service men, a training along the lines of the persecution and cruelties suffered by some of our returned prisoners, according to their stories.

As described they seem cruel and senseless. By what process of thinking does an army brass hat think a man can be hardened to persecution without eventually breaking if they are continued long enough?

Reports we have read seemed to reach the conclusion that the mental effects from such cruelties are lasting with some young men. How can anyone imagine that a human being can be so injured to such things as prying up a fingernail or burning a face or a foot? If continued long enough I would judge an, and all would break.

How unrealistic can a top service man in our Pentagon get?—From the Stafford Press.

Yankee Anom

The Old Lyme congregation which has called a Negro pastor, has moved human dignity forward several paces. The unanimity of their spontaneous reaction to his spirituality and personality will, of course, hearten those of his race everywhere.

But the more important effect is upon those of another color, who constitute the vast majority of that community and this state. The self-confidence which this news-making decision implies is a great credit to Old Lyme. It suggests a grown-upness which New England, at its best, cherishes. And it lays the groundwork for a period of usefulness to his parishioners during which the Rev. Simon P. Montgomery can serve without curse of intolerance and the blight of curiosity.—From the West Hartford News.

Veeps

Mergers have been responsible to a large extent for the armies of Vice Presidents, or Veeps. Some time ago three banks joined together mutually, voluntarily, and the new consolidated bank had to take care of all the high brass.

Said one of them to a new and agreeable golf partner a few months later, "We ought to know each other better. I am Vice President of the Gollath National Bank." "I," said the other, "am Vice President of the Gollath National Bank."

And according to Fortune magazine, the tribe of Veep has not failed to increase. There are 250,000 of them in American business and industry (one huge bank has 146), most of them holding the title because important customers like to feel they are dealing with important officials.

All of which suggests vaguely something we have read about the number of generals in Latin-American armies. But in business it must pay off. —From the Stafford Press.

Primaries Needed

We were very much impressed with Governor Ribicoff's complete candor and his sincerity during an hour-long press conference he held with members of the Connecticut Editorial Association at a meeting held in Lakeville a few days ago.

Questioned closely about the debacle in Hartford during the closing days of the regular session of the Assembly, the Governor made no attempt to duck any questions nor to flib. He explained his preparations for the special session in detail and most certainly gave the impression that the state was in competent hands.

We were particularly impressed with what he had to say about the proposed state primary. The Governor is not one who believes that a primary, instead of the caucus-convention system, is the answer to better government. One thing that he said talking about the theory of the primary brought you up with a start:

"Starting with Governor Wilbur Cross, down through Baldwin, McCaughy, Shannon, Bowles and Lodge, where on earth could you find finer, more able men—all products of the caucus-convention system? Do you believe we would have better Governors than these men if we had had a primary?"

However, the Governor said categorically that he would sign the primary bill which was passed by the Senate at the late lamented session . . . a bill which extended the primary to all the 169 towns in the state, not just to the larger cities. He believed that the bill was worth while, he said. This is the bill which was passed by the House at the special session.

Frankly, we're not of the opinion either, that the primary is the sole answer to better government. We realize that there are faults in a primary. But we do feel that it is an absolute necessity to make democracy function more completely in this state. We believe it helps to keep the control where it belongs—in the hands of the voters and out of the hands of a few political big shots. We agree with the Governor that we've been darned lucky in Connecticut in the type of man who has occupied the Governor's chair. We doubt if better, more dedicated men could possibly be found, nor that any primary would have found better men for the job . . . but we do sincerely believe that a primary would have improved the quality of many other office holders in spots under the Governor's position . . . and it would have encouraged more people of genuine ability and outstanding calibre to consider running for office, we believe. —From The Deep River New Era.

Opinion Is Needed

A newspaper, we believe, must have an opinion.

Though the issue may be a controversial one, though we may hurt someone's feelings, though you may not agree with us—we must have an opinion.

A newspaper is fulfilling only half its obligation to the public if it presents news, but neglects its editorial voice.

Editorial opinions are not for the mere purpose of influencing the public to the newspapers' point of view. They are more frequently a method of getting the issue into the public mind, presenting food for thought, and demanding that attention be given the issue.

Though the end result may not coincide with the newspaper's viewpoint, it generally coincides with the wishes of the majority. It does this because the issue was brought to the attention of the public, and definite action was taken.

Though you may not agree with all or any of the opinions voiced in these columns, all is not lost.

Your recourse is to write us a letter and tell us what you believe to be faulty in our analysis of the situation. We'll be glad to mull over your thoughts on the subject, and even present them to our readers if you desire. —From the East Hartford Gazette.

Local Retail Stores Announce Shopping Hours For Yuletide

The retail stores of East Haven have set their schedule of store hours for the coming Christmas shopping season, the Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday.

The present plans call for stores to be open until 9 p. m. on Dec. 1, 2, 8, 9, 15, 16 and from Dec. 19 through Dec. 24, when the stores will close at 6 p. m.

E.H. Days Postponed

The Chamber of Commerce announced that the scheduled East Haven Days sales promotion, set for the latter part of this month has been postponed until Spring due to the fact that the program if held on schedule would conflict with other Chamber activities.

United Fund Up To $463,212 Mark Toward 1955 Goal

Another step towards the United Fund goal of $1,377,682 was taken on Tuesday when volunteers in the current United Fund-Red Cross campaign reported $190,688 in new gifts and pledges. This boosts the total to $463,212 for 33.6 percent of the goal.

The Dutch-treat report luncheon was held in the Jewish Community Center with more than 200 persons present. The next report luncheon will be held Wednesday. Another luncheon will be held on October 24, and the final dinner is set for October 27. All meetings will be held in the New Haven Jewish Community Center, a United Fund agency.

Campaign chairman Edward L. Flahive praised the volunteers for their efforts and urged them to continue the good work. He told them that they emphasize to potential contributors that each gift has to be divided among 43 agencies. "Divide one dollar 43 ways and you get less than three cents per agency . . . not even enough for a postage stamp," he said. "Without the United Fund the agencies would all have to campaign separately . . . so let's remind our people to give enough for all 43."

Flahive also emphasized the low cost of raising funds for that many different services when it is done the United way. "Actually the total expense of raising $1,377,682 is only two percent of that figure, which makes it one of the most efficient and economical campaigns in the country," he said. "All but two cents of every dollar given to the drive goes right to the people who need help."

Laundry Schools To Be Conducted Here

Two laundry schools will be held tomorrow (Friday) at the Shoreline Electric Co. on Main St., which will demonstrate, among other things, methods to be used in laundering nylon and orlon knitted garments automatically so that they will keep their original size and beauty. Herbert Feeley, Shoreline Electric's Norge dealer, has announced that Norge "Laundermas" will be held from 1 to 3 p. m., and again from 7 to 9 p. m., at the store.

Miss Margaret Edwards, home economist for the Norge organization, will show homemakers of Branford how to keep synthetic fabrics beautiful through repeated automatic launderings. Miss Edwards will also demonstrate methods to be used to avoid shrinking, pulling and other common troubles. Feeley reports that the home economist will also be available to answer questions on laundering problems.
